At the Twenty-fifth Annual Meeting of the Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East, held in Freemasons' Hall, Great Queen Street, on Tuesday, May 3, 1825.

The Right Hon. LORD GAMBIER, Vice-Patron and President, in the Chair.

The Report of the Committee having been read by the Secretaries, and the Statement of the Accounts of the Twenty-fifth Year,

On a Motion by the Right Hon. Lord Bexley, seconded by the Very Reverend the Dean of Salisbury,

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That the Report, an Abstract of which has been read, be received and printed, under the direction of the Committee; and that this Meeting feels unfeigned thankfulness to God for the large increase in the Society's Income during the Year just closed, and for the various indications of a cordial reception of Divine Truth by the Heathen which the Report records.

On a Motion by the Right Hon. Lord Calthorpe, seconded by Lieut. Col. Phipps,

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That, recognising the efficacy, under the Blessing of God, of Female Influence, when rightly directed, in instilling and cherishing early principles of piety, and thus not only meliorating the condition of Human Society, but widely diffusing the most substantial blessings, the Meeting rejoices in the formation, under distinguished patronage, of the Calcutta Native Female-School Society; and earnestly recommends the support of the Fund opened in this Country, in aid of that Institution.

On a Motion by the Rev. John William Cunningham, seconded by the Rev. Charles James Hoare,

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That this Meeting learns with cordial satisfaction, the opening of the Society's Institution at Islington for the preparation of Missionaries for their arduous labours; and, that looking at the advantages which may reasonably be expected from an Establishment of this nature, and at the inadequacy of the supply of Teachers hitherto placed at the disposal of the Committee, the Meeting calls on the friends of the Society to supplicate the Blessing of Almighty God on an undertaking so intimately connected with the efficiency of the Society's operations.

On a Motion by the Right Hon. Sir G. H. Rose, Bart. M.P., seconded by the Rev. R. P. Beachcroft,

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That, though this Meeting has to deplore in the West-Africa Mission occurrences of a painful nature, arising out of the death and removal of many of the Society's Labourers, yet past experience of the happy effects, under the Divine Blessing, of the wise and affectionate discharge of the Christian Ministry among the Liberated Africans, encourages the Meeting to look forward to similar results when the Mission shall be adequately supplied with Labourers; which it is hoped will be accomplished by the acceptance, on the part of a sufficient number of Clergymen, of the proposal for Limited Service in Africa, lately issued by the Committee.

On a Motion by the Right Hon. the Earl of Rocksavage, seconded by the Rev. Fountain Elwin,

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That, adverting to the experience derived through a period of twenty-five years, this Meeting desires to cherish among the Members of the Society simplicity of intention in prosecuting its great object; fervent prayer to Almighty God for His favour and blessing; and entire dependence for success on the influences of the Holy Spirit alone.

On a Motion by James Stephen, Esq., jun. seconded by the Rev. William Dealtry,

RESOLVED UNANIMOUSLY,

That the sincere thanks of the Society be given to the Noble President of the Institution, to the other Vice-Patrons, and to the Vice-Presidents, for their continued protection; to the Treasurer, for his assistance; to the Rev. J. B. Sumner, M.A. for his valuable Sermon before the Society last evening; to such Clergymen and other Gentlemen as have, during the last year, prepared or supported Associations; to the Younger Friends of the Society; to those Ladies who, in various places, have very successfully exerted themselves in promoting its interests; and to the Committee for their exertions: and that the following Gentlemen are appointed the Committee for the ensuing year. (See List, after Vice-Presidents.)

XIII. The Office of the Committee of Patronage is, to procure patronage and support to the Society; and to nominate, to the General Committee, proper persons, as Patrons, Vice-Patrons, and Vice-Presidents of the Society.

XIV. The Office of the Committee of Funds, is to circulate information respecting the Institution; to adopt proper means of augmenting the Subscriptions and Benefactions; to obtain Collections in Churches and Chapels; and to nominate, from time to time, to the General Committee, suitable persons to act as agents for the Society in the principal towns throughout the Empire.

XV. The Office of the Committee of Correspondence, is, to seek for proper Missionaries, to superintend their instruction, and to correspond with them when sent out.

XVI. The Office of the Committee of Accounts is, to see that the Subscriptions are duly received, regulate the accounts, and undertake the charge of fitting out and conveying the Missionaries to their places of destination.

XVII. The General Committee shall receive the Reports of the other Committees, shall appoint the places where Missions shall be attempted, shall direct the scale upon which they shall be conducted, and shall superintend the affairs of the Society in general.

XVIII. The General Committee shall meet on the Second Monday in every Month, and oftener if needful, the other Committees as often, and at such places, as shall be by them agreed on: their Meetings to be always opened with reading a Form of Prayer composed for that purpose, or one or more suitable prayers selected from the Liturgy. Five Members shall be necessary to compose a General Committee, and Three each of the others. In case of equality of votes, the Chairman shall be entitled to a second or casting vote.

XIX. The Patrons, Vice-Patrons, and President, Vice-Presidents, Treasurer, Secretaries, and Assistant Secretary shall be considered ex-officio Members of all Committees.

XX. Governors, being Members of the Established Church, shall be entitled to attend and vote at all Meetings of the General Committee.

XXI. All Payments on account of the Society shall be signed by Three of the General Committee, in Committee, and the Secretary or Assistant Secretary.

XXII. The Committee shall have power to appoint such Officers and Assistants as they shall deem necessary for the well-conducting of the affairs of the Society, subject to the approbation of the next Annual Meeting.

XXIII. Five Auditors shall be appointed by the Committee annually, for the purpose of auditing the Accounts of the Society, of whom Three shall be chosen from the General Body. Three shall be a Quorum.

XXIV. The Life Subscriptions, or a sufficient part thereof, to be equal to the Subscriptions of the existing Members for Life, shall be placed in the Public Funds, in the names of Four of the General Committee; who, on their acceptance of the trust, shall sign a declaration of the nature of it, and that they will relinquish the same whenever called upon for that purpose by the General Committee.

OF MISSIONARIES.

XXV. In the appointment of Candidates for the Missionary Office, the following course shall be pursued.——The Committee of Correspondence having found a person supposed to be suitable, shall determine by ballot to nominate him to the General Committee. Previous to the day of nomination, each Member of the General Committee shall receive notice of such nomination. On the day of nomination, a report shall be made by some Member of the Committee of Correspondence of his qualifications, and the General Committee shall then proceed to ballot for him, unless any Member shall declare that he wishes for further information; in which case the ballot shall be deferred till the next meeting of the General Committee. In the ballot of either Committee, the agreement of at least three-fourths of the Members present shall be necessary to his election.

XXVI. A Candidate thus chosen shall receive instruction in such parts of knowledge, and be prepared in such a manner for his future employment, as the Committee of Correspondence shall judge expedient.

XXVII. If, during such preparation, any Two Members of the General Committee should see cause to disapprove of his principles or conduct, they may submit the subject to a special meeting of the Committee; and, if deemed proper, the Committee may appoint another ballot to determine whether he shall be continued as a Candidate; of which special notice shall be given to each Member.

XXVIII. Each Candidate shall consider himself as engaged to go to any part of the world, and at any time, which the Committee shall choose; respect however being had to his personal circumstances, or to any previous stipulation made by him with the Society. As soon as he quits England, he shall keep a regular Journal of his studies and proceedings; a copy of which he shall send, as often as opportunity shall serve, to the Secretary.

XXIX. Each Candidate, after due preparation, shall, if not admitted to Holy Orders, be appointed by the Committee to act as a Catechist. If admitted to Holy Orders, he shall be appointed a Missionary.

XXX. The Missionaries who go out under the direction of this Society shall be allowed to visit home, permission having been previously obtained from the General Committee: and after having laboured in the cause of the Society to the satisfaction of the Committee, at the Stations committed to their care, until age or infirmity prevent further exertion, suitable provision shall be made to render their remaining days comfortable. The General Committee shall have the power to assist also, in particular cases, the dependent relatives of those Missionaries, who, by devoting themselves to the service of the Society, are prevented from contributing to their support.

XXXI. A friendly intercourse shall be maintained with other Protestant Societies engaged in the same benevolent design of propagating the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

XXXII. It is recommended to every Member of the Society to pray to Almighty God for a blessing upon his designs, under the full conviction, that, unless he "prevent us in all our doings with his most gracious favour, and further us with his continual help," we cannot reasonably hope to meet with persons of a proper spirit and qualifications to be Missionaries, or expect their endeavours to be crowned with success.

By MISSIONARY, in the preceding List, is to be understood one who has been admitted to Holy Orders—by TEACHER, one who, not having been Ordained, engages, as a Catechist, in such religious care and general instruction of the people as may be consistent with his character as a Layman—by ASSISTANT, one who is chiefly occupied in School Instruction, as Superintendant, Master, Mistress, or Usher.

CHURCH MISSIONARY ASSOCIATIONS.

WHEN a disposition appears in any place to assist the designs of the Society by establishing an Association in its support, a Meeting of persons favourable to such a measure should be called. The friends who meet for this purpose should form themselves into a "Church Missionary Association, in aid of the Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East;" and should proceed to appoint a Committee and proper Officers.

In large Towns, comprehending several Parishes, it may be expedient to appoint a President, Vice-Presidents, a Treasurer, and a Secretary; with a pretty numerous Committee, composed of persons from the different parishes.

In Parochial Associations, a Treasurer, a Secretary, and a smaller Committee, under the Presidency of the Clergyman, may be best suited to conduct the business.

It may sometimes be found expedient to form Associations in Separate Congregations in the same Parish, rather than one Association in the parish at large; and in this case also, a Treasurer, Secretary, and Committee, under the Presidency of the Clergyman, will suffice to accomplish the object.

In a Voluntary Union of Friends, whether the members of the same family, the children of a school, or persons connected by affinity or friendship, such arrangements may be made as may prove most convenient to themselves.

In this manner, benevolent persons, willing to assist the designs of the Society, from the domestic circle to the largest town, may unite for a purpose most beneficial to their own minds, while it expresses a due regard to the glory of God in the salvation of the Heathen, and a proper sense of their own infinite obligations to Divine Mercy.

LAWS AND REGULATIONS SUITABLE FOR ASSOCIATIONS.

I. Annual Members of this Association shall be, all persons subscribing annually One Guinea or upward, or, if Clergymen, Half-a-Guinea; and also such Persons as shall collect in its behalf One Shilling or upward per week.

II. Life Members shall be Benefactors of Ten Guineas or upward, or, if Clergymen, such as shall contribute Congregational Collections to the amount of Twenty Guineas, and Executors paying bequests of Fifty Pounds.

III. Annual Governors shall be Subscribers of Five Guineas per Annum.

IV. Life Governors shall be Benefactors of Fifty Pounds.

V. Members will be entitled to receive the Reports of this Association, and also the Annual Reports of the Parent Society, and to vote at all their General Meetings: but Collectors of One Shilling and upward per week will further receive a Copy of each Monthly Number of the Missionary Register.—Governors will be entitled to receive the Reports; and, if Members of the Established Church, to vote at all Committee and General Meetings of both the Association and the Parent Society.—Clergymen will have the same privilege as Governors.

VI. The business of the Association shall be under the management of a Patron, a President, Vice-Presidents, a Treasurer, Secretaries, Governors, and a Committee not exceeding ——— Lay Members of the Established Church, and of all Clergymen who are Members of this Association. The Committee to meet on the ——— in the months of January, April, July, and October, at ——— o'clock; Five Members being competent to act.

VII. The object of the Committee shall be, to call forth the zeal of well-disposed Persons, and particularly those of the Established Church, in support of the Church Missionary Society; and to recommend proper persons who may offer themselves as Missionaries to the Parent Society—to disperse as widely as possible Missionary Information—to promote the formation of Branch Associations—and to procure Collections and other Contributions.

VIII. The whole of the Funds so obtained, after deducting incidental expenses only, shall be remitted to the Church Missionary Society in aid of its designs.

IX. A General Meeting shall be held annually, on such day in the month of ——— as shall be found expedient (of which due notice shall be given), when a Report of the Proceedings of the Association shall be presented.

LADIES' ASSOCIATIONS.

RULES RECOMMENDED FOR ADOPTION BY LADIES' CHURCH-MISSIONARY ASSOCIATIONS.

I. THAT an Association be now formed, in connection with the ——— Church-Missionary Association, and that it be denominated "The Ladies' Church-Missionary Association for ——— and its Vicinity."

II. That every person subscribing One Penny per Week or upward, or Sixpence per Month or upward, be a Member of this Association, and, as such, be supplied with a copy of the Quarterly Papers of the Society.

III. That this Association be under the direction of a President, Treasurer, One or more Secretaries, and a Committee; consisting of all such Ladies as collect One Shilling and upward per week; who shall be respectively furnished with a copy of the Missionary Register and the Annual Report of the Parent Society, copies of the Quarterly Papers for the use of their Contributors, and Annual Collecting Cards to assist them in gathering the Weekly and Monthly Contributions.

IV. That the Committee meet on the ———* day in the months of January, April, July, and October, at Twelve o'clock precisely; when the Members shall pay the amount of their Collections to the Treasurer, and receive the requisite number of Quarterly Papers for their Subscribers.

V. That a statement of the accounts of this Association be annually prepared at a special Meeting of the Committee, preceding the Anniversary of the "——— Church-Missionary Association;" and, after being signed by the Treasurer and two of the Committee, shall be transmitted to the Secretaries of the said Association.

* When these Regulations have been adopted, it will be proper to appoint the President, Treasurer, and Secretary of the Association, and to take down the Names of Collectors.

The Day of Meeting should be fixed with reference to the times of receiving the Quarterly Papers, which are despatched from London on the First Day of the respective Months specified in the Rule.

N.B. The only BOOKS required by a Ladies' Association, are,

1. A Minute Book, to be kept by the Secretary, wherein the Proceedings of every Committee Meeting should be entered.
2. A Cash Book, to be kept by the Treasurer, wherein the amounts received from the Collectors, Quarterly, should be entered, as well as all payments on account of the Association.

The Secretary should always keep a stock of Collectors' Cards, for the supply of the Members.

All Communications relative to Associations may be addressed to the Secretaries, at the Church Missionary House, Salisbury Square, Fleet Street, London; where every information and assistance may be obtained in the establishment and support of Associations.

NOTICE RESPECTING COLLECTORS.

BY Collectors is to be understood Persons who gather, in behalf of the Society, the Contributions of such of their Friends as may be able and willing to render assistance to the great Work of Christian Charity in which the Society is engaged, but who may not have it in their power to give their Annual Guinea.

Those who may have leisure for this service, are Members of the Society, so long as their Collections amount to Fifty-two Shillings per Annum. They may collect this sum in such way—weekly, monthly, or quarterly—as may best suit their own convenience, and that of the Contributors.

Collectors will, of course, exercise due discrimination. While they bestow their own time on this work, from a just conviction of the misery of the Heathen and the duty of sending to them the Gospel, they should ask no contributions but from such as may be able to give them; and should endeavour that their contributors may give on the same just sense of duty as they act themselves.

For this purpose, they will be regularly supplied, on writing to the Secretaries, with the Numbers of the Missionary Register, and Tracts calculated to diffuse information and excite attention, and with Cards to assist them in making their Collections. They will be furnished, also, with a sufficient quantity of Quarterly Papers, to supply a Copy to each Contributor. These Quarterly Papers consist of a few pages of striking Facts and Anecdotes; with Addresses and Exhortations, adapted to the level of the Labouring Classes and the Young; and are illustrated by Engravings on Wood.

If Five or Six or more Collectors unite together in any place, the Committee will send the Monthly Numbers and the Quarterly Papers in a parcel; but, in order to this, it will be requisite for the parties to procure the permission of their Bookseller in the country, to have such parcel sent with his monthly packet of Magazines, and to apprise the Secretary of the names of the Bookseller, and of his Correspondent in London.

A single Collector, or any number short of Five or Six, may purchase of the nearest Bookseller, both the Missionary Register and the requisite Quarterly Papers, and deduct the cost from the sum collected, and remit the remainder to the Society. This method is, on the whole, more convenient and economical to the Society than that of sending the Numbers and Papers in a parcel, in cases where the Collectors are less than five or six.

While Collectors render important aid to the designs of the Society, they both contribute to the strength and honour of that Church with which the Society is connected, and confer also great benefit on those persons whose contributions they gather.

This system of engaging, according to their power, the Labouring Orders and the Young in this work of charity, has a direct and important influence on the real strength and honour of that Church of which we are Members. Facts are multiplying daily which demonstrate the growing attachment of those persons to the Church, whose minds are interested in the great objects of the Society, and who are themselves associated in its charitable labours.

For the Contributors themselves, the regular diffusion among them of intelligence respecting the state of the world and the efforts now making for its conversion, enlarges and elevates their minds. Many, who may not be able to give their Annual Guinea, would gladly take their share in this noblest work of Christian Charity. That numerous class have, in our days, the opportunity given them for the first time, of regularly contributing, according to their power, to extend the kingdom of Christ in the world: and HE, who accepted the two mites of the Widow, will accept every gift when offered from love; and will look with especial approbation on that servant of His, who, "remembering the words of the Lord Jesus, how he said, It is more blessed to give than to receive"—"labours, working with his hands the thing which is good, that he may have to give to him that needeth."

MATT. X. 8.

FREELY YE HAVE RECEIVED: FREELY GIVE.

I HAVE selected this passage as the basis of my Discourse, because it contains, in short compass, the Scriptural argument for Missionary Exertions.

It may be right, perhaps, to premise, that I take the spirit of the passage, rather than its literal meaning. In connexion with the context, its literal meaning may be no more than this:—"Heal the sick, cleanse the lepers, raise the dead, cast out devils: but beware of seeking any temporal remuneration for such exercise of your powers,—powers bestowed on you for a purpose very different from that of personal advantage: FREELY YE HAVE RECEIVED—FREELY GIVE. You have been endued with extraordinary gifts, in every sense gratuitously: their Author chose you to possess them, and was not chosen by you (John xv. 16): He gave you that without price, which no price could buy: and it is for you to impart gratuitously, what ye have gratuitously received."

With this, the literal interpretation of the passage, we have at present no concern: but with the spirit of the passage, we have universal concern. It is this argument which pervades the Gospel. It is the argument by which our Lord requires of every Christian the forgiveness of injuries: I forgave thee all that debt, because thou desiredst me; shouldest not thou also have had compassion on thy fellow-servant, even as I had pity on thee? It is the argument by which St. John enforces brotherly love: Brethren, if God so loved us, we ought also to love one another. It is the argument by which St. Paul exhorts us to the service of Christ, that they who were dead, and live through Him, should not henceforth live unto themselves, but unto Him which died for them. All these passages come to the same point, and imply the same duty—FREELY YE HAVE RECEIVED, FREELY GIVE. And it is an argument, which ought to strike closely home to every Christian soul. You have enjoyed the testimony of the love of God: you have been offered the covenant of everlasting life: you have not been appointed unto wrath, but to obtain salvation through our Lord Jesus Christ, by the peculiar, unsought, unmerited favour of God toward you. Freely ye have received; and His will is, that you should communicate your blessings, as far as your power extends, no less freely than you have received them. This is the universal demand of Scripture, with regard to every blessing which one man may enjoy more abundantly than his neighbour.

I. Now it is plain that the force of this argument, as a constraining motive, will depend upon OUR SENSE OF THE OBLIGATION CONFERRED UPON US.

In proportion as we feel the value of the Gospel, the Gospel written and in our hands, the Gospel preached and enforced upon our hearts, the Gospel pure and unadulterated which in this country beyond all others we enjoy; in that proportion we shall feel the corresponding duty of freely dispensing such peculiar blessings. But this feeling of obligation is apt to become very dormant in our minds. We talk of the Gospel, without always remembering what that term implies. We speak of Christendom; and in the geographical, forget the spiritual distinction. We lament the delusions of Mahommedanism, we regret the superstitions of Paganism; as we lament the despotism of one country, or the anarchy of another: but where is that sense of a state of spiritual death, of enmity against God, of captivity to Satan, which breathes in Scripture? Where is the conviction of the personal importance of faith in Christ Jesus to every individual under heaven? Scriptural views on this point, my Christian Brethren, would do more than a thousand arguments, to silence frivolous objections, and restrain petty opposition. If the question only concerns a neighbour's trifling advantage or unessential comfort, then we may reasonably be slow to interpose our assistance or our counsel; but if his condition is desperate, if the case is a crisis of life or death, then delay is cruel, and neglect inhuman.

But I am aware, that, on this occasion, I have little concern with objectors or opponents. It is not probable that any should be present here, who are not as much convinced of the importance of the Gospel to every soul of man, as he who addresses you. And I find comfort in the thought: for it is difficult to CONTEND, even in a Christian Cause, without feelings less pure and calm and spiritual than befit this sacred place and sacred office.

I conceive, then, that the object of our present meeting is, not to create a feeling, but to cherish and invigorate it; to feed the flame which burns too feebly; to trim the lamp, which is nigh to be extinguished by the damp and chilling spirit of the surrounding world. Mindful of this, we do not forsake the assembling of ourselves together, but desire, by every means, to provoke one another to love and to good works. May we never forget that the Spirit, which alone can kindle this flame effectually, must descend from Heaven!

I have said, that our zeal for the propagation of the Gospel will, in a great measure, depend upon our sense of its value to ourselves, and its importance to others. Now, the fact seems often to be overlooked, but can never be openly denied, that the importance of the Gospel to Heathen Nations now, is the same as its importance to those who were Heathens in the Apostolical Age. Paganism may vary in the objects of its errors or its superstitions, but it must always be essentially the same—the same in nature and in character. Ignorance of the true God, ignorance of His holy attributes, ignorance of His heavenly kingdom, ignorance of the way of access to Him—are evils which admit of no modification; and did not oppress more heavily the nations which the Apostles were commissioned to enlighten, than they oppress the nations which are in darkness at this day. If, then, we attempt at all to measure the value of the Gospel, or, rather—since it is vain to speak of estimating what is beyond all price, of measuring what is infinite—if we desire to elevate our conception to the height of so vast an argument, we must refer to the standard of the Apostles, or of Him who inspired their hearts and gave them their commission. We must judge as they judged—feel as they felt; and so we shall be more inclined to follow their example, and act as they acted.

And two things particularly occur to me, as capable of raising our feelings toward a juster sense of the importance of the Gospel:

First, Our Lord's Commission to His Apostles;

Secondly, The labours and sacrifices undergone by the Apostles, in executing His Commission.

1. Behold, said our Lord, I send you forth as lambs among wolves. Be ye, therefore, wise as serpents, and harmless as doves. But beware of men; for they will deliver you up to the councils, and they will scourge you in their synagogues; and ye shall be brought before governors and kings, for my sake. And the brother shall deliver up the brother to death, and the father the child; and the children shall rise up against their parents, and cause them to be put to death. And ye shall be hated of all men, for my name's sake. (Matt. x. 16, 17, 18, 21, 22.)

Such was the treatment which Jesus exhorted His Apostles to encounter, and which He forewarned them to expect.

Now, the disposition which most especially distinguishes our Lord's character, as recorded in His history, is a disposition of tenderness and compassion. The great object which brought Him into the world, did not so entirely occupy and engross His thoughts, as to make Him insensible to the temporal wants and earthly sufferings of men; did not lead Him to neglect their bodily diseases, or think lightly of their sorrows. Few of the miracles which attested His Divinity were any thing else than acts of mercy. He went about doing good. He refused to satisfy His own hunger in the wilderness by the exercise of miraculous power; but when He was surrounded by a multitude, who if He had sent them away fasting would have fainted by the way, He had compassion on them, and supplied their wants: (Mark viii. 3.) When he saw the poor widow at Naïn, whose only son, the remaining stay of her life and hopes, was carried out to burial, He pitied her; and, restoring the young man to life, He delivered him to his mother: (Luke vii. 11.) Again; when Lazarus was dead, and He was an eye-witness of the sorrow of the sisters, Martha and Mary; though he knew within himself how short a space of time would turn that sorrow into joy, when they should receive their brother raised again from the tomb; yet, when he saw Mary weeping, and the Jews also weeping which came with her, he groaned in the spirit, and was troubled: nay, He even wept himself, in sympathy with their affliction: (John xi. 33—35.)

If such was the tenderness of heart which Jesus uniformly displayed, we may justly believe that He would not have sent forth His Disciples, those who had continued with Him in His temptations, those whom He loved unto the end; He would not have urged them to give up all their connections, and all their comforts, to expose themselves to reproach and persecution, to a painful prison or a torturing death, unless the object which He sent them to accomplish was of paramount importance, and could be attained in no other way. Unless the state of those, to whom the Apostles went preaching repentance and remission of sins, had been truly grievous—a state to which no earthly destitution, no earthly suffering, is worthy to be compared—He would not, to deliver them from it, have exposed his followers to a life of unexampled distress and labour. He would have allowed the Heathen to remain in their ignorance, till the progress of knowledge and civilization, and the gradual diffusion of truth by other methods, instead of Missionary Preaching, might introduce a gleam of light amongst them, and relieve the children's children from the palpable delusions in which their fathers had lived and died. In a word, He would have done that which WE are sometimes recommended, and sometimes disposed, to do. But He regarded the state of the Heathen differently; and can we dare to believe that He did not regard it truly? He who, knowing all things beforehand, knew what His Apostles would undergo; and who was not without experience of human sorrows, having Himself drunk deep of the cup of suffering—He who had the greatest compassion for human misery, inasmuch as He went about relieving it, and even wept over it—did, nevertheless, commission those whom He best loved to labour day and night, to encounter persecution, contumely, and death itself, that they might turn men from their idolatrous vanities, to serve the Living God, and Jesus Christ whom He had sent.

Here, then, let us sit at Jesus's feet, and learn the importance of what the Heathen still want, but which we have FREELY RECEIVED.

2. I would observe, secondly, that our Lord's representation of these things had so much effect upon those who most frequently heard them, and not through any barbarous hardihood of frame which defies suffering; but from a sober and holy calculation of the importance of the object for which all this was undergone; from a firm assurance that their own present afflictions bore no proportion to the infinite gain of those who should receive eternal life through their means and agency.—I know (says St. Paul) that the Holy Ghost witnesseth in every city, saying that bonds and afflictions abide me. But none of these things move me; neither count I my life dear unto myself, so that I might finish my course with joy, and the ministry which I have received of the Lord Jesus, to testify the Gospel of the grace of God: (Acts xx. 23, 24.)

Here again, Brethren, let us contemplate the value of what we have freely received. We have freely received what it was worth the labours, the sacrifices, the sufferings of the Apostles to convey to the Heathen of their day; whose situation was only what ours would have been, if God had not made us to differ by the more happy allotment of our birth and education. In these labours, in these sacrifices, in this school of mortification and self-denial, let us learn the blessing of being called to the knowledge of God through the Gospel of His Incarnate Son. The unbeliever may dispute and cavil; but the Christian must bow to the authority of Christ, and defer to the example of the Apostles. For, surely, the soul is no less precious now, than eighteen hundred years ago; nor is eternity less awful. Heaven is not bereft of its glories, nor is there less terror in the blackness of darkness for ever. No! These are not changed. Eternity is still a profound abyss, which our imagination cannot fathom. The soul is still imperishable; and God is still the same; and Christ is still the same—the way, and the truth, and the life, by whom alone man has access to the Father. The difference is in US. We have a low and unworthy sense of blessings which we have always enjoyed: we do not justly estimate the value of our high calling. No man, indeed, ever did justly estimate it, or ever will, on this side the grave. Even the Apostle failed of words to express the unsearchable riches of Christ; and was content, in the simplicity of his gratitude, to bless God for his unspeakable gift (2 Cor. ix. 15). But HE will go nearest to the thankfulness demanded of him, who goes nearest to the Apostles in his imitation of their labours in the Christian Cause; who, in considering the case of half a world benighted, admits but the single thought, how he may himself assist toward enlightening that darkness—what portion of his leisure, of his abilities, of his wealth, he may be expected to employ, in promoting the Divine plan for the redemption of mankind. He is not invited to join in rash or undigested measures, which defeat their own purpose: he is not required to follow ill-directed zeal, or to rush into action without knowledge and inquiry: but he IS exhorted to beware of the devices of Satan, who will not readily abandon his strong-holds; and who would constantly persuade us to mistake indifference for prudence, and inactivity for discretion. Let him devise his measures with the wisdom of the serpent; let him execute them with the meekness of the dove: but let him not hesitate to devise, nor delay to execute; for, in the mean while, time is hastening, immortal beings are lost, and he is guilty concerning his brethren—guilty, by his neglect of that plain and reasonable command, Freely ye have received, freely give. Alas! who can contemplate this—who can call to mind our obligations as a people, and our obligations as individuals, and our too long insensibility to those obligations—without praying, from the bottom of his heart, Remember not, Lord, our iniquities, nor the iniquities of our forefathers!

II. Having thus attempted to bring your thoughts, as well as my own, to a more just appreciation of the benefits conferred upon us, it is time that I should proceed, in the second place, to the DUTY RESULTING FROM OUR PRIVILEGES; and implied in the words, FREELY GIVE.

It is evident that all are not called to the same exercise of duty in this respect. Let every man do according as he is disposed in his heart, and according as he is enabled by his circumstances. Concluding that there may be present here this evening persons widely differing in their opportunities, I shall attempt to offer such hints as may be suitable to their various situations.

1. To some I would say, Freely give your MONEY, your INFLUENCE, your ABILITIES.

With regard to Money, let me observe, that it is a gift within the power of those to whom no other gift is practicable; and that it has become indispensable, from the time that the Head of the Church has ceased visibly to interfere in the extension of His kingdom upon earth. Charities, we know, even religious charities, like every other expenditure, must be directed by calculation, and not by enthusiasm: but we all are bound to inquire what proportion our contributions have borne to the importance of their object—whether no part of our expenditure would be employed in a manner more pleasing to God and more profitable to men, if it were devoted to the cause of true religion.

But our cause stands in need of Influence and of Abilities, no less than of pecuniary aid. The affairs of an Empire demand talents of a different sort, but scarcely demand higher talents than the concerns of a Society like ours. Knowledge of mankind, discrimination of individual character, observation of the signs of the times, quickness in profiting by circumstances, prudence united with zeal, and activity tempered by moderation—these are but a sample of the qualifications which the direction of Missionary Operations requires; and, I may truly add, which the operations of the Society, in whose behalf I plead this evening, have uniformly exhibited. And great need have we to pray, that they may continue to be thus directed. It is with a Society of this sort, as with an individual; his conduct is estimated according to his profession: and we know that conduct unsuitable to profession is rather a matter of exultation, than of regret to the enemies of religion. Now, in what way can abilities be more delightfully engaged, than in promoting, by advice, by influence, by active co-operation, the extension of the Church of God? The present age has this peculiar characteristic, that no man need stand all the day idle. There have been times when many might, comparatively, have sought in vain for an opportunity of employing their talents in the service of religion: but, now, every species of ability may be spiritually useful, and may co-operate in the noble purpose of reconciling Man to God. Let the Linguist unfold in new tongues the mystery of Redemption: let the Learned bring the experience of former times to assist present exertions: let the Eloquent stimulate the tardy, and rouse the indifferent: let the Logical Reasoner silence calumny, and detect misrepresentation. All have their use: and, by such use, all are sanctified; and the daily business of life becomes a daily preparation for heaven. When we compare this mode of employing talents, and the gratification which attends it, with the way in which they are sometimes neglected and sometimes misused by men of leisure and independence, how truly do we mark the reward that follows godliness, even in the life that now is! Far be it from me to recommend a self-complacent retrospect of our own doings: indeed, who, that could indulge in such self-complacency, would be found to take an interest in the religion of a meek and lowly Saviour? But, for a Christian to rejoice that he has been led by the Spirit of God to devote the faculties bestowed on him to the service of the Giver, is according to the Apostle's own example—I have fought a good fight: I have finished my course: I have kept the faith: (2 Tim. iv. 7.) Nay, it has even a higher sanction, in the words—Father, I have glorified Thee on the earth: I have finished the work which Thou gavest me to do: (John xvii. 4.)

My Brethren, a time may come, when such an evidence of faith working by love will be valuable to your hearts. Lay up for yourselves a consolatory reflection against the day of trial.

2. I come now to a sacrifice confessedly more difficult: but there are those to whom it may be proper to say, Freely give your FRIENDS and RELATIONS to the furtherance of this Holy Cause.

A blameable reluctance on the part of near relations to spare those who are dear to them, is one of the greatest obstacles to the increase of the Missionary Spirit among us. It is humbling to reflect, that opportunities of secular advantage, which equally separate a man from his friends and his country, are sought with eagerness, and welcomed with congratulation; but with what comparative coldness, to say the least, if not with evident regret, do we hear of a young friend's determination to become an Ambassador of Christ among the Heathen! The impediment to the Missionary Cause is to be found here. Here is the reason why our Labourers are crying out, from the East and from the West, and often, alas! in vain, Come over and help us. There is talent enough in our land, for this as well as other objects: there is enterprise enough: and God would not withhold the spirit of piety, which would rejoice to spend itself in making known the blessings of Redemption. The fault lies heavily upon parents and relations, who, instead of bending youthful talents into this direction, too often divert the ardour of enterprise into very different channels, and extinguish feelings which burn with a desire to promote the glory of God and the salvation of mankind.

But, you may reply, "The sacrifice is greater than we can bear. That very disposition, which inclines our son to the work of a Missionary, is the disposition which endears him to his family at home. Those talents, which we have watched and cultivated, we hoped to see expand into usefulness, and reward our pains. We have reared the plant, and are not allowed to witness its perfection: we have nursed the bud, and the blossom is taken from us, to disclose its beauty to others—to others, probably, who will not recognise its value, but cast it from them and trample it under foot."

These feelings are very natural; but they are not, on that account, to be encouraged. We must resist them (it is the only way in which they can be successfully resisted) on our knees—praying, "Lord, increase our faith—our faith in those heavenly promises, which are intended to reconcile us to the loss of what we here resign in duty to Thee!" Where is now the faith of Abraham, when he, who had received the promises, offered up his only son? (Heb. xi. 17.) Where is the gratitude of Hannah, when she said, I have lent my child unto the Lord: as long as he liveth he shall be lent unto the Lord? (1 Sam. i. 28.)

I grant, the sacrifice is great, when the child, or the brother, or the friend who is dearer than a brother, goes forth to encounter the vicissitudes of climate, the risks of foreign travel, the enmity of hardened sinners, the scorn and contumely of infidels, perhaps even the injuries of those whom he desires to bless. But so was the sacrifice great, when the Apostles left all, and followed Him who was despised and rejected of men: and He allowed it to be great, when He pronounced His solemn blessing upon those who had done this, and upon all who should hereafter do it, following their example. (See Luke xviii. 29, 30.) If we give unto the Lord that which costs us nothing, what do we more than others?—He, which soweth sparingly, shall reap also sparingly; and he, which soweth bountifully, shall reap also bountifully. In truth, it is something like hypocrisy, to lament over the pitiable case of the Heathen, and to desire that the knowledge of the Lord may cover the earth, and to pray the Lord of the Harvest that he may send forth Labourers into His harvest; and then to grudge those Labourers, if they are taken from among ourselves; to withhold the instruments, by which the blessing must of necessity be conveyed. But let us hope better things, though we thus speak. Let us hope that the examples, which have been already seen, of truly disinterested labours, of the renunciation of this world's best endearments for the sake of the Gospel of Christ, may be an earnest of a glorious season now beginning, when great shall be the company of those who publish the word of the Lord. (See Psalm lxviii. 11.)

3. Proceeding to enforce the principle of the text, I may say to others, Freely give YOURSELVES, your LIVES—some may, perhaps, be present here to whom such an exhortation will not be improperly addressed—Freely give your LIVES—to the honourable work of an Evangelist. Yet I am too mindful of the weakness of our nature and of what the Cause requires, to wish this work undertaken by any one rashly or unadvisedly. Sit down first, and count the cost. Consider the dangers, the difficulties, the sacrifices: but do not consider these alone: have respect, also, to the magnitude of the object, and to the recompence of the reward. In full and unhesitating faith, contemplate the assurance of our Blessed Lord, Verily I say unto you, There is no man who hath left house, or parents, or brethren, or wife, or children, for the kingdom of God's sake, who shall not receive manifold more in this present time, and in the world to come life everlasting: (Luke xviii. 29, 30.)

For my own part, I will confess, that, as far as I have pursued that instructive study, the Biography of Missionaries, I have been particularly struck with the fulfilment of the paradoxical promise, manifold more in this present time. I have generally seen, that as many as have entered their names in the glorious book of Apostles, and Prophets, and Evangelists (Eph. iv. 11), have taken upon themselves a laborious, a toilsome, a painful profession; but no man's consolations have been like theirs. They have wandered through a wilderness of moral misery; but their path has been guided and cheered: they have not been left without the pillar of cloud to screen them by day, or the pillar of fire to enliven the darkness of the night. The delightful intercourse of earthly friends has been denied them; but they have enjoyed the presence of God: He has come unto them, and made His abode with them: they have borne the burthen and heat of the day; but they have realized the promise, that as their day was, so should their strength be. In the midst of their usefulness, death has intercepted their labours; but their hope has been full of immortality. Beyond that of others, the Missionary's conversation is in heaven. His employment in his Redeemer's service keeps him in perpetual intercourse with his Redeemer. His difficulties and his necessities maintain a salutary feeling of dependence within him. Good or ill success equally draws him closer to God. He is encumbered less than most men with those earthly cares, which press down the soul and chain it to things present. The world is truly crucified unto him, and he unto the world. And although, in the approach towards this state, there will be many a painful struggle of the flesh against the spirit; yet when, by the grace of God, it is attained, it is its own exceeding great reward: for it has with it the peace of God which passeth all understanding, which this world can neither give nor take away.

4. One offering remains, to which I may invite you with still greater urgency, because it is an offering undoubtedly within the power of all. Some may have neither fortune, nor influence, nor friends, nor talents, to contribute; but all may freely give their PRAYERS toward the Conversion of the Heathen. And, without prayer, what spiritual good would be achieved, by the highest authority, or the most splendid abilities, or the most lavish contributions? Prayer must draw down that heavenly increase, without which even Paul would have planted and Apollos have watered in vain. Prayer gave the Apostles their success; and they, in return, demanded the prayers of their converts, that God would open to them a door of utterance to speak the mystery of Christ: (Col. iv. 3.) The object MUST be a holy object, which is prosecuted by prayer: other measures may originate in a spirit of party, or in secular enterprise; but fervent effectual prayer will only be excited by the love of souls. Other means, too, are of doubtful result; but, of prayer, we confidently trust that it will not altogether fail: and the recent annals of Missions warrant the belief, that God is still pleased to be distinguished as One who hears and answers prayer. A light, still dim indeed and feeble, yet a light now gleams upon the Heathen Lands, more visibly than in any former time. And in no former time have such earnest supplications been raised toward the throne of Grace, from so many domestic altars, and so many Christian hearts, imploring that the lives of those good men who have gone forth may not have been spent in vain.

In conclusion, Brethren—This Discourse will have answered its purpose, if it shall lead any one among you to inquire what he has individually done toward freely imparting that which he has freely received; whether he has contributed as much toward establishing his Redeemer's Kingdom, as, in his particular circumstances, he was bound to contribute. No doubt there are those among us, who would in vain disclaim this evidence of their faith: for their praise is in all the churches. But there must also be others, conscious to themselves that their exertions in the Cause have been not only unworthy of the object, (for of such an object what exertions can be worthy?) but unworthy of their own acknowledged duty and profession. Oh reflect, my Brethren, how guilty this indifference must needs appear in the sight of the Son of God! He did not think it much to leave the bosom of the Father, with whom He was before all worlds: He did not think it much to take upon Him the infirmities and sufferings of man: He did not think it much to feel the exquisite sense of sin though without its guilt, and to undergo its direst penalty: and can there be such apathy in men, that they should deny Him the glories of a triumph so hardly achieved, and grudge Him the fruits of His victory? Every soul taken from the power of Satan is a jewel added to His crown; and every soul which Satan still retains through our neglect or delay, is a jewel withheld from His reward. As far, then, as depends on you, let Him see of the travail of his soul, and be satisfied. Let Him behold you, from His throne on high, contemplating His unspeakable love, till some portion of it kindles in your own bosom. Let Him behold you meditating on your own reconciliation with God through the blood of the everlasting covenant, till you are filled with a desire to carry forth the olive-branch of peace to those who are still at enmity with Him, still aliens from the commonwealth of Israel. Let Him behold you co-operating with His mysterious plan for the redemption of the world. He has left it to your co-operation. He has deigned to make you His instruments. HE has paid down the ransom; and has commanded YOU to go forth, and publish the glad tidings. Follow the example which He has set up for your admiration. Though His attributes were infinite, He employed them all in love to man—His omniscience, to warn; His mercy, to invite; His power, to convince; His manhood, to minister; His Godhead, to redeem! And, now, He calls on you to devote your faculties to His service, or rather to the service of your fellow-creatures for His sake. He expects you to give this proof, that the mercies bestowed on you have not been bestowed unworthily. The time is short to any of us, during which such proofs can possibly be given. Provide wisely against that hour, when one token that we have been united to the Saviour, in true and lively faith, will be more dear to our recollections, and more soothing to our hearts, than the praises, or the treasures, or the glories of a thousand transitory worlds.

REPORT

COMMITTEE.

DELIVERED, IN SUBSTANCE, TO THE ANNUAL MEETING,

AT FREEMASONS' HALL, GREAT QUEEN STREET.

REPORT,

In reporting to the Society the Proceedings of its Twenty-fifth Year, the Committee acknowledge with gratitude, that, amidst partial discouragements, they have abundant ground for thanksgiving and praise. They can discover, in various parts of the earth, evident proofs, that the cause of pure and undefiled religion is, notwithstanding the opposition which it encounters in various ways, steadily advancing.

Before the Committee proceed to the details of the Society's Proceedings, they wish to apprise the Members that they have not yet been able to perfect the new arrangements in the Department of Secretary mentioned in the last Report. For the last few months the Society has had herein the benefit of the Rev. Thomas Bartlett's services; and measures are in progress in reference to the appointment of the Third Secretary. It would have been impracticable to go through the labours of the past year, unless the Committee had received a degree of voluntary aid which cannot be calculated upon in future years: the late Secretary, especially, has rendered, in various ways, every assistance in his power; and has undertaken, at the request of the Committee, to carry through the Press a new Volume of Christian Researches by the Rev. William Jowett. Mr. Bickersteth has received most friendly aid in visiting the Associations; but his labours in this department have, notwithstanding, been such as no constitution could permanently sustain.

FUNDS.

It has been the gratifying duty of the Committee to report, from year to year, an advance in the Funds of the Society. They have now to announce, that the increased amount of the past year's income has exceeded that of any similar antecedent period; with the exception of the Fourteenth Year, when the establishment of Associations raised the receipts of the Society from 3000*l.* to 12,000*l.*

To the more extensive diffusion of information on the important objects of the Institution, to the zealous exertions of its friends, and to a deeper sympathy thereby excited in the public mind on behalf of the miseries and moral degradation of the Heathen World, may the prosperous state of the Funds, under the Divine Blessing, be attributed.

EXERTIONS OF FRIENDS.

It has been customary, for several years, to detail the Journeys of the Official Agents of the Society in visiting the Associations; but, as those Associations are become now very numerous and are rapidly increasing, this detail is omitted. The Committee, however, feel it to be right still to acknowledge the kind services of those friends, without which the Officers of the Society could not efficiently execute this duty. The following enumeration will point out the places at which these friends attended, at the request of the Committee, during the past year:—the Rev. John Armstrong, at Bristol, Norwich, Ipswich, Carshalton—the Rev. R. P. Beachcroft, at St. Neot's—the Rev. H. Berkin, in Cornwall, at Fowey, Helston, Penryn, Falmouth, Redruth, Camborne, Penzance, Marazion, and Polaice Mine—the Rev. H. Budd, at Bristol—the Rev. Edward Burn, at Cambridge, and Bewdley—the Rev. Francis Cunningham, at Guernsey and Jersey; at Dorchester, Yeovil, Taunton, Wellington, Bridgewater, and Exeter, and the various Branches of the Devon Association—the Rev. Thomas Dikes, at Gainsborough, Leeds, and Liverpool—the Hon. and Rev. H. D. Erskine, at Leeds, Chester, Liverpool, Leek, York, North Staffordshire, and Hereford; at Portsmouth and Guildford—the Rev. W. A. Evanson, at Chichester—the Rev. Professor Farish, in Cornwall at the various places with Mr. Berkin, and for a short period in Dorsetshire—the Rev. G. Hodson, at Liverpool, Leek, Newcastle-under-Line, Sheffield, Barnsley, and Rotherham; and at the places in Dorsetshire, Somerset, and Devon, visited by Mr. F. Cunningham—the Rev. John Langley, at Welshpool and Wrexham—the Rev. Professor Lee, at Ipswich—the Rev. Thomas Mortimer, at Worcester, Monmouth, and Kettering—the Rev. W. Marsh, at Hertford—the Rev. C. Neville, at Derby, Lincoln, Retford, Gainsborough, Hull, York, Pontefract, Leeds, Cheltenham, and Hereford—the Rev. R. H. Nixon, in Ireland, at Longford, Boyle, and Sligo—the Rev. Joseph Parson, at Edmonton, Shrewsbury, and Richmond; and, in Ireland, at Dublin, Naas, Newry, Rosstrevor, Lisburn, Belfast, and Downpatrick—the Rev. P. Roe, in Ireland, at Portarlington, Athy, and Waterford—the Rev. J. H. Singer, at Dublin, Naas, and various Associations in the South of Ireland—the Rev. James Scholefield, at Chateris and St. Neot's, at Penrith, Carlisle, Sunderland, and North Shields—the Rev. R. W. Sibthorp, at Dudley, Bewdley, Shrewsbury, Welshpool, Wrexham, Birmingham, and Cheltenham; and at Bromley, Carshalton, and Blackheath—the Rev. J. D. Wawn, at Lincoln, Retford, Lancaster, Kirkby Lonsdale, Kendal, Appleby, and Barnard-Castle; and at Gloucester, Worcester, Monmouth, Bristol, and Hereford.—Considerable assistance has also been afforded in this Department of labour by several Missionaries of the Society, who were about to proceed to their foreign destinations. The Rev. John Raban assisted at Colchester, in the Midland and Northern Counties in May and June, and in the Midland Counties in August and September; the Rev. John Hartley attended the Anniversaries in the Midland and NorthernCounties at the same periods, in May, June, August, and September, and was present at those in Dorsetshire, Somersetshire, and Devonshire, in July: the Rev. J. W. Doran, appointed to the Syrian College in Travancore, accompanied the Secretary into Bedfordshire, Northamptonshire, and Leicestershire, in March.

To these valuable friends, who have so essentially benefitted the Society by their visits to the Associations—to the Officers of the several Auxiliaries and Branch Associations—and to the Clergymen, and others, who have, in various ways, contributed to advance the prosperity of the Institution, the Committee, on behalf of the Society, beg to offer their sincere and grateful thanks.

NEW ASSOCIATIONS.

During the year, New Associations were formed—at Appleby, in Westmoreland; at Barnard Castle, Durham; at Barnsley, in Yorkshire; at Grimsby, in Lincolnshire; and at Kinver, in Staffordshire.

Branch Associations have been formed—at Bowden, in Cheshire—at Shepperton, in aid of the Staines Association—at North Tawton, in aid of the Devonshire—and at Lowestoff, in aid of the Suffolk. At Cheltenham and at Chatteris, Branch Associations, which had previously contributed, respectively, to the Gloucestershire and Cambridgeshire Associations, have been newly organized.

Ladies' Associations have been formed—at Boston—at Oldham—at Leek—at Fowey—at St. Peter-le-port, in Guernsey—at Taunton and at Bridgewater—at North Tawton and at Ilfracombe—at St. Arvans, near Chepstow—at St. Brelade's, at St. Aubin's, and at St. Helier's, in Jersey—at Beccles—and at Louth and at South Thoresby, in Lincolnshire.

In Ireland, Associations in aid of the Hibernian Auxiliary have been formed at Downpatrick, Kinsale, Longford, Waterford, and Portarlington; and a Juvenile Association at Lisburn.

LEGACIES.

The Committee have to report the following Legacies:—

Rev. Henry Parker, late of Parknook—the sum of 10*l.*

Rev. Robert Hughes, late of St. Mary's, Gambia—one-third of his property in contingency.

Mrs. Susannah Beasley, late of Great Surrey Street—the sum of 200*l.* 3 per Cent Consols.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ann Jones, late of Cheltenham—the sum of 500*l.* in contingency.

J. M. Barnes, Esq. late of St. Alban's—the sum of 1000*l.*

The Committee would, on this occasion, remind such Members of the Society, as may have it in their power without injury to their relatives, of the importance of bequeathing part of their substance for the furtherance of the Gospel. The Ministers of the United Church are directed, when visiting the sick, "not to omit earnestly to move such sick persons as are of ability to be liberal to the poor;" in the spirit of which direction the great and urgent wants of the Heathen may well be included.

INCOME AND EXPENDITURE.

The Income of the Twenty-fifth Year, just expired, has amounted, without deducting expenses, and including the contributions to the Institution at Islington, to more than FORTY-FIVE THOUSAND POUNDS. The Net Income of the Year, available for the General Purposes of the Society, has been upward of FORTY THOUSAND FIVE HUNDRED POUNDS; being an increase on the Net Income of the Twenty-fourth Year of nearly 6000*l.* The Expenditure of the Twenty-fifth Year has amounted to nearly 38,000*l.* The Committee are anxious, however, to have it distinctly understood, that the surplus of the Income over the Expenditure has not arisen from any inability on their part to expend a larger sum on Missionary Objects; but, on the contrary, from a prudent desire to restrict the Society's expenditure within the limits of its probable income. The calls for assistance are now so urgent from all parts of the Heathen World, that, were the Income of the Society twice as large as the sum to which the exertions and contributions of its friends have raised it, there would be no difficulty in making an efficient appropriation of the whole amount. In North and South India, in Ceylon, in Australasia, and in Africa, much of the field of toil which has already been entered upon remains comparatively uncultivated for want of Labourers; while in various parts of the globe, to which hitherto few or no Missionaries have been sent, opportunities are continually opening for exertion. The total number of Missionaries, including those of every country and of every religious denomination, is utterly inadequate to supply the wants of the hundreds of millions of Heathen who are perishing for lack of knowledge.

MISSIONARIES AND STUDENTS.

The Missionaries and other Labourers, whose departure for their respective destinations was announced in the last Report, have safely arrived. Mr. and Mrs. Davis and their family, with Mr. Charles Davis, arrived in New South Wales on the 7th of May, and reached New Zealand on the 13th of August. The Rev. William Adley and Mrs. Adley landed at Ceylon, in September. The Rev. Joseph Fawcett Beddy and the Rev. Samuel Ridsdale, with their Wives, arrived at Madras on the 24th of September.

The offers of service, during the past year, have been more numerous than during the year preceding: 60 persons have expressed their readiness to labour in the work of the Society. Of this number, the services of 16 have been accepted; those of 29 have been declined; and the cases of the remaining 15 are under consideration. There are, at present, 20 Students in the Society's Institution, under preparation for Missionary Labour; of whom, 5 are Lutheran Clergymen from the Seminary at Bâsle, lately arrived in this country. These Lutheran Clergymen were accompanied by a German Printer, who is about to proceed to Malta.

The Committee regret, that, in addition to the decease of the Rev. T. C. Deininger, Mr. Pope, and Mrs. Schemel, as stated in the Notes at pp. 53 and 63 to the last Report, they have to record the death of Mrs. Sawyer, who expired on the 12th of August, on her passage home from Madras; and also that of Mr. Brown, the Society's Printer at Calcutta, on the 20th of the same month. Some references to all these individuals will be found under the head of the respective Stations where they laboured.

Mrs. Lisk returned to England from Sierra Leone in June last, for the recovery of her health: she is so far restored, as to afford a prospect of her return to Africa, in the Autumn of the present year.

Nine Labourers, several of whom were married, have been appointed to different Missions, in the course of the year.

The Rev. John Hartley, appointed to the Mediterranean, received his Instructions, and was addressed by the Rev. E. G. Marsh, at a Meeting of the Committee on the 13th of September: he sailed for Malta on the 12th of October, and arrived on the 26th of November.

Mr. Henry Brooks and Mr. Charles Knight, designed for West Africa, with Mr. William Williams, for New Zealand, were admitted, by the Lord Bishop of London, to Deacons' Orders on Sunday the 26th of September: as an early embarkation for Sierra Leone was important, that the Missionaries might arrive there soon after the rainy season, his Lordship was pleased to admit Mr. Brooks and Mr. Knight to Priests' Orders, at a Special Ordination on the 9th of October: Mr. Williams received Priests' Orders on the 19th of December; on which day Mr. William Cockran, designed for the North-West America Mission, and Mr. John William Doran for Travancore, were admitted to Deacons' Orders. Mr. Brooks and Mr. Knight, with the Rev. John Raban, and three Schoolmasters and a Schoolmistress (Mr. James Coney, Mr. John Pierce, and Mr. John Weeks, with Mrs. Coney), all about to proceed to Sierra Leone, received the Instructions of the Committee, and were addressed by the Rev. Thomas Webster, at a Special Meeting of the Committee held on the 4th of October*: they embarked on the 3d of November, at Gravesend, on board the Margaret, Captain Wilson; and, after being detained on the coast for the very long period of nine weeks, sailed finally from Cowes on the 5th of January, and arrived at Freetown on the 3d of February†.

OPENING OF THE MISSIONARY INSTITUTION AT ISLINGTON.

The preparation of the premises at Islington for the reception of a Teacher and Students, as mentioned in the last Report, having been completed, and the Rev. John Norman Pearson, of Trinity College, Cambridge, having been appointed Principal of the Institution, the Committee held a Meeting at the Institution, on the 31st of January, for the purpose of opening it with a degree of solemnity becoming a Christian Society entering on such a work.

The Right Hon. the President, in stating the object of the Meeting, expressed his thankfulness to God that a measure of such importance was so far matured; and briefly adverted to the influence which the Institution was likely to have, under the Divine Blessing, on the future efficiency of the Society. The Hundredth Psalm having been sung, the Fifty-fourth Chapter of Isaiah was read by the Secretary, and the blessing of God invoked in prayer by the late Secretary. The Secretary then delivered an address to the Students, twelve in number, most of whom had been for some time under his care, in reference to their future spirit and labours, and expressive of the great satisfaction which they had afforded him. The Seventy-second Psalm having been sung, the Rev. Basil Woodd prayed; when the Principal addressed the Committee and the Students on the views and feelings with which he entered on his weighty charge. Prayer having been offered up by the Rev. James Haldane Stewart, and a Doxology sung, the noble President dismissed the Meeting with the expression of his fervent wishes for the prosperity of the Institution and of all the Society's Designs*.

There is one important feature connected with these proceedings, which must not be overlooked. The first Institution which the Established Church has witnessed, in our own Country, for the specific purpose of training up Missionaries for the Heathen, was at this time opened, with every prospect, if adequately supported, of extensively promoting the great object for which it has been set apart.

The completion of the Society's Plan, in reference to this important branch of its concerns, has been suspended for want of adequate funds. The Committee, however, trust that the liberality of those friends who may not yet have contributed for this purpose will enable them speedily to place the Institution on the scale of efficiency required by the urgent demand for Labourers in the various Missionary Stations.

In consequence of the opening of the Institution, the Rev. Professor Lee has undertaken the superintendance of the Oriental Studies of the Students.

MISSIONS.

WEST-AFRICA MISSION.

About the period of the last Anniversary, the report of the death of Sir Charles MacCarthy reached

this country; and this report, to the unfeigned regret of all who feel an interest in the welfare of Africa, has been fully confirmed. The particulars of the event, which terminated the mortal career of this friend and father of the Liberated Africans, have been often before the public. Your Committee will not, therefore, enter into details on this melancholy subject, but will content themselves with an extract from the Address of the Acting Chief Justice, delivered at the first Quarter Sessions held after the death of the late Governor. And they do this with the more satisfaction, because while the Address bears ample testimony to the laborious exertions of that distinguished individual, on behalf of the temporal and spiritual welfare of those entrusted to his charge, it demonstrates, by a forcible appeal to competent witnesses on the spot, that these exertions were rewarded by abundant success. After alluding to the personal knowledge of his late Excellency possessed by those whom he addressed, and to their having been the spectators and the assistants of his valuable labours, the Chief Justice adds—

It had always been his great object to advance the commercial and agricultural importance of the Colony—to raise by the labour of Freemen, what was, in other countries, raised by the labour of Slaves—to extend British Commerce; and to make this the great focus, to which the produce of this valuable Continent should be brought, from its inmost recesses—to open the paths into its most important countries; and, by the well-merited influence of the Colony and its inhabitants for good faith and honest dealing, to enable the Native of its farthest extremity to visit it with confidence and with security.

But he had higher views than these—to bring forward the Negro to his proper station in society—to raise the victim of oppression, from the state of the savage to that of the man, from the slave to the freeman—to prove to the world, not by theory but by fact, not by one example but by thousands, that the whole human race belongs to one great family of the Creator, that all mankind are children of the same Father, that one soul animates the whole, and that the only inequality which exists is the work of man—the difference between the debasing effects of ignorance, superstition, and slavery, and the glorious fruits of light, religion, and liberty.

To his success in these endeavours, the Gentlemen present could all bear witness. They were all personally cognizant of his exertions, and of their fruits. Every one present knew to be a fact, what, if it could be described as it deserved, would be classed by strangers as the overflowings of ill-regulated zeal, the outburstings of affectionate gratitude.

Gratitude is due to Sir Charles, and will always be paid to his memory; but the appeal, at present, is to FACTS. Look at the state of the Colony when he arrived, and look at it now. Look at the difference in Freetown—in the inhabitants, in the resources, in the importance of the Colony: but, above all, look at the Liberated Africans and their Villages. Could the Gentlemen present, who have themselves seen it, have otherwise believed the change which has taken place? To say nothing of the churches, the houses, the cultivated fields, which are everywhere occupying what was previously a dark and impenetrable forest; look at the change in the MAN. Is the man who is now worshipping his God as a Christian, who daily performs all the duties of civilized and social life as a duty for which he knows himself answerable, and many of whom are now in this room as constables and as jurymen—are these the debased, degraded, ignorant beings, scarcely equal to the brute, whom British Philanthropy rescued from destruction—from the hold of a slave-ship—from slavery both of body and mind? The change has been miraculous! The finger of God is here!

But our late lamented Governor was the honoured instrument of Almighty Mercy to these poor creatures. And well and faithfully, through every difficulty, through every danger, did he perform his duty to its utmost extent. He has laid the foundation, he has commenced the superstructure, of African Civilization—of the improvement of the Negro Race—of the extension of Christianity over this vast Continent, so firmly, that even his loss, great as it is, cannot long retard it. By the blessing of God they are now so firmly fixed, that, with a continuance of our united exertions, neither the hatred nor malice of our enemies shall prevail against them.

Major-General Turner, who has been appointed to succeed the late Governor, has given the Committee assurances of his readiness to assist their exertions for the benefit of Africa.

COLONY OF SIERRA LEONE.

The arrangement, referred to in the last Report as then in a state of progress, between the Committee and His Majesty's Government, for the more efficient supply of Christian Teachers in the Colony of Sierra Leone, has been finally adjusted. By this arrangement, the preparation and maintenance of all the Clergy employed in the Colony, whether stationed at Freetown or in the Country Parishes, will devolve on the Society. The Colonial School at Freetown, and the Christian Institution at Regent, will be supported at the pecuniary charge of the Society; while the expenses incurred by the instruction of the children in the Country Parishes, and by the erection of habitations for the Teachers and of suitable buildings for Education and Religious Worship, will be defrayed by Government.

The Committee are aware, that, by this arrangement, the Society will be subjected to a considerable increase of expenditure in this Mission; but, when they reflect on the important results which may fairly be anticipated, they feel warranted in appealing to the public liberality.

In order to meet, more effectually, the pressing demand for Labourers in this Mission, it has been deemed expedient to invite Clergymen of piety and zeal to offer their services to the Society for a limited period; and the Committee trust that this appeal, for immediate aid in the important and interesting Stations at Sierra Leone, will not be made in vain.

The Committee have to regret the loss of two Labourers in this Mission—Mr. Pope and Mrs. Schemel; intelligence of whose decease has been received since the last Anniversary. Mr. Pope died on the 30th of March, and Mrs. Schemel on the 17th of June, in the past year. In reference to this more recent loss, Mr. Davey remarks—

> In this, as well as in every other dispensation connected with this Mission which we are apt to call afflictive, may we be enabled to feel, that the Lord not only doeth, but hath done all things well!
> How often is the promise fulfilled in our experience, which says, As thy days are, so shall thy strength be! It is the Lord that upholds us, and enables us to go on, and to hope, even against hope; and this, I have no doubt, in answer to the many fervent prayers offered for us.

That the removal of so many faithful Labourers, within so short a period, should leave several important Stations in a state of comparative destitution, will not excite surprise; and every individual, who justly appreciates the importance of the Society's efforts in Africa, will know how to sympathize with those on the spot, who mourn over the temporary suspension of those efforts. On this subject, one of the surviving Labourers remarks—

We feel, at present, very much the want of more help. Indeed, when I touch on this subject, I am quite at a loss for words to describe our destitute state. When I look round, and miss one and another who have been taken from their labours, and see the people wandering as sheep without a shepherd, I cannot express my feelings. Oh that the scene might be viewed in England! for then it would be impossible but that some would come forth and say, Here am I, Lord, send me.

One of the Government Chaplains on another part of the coast, having visited the Colony, thus writes to the Secretary—

The number of Villages on the Mountains of Sierra Leone, without either Pastors or Superintendants, is truly grievous . . . . It has been said, that the blood of the Martyrs was the seed of the Church: with great propriety may this be said with regard to Africa; for I rejoice when I consider that the good which has been done, is more than a compensation for the loss of the many valuable lives that have been sacrificed in the attempt.

Amidst the many bereavements, with which it has pleased God to visit the Mission, the faith of the surviving Labourers appears to be in lively exercise. The language of one of these, on a review of the mysterious but doubtless wise and merciful dealings of our Heavenly Father with them, is as follows:—

We are, indeed, now labouring in the dark. We cannot, however, miscarry, so long as we are led by the hand of our Divine Guide and Saviour, to whom the darkness and the light are both alike. Yea, the government is, and shall be, upon His shoulder, and of the increase of His government and peace there shall be no end.

In addition to the actual loss of so many of the Society's Labourers, some of those who are spared have been incapacitated for the discharge of their respective duties, by serious and protracted illness. The Rev. G.R. Nyländer, the oldest Missionary on the Western Coast of Africa, has been brought to the borders of the grave. For thirteen weeks, in the summer of the past year, he was confined to his house; and, for a long period, was unable to rise from his bed without assistance. All hope of his restoration was relinquished by his friends; but, to their joy and astonishment, it pleased God to prolong his life, and enable him to resume his work. When recovering from this illness, in August last, he remarks—

One says that I should go to France, another to Spain: another advises me to return to England: but, as I am so far recovered and gaining strength daily, I feel no inclination to embark; though I intended so to do when I was lying on a sick bed, and was told that the only remedy for my recovery was to go to Europe by the first vessel then sailing: but, as I find that the same Jehovah reigns in Africa as rules in England, I will wait for His command.

In a Letter from Mr. Davey, dated August the 10th, the salubrity of the Colony at that period is thus noticed—

All the Brethren and Sisters are, at this time, in good health: indeed, I have never known the Colony so healthy as it has been this season. Only three Europeans have died.

An equally favourable report of the health of the Missionaries was made by Mr. Nyländer, in a Letter dated the 5th of January last, with the exception of Mrs. Metzger, who is in a weak state*.

On a review of the many trials through which the survivors in this Mission have been called to pass, and aware of the powerful re-action of a depressed mind on a debilitated frame in such a climate as that of Western Africa, the Committee feel that these their Brethren are peculiarly entitled to earnest and persevering prayer, that abundant measures of grace may be supplied in their hour of need—that they may be enabled to cherish a spirit of watchfulness and of simple dependence on the Lord—that the unity of the Spirit may be preserved in the bond of peace—and that, in all their works, begun, continued, and ended in Him, they may glorify God.

* Intelligence has been received, since the Anniversary, of the death of Mrs. Metzger on the 14th of February.

While the Committee have the painful duty to report, that one of the Native Teachers and some of the School Assistants have been dismissed from the service of the Society for improper conduct, they are enabled with much pleasure to add, that those of this class, who have been for the longest period connected with the Society's operations, have continued to walk circumspectly, and to labour with fidelity and diligence.

In proceeding to take a survey of the different Stations, the Committee will follow the order observed in former Reports. In consequence of the suspension from labour of some of the Brethren through illness and the removal of many by death, continual changes were rendered unavoidable in the employment of the remainder. The principal Labourers and their respective Stations will, therefore, be given as they appear in the most recent despatches.

Freetown.

The death of Mr. Pope and Mrs. Schemel was stated in a Note to the last Report: the Schools devolved, in consequence of this melancholy event, on Mrs. Pope and Mr. and Mrs. Fox. On the arrival of the Missionaries, as before stated in February last, the Rev. John Raban entered on the Ministerial Duties of Freetown, and Mr. Weeks was appointed to the charge of the Male Schools.

The removal of Mr. Pope, from his useful and important sphere in the schools of Freetown, was sensibly felt and justly lamented: he was well qualified for the duties which the Providence of God had assigned him, and zealous and laborious in the due discharge of them: the ardour of his mind led him to enter upon a course of exertion beyond the ordinary powers of the European constitution.

Mrs. Pope remarks, in reference to his death, "He died very happy, and never once regretted that he had come to Africa." Mrs. Schemel, also, was greatly devoted to her work, and well qualified for it: she died full of peace and joy.

In reference to the death of Mr. Pope, one of the Missionaries remarks—

New comers, just arrived with full European strength, think themselves competent to greater labour than the climate will allow; and, in consequence, expose themselves more than they should do on their first arrival. That has been the case with our dear departed Brother: he used, after reading the Prayers on a Sunday, to ride either to Gloucester or Wilberforce, and afterward would hold Evening Service at the Camp near Freetown—a course of labour which required, in this climate, Herculean strength.

The Returns of the Girls' School are imperfect: at Lady-Day the number was 125, but that of the subsequent Quarters has not been stated: at the close of the year, the number had increased, and the attendance was very regular. The other Returns are as follows:—

	Lady-Day.	Midsummer.	Michaelmas.	Christmas.
Boys' Day School . .	297	340	351	323
Adults' Evening School	84	87	89	90

At Lady-Day, Mr. Fox reported that the Male Schools were in good order, and obviously in an improving condition. At Midsummer he states—

There is one obstacle, among many others, which evidently tends to retard the progress and improvement of the children; and that is, their own irregular attendance at school: the parents keep them at home to work, and send them to school when they please.

A Resolution having been adopted by the Governor and Council, on the 18th of June, to become, themselves, the Visitors of these Schools, your Committee trust that the evil complained of will be thereby remedied.

Kissey.

Mr. Nyländer states, that, during a protracted illness of thirteen weeks, he derived great assistance from Mr. Metzger, both in the concerns of Kissey and Wellington. Mr. Metzger, in order to avail himself of Mr. Nyländer's knowledge and experience of the best mode of conducting a Settlement, had removed, as stated in the last Report, from Wilberforce and Kissey, at Michaelmas 1823; and was enabled, in consequence, to relieve the labours of the resident Missionary, at a period when such aid was peculiarly necessary. Mr. Metzger continued to assist Mr. Nyländer, till his appointment to Wellington, in August of last year. Native Asistants were employed in the Schools, that of the Females continuing under the charge of Mrs. Wenzel. Mr. and Mrs. Coney, on their arrival in February last, were appointed to assist at this Station.

In the early part of the year, Mr. Nyländer reported that, in consequence of the destitute condition of many of the Settlements, increased by the departure of Mr. Düring, he had several times visited Regent, for the purpose of administering the Lord's Supper to the Communicants of that place and of Gloucester, and of baptizing children and adults. On these occasions he commonly proceeded, on the same day, either to Charlotte or Leopold, for the performance of similar duties; and, returning on the Monday to his own Station, he usually visited Freetown on the following day, to attend to the parochial duties of that place, and perhaps administered the Lord's Supper there on the ensuing Sunday. The peculiar exigencies of the Mission have, indeed, been such, as sometimes to demand from those whom the hand of Death had spared, a degree of bodily and mental effort, which no strength of constitution could permanently sustain.

At Lady-Day, there were, in the Schools, 80 Boys and 80 Girls: in December, there were 85 Boys and 95 Girls. Mr. Nyländer's ill health prevented regular Returns.

Wellington.

The reports from this Station continue to wear a pleasing aspect. On the 26th of August, as stated under the head of Kissey, Mr. Metzger was appointed, with the approbation of the Chief Superin-tendant, to take charge of the Ministerial Concerns of this Station; the Native Teacher, who had previously laboured here, being one of those, whose dismissal from the service of the Society it has been the painful duty of the Committee to report. Mr. Metzger, prior to his official connection with Wellington, was in the habit of assisting Mr. Nyländer in his frequent visits to this Settlement: both were favourably impressed with the promising character of the people, whose attendance on the Public Services of the Sabbath and at Daily Worship is very encouraging. Mr. Nyländer remarks, that there are among them a great number of seriously-minded persons.

In March of last year, 7 adults were baptized, and the number of Communicants was 25. At Midsummer, there were 9 candidates for Baptism, and the Communicants were 27: in the Schools, there were 49 Boys, 70 Children residing with their Parents, and 49 Mechanics attending for instruction in the evenings. At Michaelmas, the Boys were 42, beside others who attended occasionally: in the Evening School were 15 Adults: the Communicants were 31. At Christmas, there was an addition of 6 Communicants, making a total of 37: the number of Boys was 41, and that of Adults from 13 to 20. Mr. Metzger is fully occupied; as he either preaches or holds Meetings for prayer every day in the week, beside Morning and Evening Services on Sunday. At the Monthly Missionary-Prayer-Meeting a Collection is made for the Society. The Services are well attended, and the Church much crowded on Sunday Mornings.

Waterloo.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilhelm and their Native Assistants continue to occupy their sphere of usefulness at this place. Mr. and Mrs. Lisk, who superintended the Schools at Waterloo, removed, at Christmas 1823, to Regent, to enter upon the Station which became vacant there by the return home of Mr. and Mrs. Norman. Mr. John Pierce has been appointed Schoolmaster at this Station.

The Schools at Lady-Day were in good order, but the attendance at the Female Adult-School was better than that at the Mechanics' School. At Midsummer, further progress was evident; and the improvement may, in part, be attributed to the attention and diligence of the Native Assistants in the discharge of their several duties. At Christmas, the number of Scholars was 68 Boys and 87 Girls: several Girls had been married, and several of the Boys put out to learn trades.

The Communicants, at Lady-Day, were 22. At Christmas, the number was somewhat reduced. The pastoral solicitude of Mr. Wilhelm will appear from the following extract:—

Their outward conduct, so far as it falls under my notice, is without offence: with the exception of four of them, whose irregular attendance on the means of grace, and other improprieties of conduct, manifested their minds to be yet unestablished and wavering; although not in such a degree as to render it my duty to exclude them. Without the exercise of much patience and forbearance, I might be scattering instead of gathering souls: at the same time, much caution is highly requisite, lest we accumulate Members of the Church and Communicants to our own disgrace.

On another occasion, he writes—

There being 13 Boys and 10 Girls, besides several Adults, who can read their Bibles well, I catechized them, since the commencement of this year, in the Sunday-Afternoon Services, on the portion of Scripture on which I had discoursed in the mornings; which renders it easier for me to go through the duties of the Sabbath, and appears to be very pleasing and beneficial to the Children and Adults—exciting and fixing their attention, and impressing their minds with the sacred truths more deeply than by preaching only.

Through repeated attacks of illness, I have often been unable to attend Morning and Evening Worship; but there has only been one Sabbath (7th of March) when I was necessitated to leave the pulpit after I had read the Prayers. Some of the Communicants came repeatedly to my bed, and prayed very affectionately for the restoration of my health.

The mason-work of a New Church which was erecting, not being sufficiently solid, was taken down; and, in consequence of the subsequent death of Sir Charles MacCarthy, the building was suspended. Mr. Wilhelm writes on this subject—

I feel sorry to mention, that, in consequence of the death of our kind and generous Governor, the Church, building at Waterloo, is discontinued. May we be led to look, not at the things which are seen and are temporal, but at the things which are not seen, and are eternal; that when our stone Church comes to nothing, or even our bodily Tabernacles are dissolved, we may know that we have a building of God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens!

In further allusion to the severe loss sustained by the death of the late Governor, Mr. Wilhelm adds—

What, then, shall we say to these things? If God be for us, who or what can be against us? He, indeed, teaches us to give up our trust in Princes and Governors, in earthly means and advantages; and to rely more entirely on the Almighty Saviour, who can always find means and instruments for the accomplishment of His eternal purposes and of His many precious promises. May we then learn, under all these trials, to cleave unto Him with purpose of heart, and be faithful unto the end!

Kent.

The Return of Scholars is as follows:—

	Lady-Day.	Midsummer.	Michaelmas.	Christmas.
Boys' Day School	90	101	101	120
Girls' Day School	64	66	66	63

The average number of Adult Scholars through the year was between 80 and 90. The increase of Boys at Midsummer and Christmas was from fresh arrivals of Liberated Slaves. Both the Boys' and Men's Schools had continued to improve, under the care of a Native Youth from the Christian Institution.

The occasional absence of Labourers from their own more immediate sphere, under the peculiar circumstances of the Mission, has been unavoidable. Some of the natural consequences of such absence are thus referred to and regretted by Mr. Beckley:—

With much sorrow I state, that this Settlement has received injury in spiritual things, on account of my frequent absence from it. The Church is by no means so well attended as before; though, at the same time, I have great reason for thankfulness. It has pleased God to continue His grace in the upholding of such as profess to love Him. In outward things, such as building and cultivation, the Settlement has prospered. A wall has been completed, enclosing the Superintendant's House, with Boys' and Girls' School-Houses on the respective wings, containing 10,200 feet of masonwork; and the Boys' School is so far completed, as for them to be able to live and keep School in it. The quantity of Cassada purchased by Government during the last two Quarters, has been 3620 bushels; which, contrasted with the state in which the Settlement was when I first came, gives me much satisfaction: a bushel of Cassada, not quite three years since, was not to be found throughout all Cape Shilling.

The number of Communicants was 13. Mr. Gerber had undertaken to visit Kent, for the purpose of administering the Sacraments, every two months.

In the last despatches, Mr. Beckley reports the general conduct of the people to be highly satisfactory: the attendance on the means of grace was encouraging.

Bananas.

These Islands, which belonged to the family of the Caulkers, were purchased from them by Government, and were taken possession of in October 1820. The situation is desirable in a commercial point of view, and the soil very productive. The Superintendant, whom Government has placed here, is Mr. Campbell, of whose interest in the spiritual welfare of the population, as well as of the readiness of the people to listen to instruction, Mr. Beckley thus writes—

The people are desirous of receiving instruction, and of growing in the knowledge of Christ. Mr. Campbell assists this desire in every way in his power. I have endeavoured to visit them every Monday Evening: they continue to attend regularly, on these occasions. The Superintendant concurs with me in wishing that a Native Teacher and his wife may be placed here. He might keep Day and Evening Schools, with daily Morning and Evening Prayers, and the reading of the Scriptures; while his wife might take charge of the females.

York.

Since the death of the Rev. C. W. Beckauer in June 1823, this Station has remained destitute of a Missionary.

Charlotte.

The Return of the Schools is as follows:—

	Lady-Day.	Midsummer.	Michaelmas.	Christmas.
Boys' Day School . . .	19	32	32	57
Girls' Day School . . .	29	33	33	73
Scholars residing with their Parents . . .	24	24	24	20
Adults' Evening School,	39	49	49	48
Total . . .	111	138	138	198

The increase of Scholars arose from the reception of 32 Boys and 34 Girls from Slave Vessels. The Scholars mentioned above, as residing with their Parents, are such as were born in the Settlement; and were not received, like the rest, from captured Slave Vessels. The small-pox occasioned irregular attendance in the early part of the year, and carried off four children. The progress of the Scholars was generally encouraging.

From the end of August 1823, until his severe illness in the Spring of last year, Mr. Nyländer administered the Sacraments, either at Leopold or Charlotte, on four several Sundays. Public Worship was well attended till the prevalence of the small-pox diminished the congregation. The Communicants at Lady-Day were 7. Divine Grace had been manifested in the recovery of a backslider, and in changing the heart of one who had been a very profligate woman. At Christmas, the Communicants were reduced to five.

In reference to the state of the Settlement, Mr. Taylor writes—

In those things which are of this world, we get on much more rapidly than with those which have to do with the heart . . . . . Through the scarcity of rice, the people have sold more of the produce of their industry than usual.

The produce sold to Government during the year was 9570 bushels of Cassada and 2499 of Cocoa, making together 12,069 bushels.

Upon a suggestion of Mr. Davey's, Mr. Taylor adopted a mode of receiving contributions for the funds of the Church Missionary Society, of which he thus speaks:—

Finding that the Contributions to the Society were getting dull, and knowing that many were willing to give but were not able, I said to those present, that I thought it would be a good plan to receive the produce of their farms, from those who were willing to give; thinking that they might not miss a bushel of Cassada (of which they have such an abundance) so much as they would ninepence. The proposal met with their approbation; and they were glad of such an opportunity of paying the arrears already due, in a manner which would be so little felt. One of them said, "Suppose you tell that to all the people, they can be glad very much: the other day, when you put down the names of all the people for Cassada, I heard plenty people say, 'Come, let we open our eye to pay Society money good, and make Massa's heart glad! for he do we good too much:' this makes me think they can be glad to hear that news."

The effect of the adoption of this plan was, that in the course of a few days 160 bushels of Cassada were presented for the benefit of the Society. The amount of Contributions during the year was 26*l.* 6*s.*

Having referred to the rapid removal of Labourers, and to his own recent illness, Mr. Taylor adds—

Perhaps within a short time, the hand that now writes may be numbered among those in the silent tomb; but if so, shall I say that I repent coming to Africa? No: although I see not that fruit of my labours which I could wish, yet surely my judgment is with my God; and to HIM may I still be enabled to trust all my concerns!

Though the spiritual condition of the bulk of the inhabitants of Charlotte is not what could be wished, yet a few extracts from the Journal of Mr. Taylor will shew, that some of them not only experience the power of Divine Grace, but are advancing in self-knowledge.

One Native Convert remarks—

I hear my Master read, in God's Word, Not every one that saith unto me Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven: I say, "Ah, that's me! So I stand. I hear God's Word, and cry Lord, Lord, but I don't believe God's Word." I fear very much that I shall be a cast-away, for I hear God's Word every time. I am so sinful, I can do nothing good—nothing but sin. But again I consider that word that Jesus says, Fear not, little flock: it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom: I feel comfort from that word. I hope Jesus will save me, or I shall be lost!

Another Native Convert says—

I am in trouble, but where can I go? Suppose I do bad to you, my Master, and I come to your gate for my rice when others come (alluding to the Government-rations which they receive)—you call me, and I run away; where can I go to? If I go to Leopold, my Master does not live there, and they will give me nothing: I must come back, for nobody else will help me: so, though I do sin against my God, where must I go to? If I leave Jesus, I have no other Master where I can go to: I must come back to Him, for He only can do me good.

A third thus expresses himself:—

I stand like a man who live in the ship on the water: he put all his trust in the ship: he have nothing else: if that ship break, he must go in the water. So I stand: I trust in the Lord Jesus for all: if He no save me, I must perish for ever; and then it would have been better for me not to have been born.

Another made the following observation:—

I have lately learned something from a child's teeth: the first teeth a child has, in due times come out, and others grow in their stead; but if any one lose one of their second teeth, it cannot grow again, but is lost for ever: so I learn that the body die, but if the soul, which is the second part of the man, is lost, it cannot be again recovered, but is lost for ever.

During his illness, Mr. Taylor derived much comfort from the prayers of one of the Christian Natives. Of this individual he writes—

Being confined by sickness, he came to see me, and asked me WHERE I was sick. I told him it was fever. Immediately he kneeled down without being asked, and prayed for my recovery. Some of his petitions were to the following effect—"O Lord, have mercy upon our poor servant whom thou hast sent to teach us! O Lord, we have no other to speak Thy Word to we. O Lord, make him well, that we may hear Thy Word from his mouth! O Lord, what we now do? No more him one live here to teach we. O Lord, make him well, that we may hear joy and gladness, and heal our broken bones!"

On another occasion he thus expressed himself:—

O Lord, bless this Watchman, whom Thou hast put in this place! Enable him to cry to sinners, and to warn them to turn from their sins! O Lord, make them to hear Thy Word from Thy Watchman! Make him to call them that are asleep, and may they hear the Watchman's voice and deliver their souls!

To an inquiry from Mr. Taylor, whether he had any message to send to the Society, this same individual replied—Tell them I thank them for the good thing they do in sending the Gospel to we poor people. First time, I was in darkness, ignorant of the True God and the way of Salvation: but now, by God's blessing on the Word since I have been here, I can say, I thank the Lord Jesus Christ He die, rise again, and intercede for sinners; and, though I am poor and needy, and got nothing to send to them, still I remember them, to pray for them to God to bless them, to comfort them, and do good to them and their children and their children's children. Tell them not to vex themselves because plenty of their people die in this country; but they must arise, and put on new garments, and send out more people to preach the Gospel to sinners: they must not tire: they must not be afraid to go and do God's will, and fight their king's enemies.

Leopold.

The Return of the Schools, under the superintendance of Mr. Davey, is as follows:—

	Lady-Day.	Midsummer.	Michaelmas.	Christmas.
Boys' School	50	50	57	104
Girls' School	50	53	56	76
Adults' School	110	35	13	25
Total . .	210	138	126	205

There has been a successive diminution in the number of Adults for the last five quarters, which is stated to have arisen from some of them having been struck off rations, while others considered themselves too old to receive instruction.

The place appointed for Public Worship, having been enlarged, was re-opened on Easter Sunday. The number of Communicants was 8; and this number continued the same at Michaelmas, and at the end of the year.

On the acquirement of industrious habits, Mr. Davey observes—

The people here are as industrious as I can hope to see Africans. They cannot find a market for more than one-fourth of their produce; but this will be remedied I hope, in future, by their attention being turned to those articles which are more in demand, and can be exported.

At Michaelmas, a favourable change in the outward behaviour of the inhabitants, with increased industry of habit, was reported.

The plan for the increase of Missionary Funds, adopted by Mr. Taylor, was suggested to Mr. Davey under the following circumstances:—

This evening, being the First Wednesday in the month, we held our usual Monthly Missionary Prayer-Meeting: on which occasions I generally read and explain a few verses of Scripture relative to Missionary Exertions; and, afterward, some extracts from the Missionary Register, of the work which is going on in any part of the world, except Sierra Leone. It is delightful to see the interest manifested by those who attend, to hear all they can. In the course of this evening I read from the February Register (page 81) of the liberal contributions of the people of Huaheine; when it struck me that many were prevented from subscribing in this town for want of means. I therefore determined on receiving from those who were willing-hearted, any part of the produce of their farms, which it might be in my power to dispose of without involving myself in any fresh secular concerns. The people appeared, at once, to fall in with the plan. The next morning I mentioned it to Br. Taylor: it met with his approbation: and he, with myself, adopted it immediately.

The operation of this measure at Leopold is thus described by Mr. Davey. "Many of the people came this morning to cast their mites into the treasury; and I received this day 209 bushels of Cassada, at 9*d.* per bushel, value 7*l.* 16*s.* 9*d.*" And a few days afterwards, he adds, "The total quantity of Cassada given, up to this day, is 288 bushels, value 10*l.* 16*s.*"

Mr. Davey, in his Journal, on the 9th of June 1824, remarks—

I attended the Quarterly Sessions; and was happy to find, as usual, that the Calendar was small, and that none from the Villages of Liberated Africans were among the number.

Bathurst.

The Return of Scholars is as follows:—

	Lady-Day.	Michaelmas.	Christmas.
Boys' Day School	30	25	46
Girls' Day School	12	23	24

The Midsummer Return is imperfect: there was then an increase of Girls, from the arrival of a captured Slave Vessel. Mr. and Mrs. Gerber continue to labour usefully here. Mr. Metzger observes—

Br. Gerber's people appear to be much attached to him; and he has, in his Ministerial Office, striking proofs of God's gracious influence on some of their minds, which much encourage him.

At a subsequent period, however, he himself remarks—

Divine Service, as well on Sundays as Week-days, is kept, as it is usual in other Stations; yet I am sorry to say that our Congregations are but small, and it often pains my mind to see so many empty seats.

The people, in general, pay but little attention to the Word of God; yet I find them more quiet than when I first met them.

Mr. Gerber, in common with some others of the Brethren, has been compelled, in addition to his own immediate sphere, to labour in the neighbouring Stations. From the departure of Mr. Düring, up to Lady-Day, he had married 128 couple, and baptized 31 Children, belonging to other Settlements.

At Michaelmas, Mr. Gerber reported, that Divine Service was better attended, and that there were 15 Communicants. The Children in the Schools, also, were much improved.

In a recent communication, it is stated that Mr. Gerber was about to remove to the Banana Islands; from whence he would be able occasionally to visit the Plantains, York, and Kent.

Regent.

On the departure of the late Mr. Johnson from Sierra Leone for this Country, in the Spring of 1823, Mr. and Mrs. Norman were entrusted with the charge of Regent; but the state of their health also requiring a change of climate, Mr. and Mrs. Lisk removed thither at the following Christmas, from Waterloo, to superintend the instruction of the Settlement; while Mr. Reffell, the Colonial Secretary, undertook, for a time, the management of the secular concerns. Within a short period, Mrs. Lisk became incapable of maintaining her post of labour, and was, in consequence, compelled to return to her native country.

The duties connected with the Christian Institution proving too laborious for Mr. Norman in addition to his other numerous avocations, one of the Native Youths was deputed to take charge of it; and remained thus employed until the arrival of Mr. Lisk, when he was removed to Waterloo.

David Noah and William Davis, two of the Native Teachers connected with Regent, have rendered essential service in their respective departments there, while William Tamba has been labouring at Gloucester.

In the Rev. Henry Brooks, appointed, as before mentioned, to this Settlement, the Committee hope to find a Pastor whose heart is engaged in the arduous work before him, and who will faithfully and diligently feed the flock of Christ.

With a supply of Labourers thus frequently changed, and very inadequate to the wants of this interesting and important Station, it cannot excite surprise that unfavorable consequences should have followed. When, indeed, the extent of its population, and the variety of its Ministerial and Secular Duties, are considered, the ground of astonishment is, that the inhabitants of this Settlement should have been carried forward so rapidly as they were, by their late beloved Pastor, in civilization and religious attainment; a fact, which can only be accounted for, under the Divine Blessing, from the peculiar power which he possessed of winning the affections and inspiring the confidence of the people. During the nine months of Mr. Norman's retaining the charge of Regent, the people, attached to him from long intercourse, and his kindred disposition to their venerated Minister, were regular and attentive, and, in various ways, manifested much regard both to him and Mrs. Norman. Many proofs of this are contained in the Journal of Mr. Norman, which was printed in the Missionary Register for July 1824; as well as in his Quarterly Details, which were cited in the Annual Report of last year.

From the period of Mr. Johnson's departure, the preaching of the Word and the administration of the Ordinances were necessarily very irregular, and far from commensurate to the spiritual wants of the people. It is therefore a source of thanksgiving to God, that, amidst a population recently extricated from the very depths of heathen pollution and superstition, more numerous evils have not crept in. Under circumstances so peculiar, and so unfavorable, Mr. Lisk, at Lady-Day, had to report as follows:—

With much grief I lay before you the pitiable state of Regent. St. Paul, 2 Cor. iv. 8—10, describes our condition. There are some, I trust, who are bearing about in their bodies the dying of the Lord Jesus. I feel myself inadequate to this most important charge.

The attendance on the means of grace is not such as formerly: the Church is considered unsafe: no one is permitted to go into the galleries.

The number of children in the Schools is greatly decreased, on account of the small-pox. The Adults are, and have been since Mr. Johnson's death, very backward in coming to Evening School: no women come, and very few men.

David Noah, for the same quarter, states—

At present, there are 137 Boys in the Boys' School, and 94 Girls in the Girls' School, and also 48 Scholars living with their Parents—all together, Boys and Girls, 279: in this last Quarter, 7 of our School Boys and 13 Girls have died of the small-pox. Concerning the Evening Schools, I do not know what to say; for the people do not attend—only a few now and then.

At Michaelmas, the School Report was—

Boys 84. Girls 26.

This great reduction is in part accounted for by 33 Girls having married, and 29 entered into service in the Town:—53 Children were living with their Parents, but were instructed in the Schools.

At Christmas there were, in the Boys' Schools, 147; and in the Girls', 92; about half of whom were living with their Parents.

In the early part of the year, the state of the Schools was inquired into, by the Hon. J. Reffell, and a deputation of the Missionaries; and the result of the Examination was such as might naturally be anticipated from the very imperfect superintendence which, through the exigencies of the Mission, had been given to this Station. In order to supply the instruction so much needed in the Female Schools, it was resolved that Mrs. Schemel should relinquish her charge at Freetown, to enter upon that at Regent: but this arrangement was frustrated by her decease; and the Females, over whom she was to have been placed, continued to be left destitute of suitable instructors.

The population at this Station has been materially diminished: from the cessation of public works, the people have been under the necessity of going elsewhere for employment. This necessarily diminished the attendance at Public Worship; and led, also, to the suspension of the Adult Schools.

The Sacrament has latterly been regularly administered by Mr. Gerber; but the number of Communicants was very seriously reduced, amounting only to about one-third of what it had been.

The unfavourable consequences of this state of things have, moreover, been augmented by the dilapidated condition of the Church. Mr. Lisk reported, in the Spring of the year, that the frequent enlargement of this building had so weakened the structure as to render it unsafe. In a subsequent communication, he says—

> We have been called to witness many changing scenes. The Church, mentioned in my last Report as unsafe, has been shut up, while the additional roof was taken off, and reduced to its original size; during which time Divine Service was held in the Boys' School: consequently, many people could not be accommodated. The first Sunday after Easter the Church was re-opened; but is now so small, that many that might come cannot be seated.

Your Committee trust that the attention of Government will, at an early period, be directed to this subject; and that one of the first measures, under the new arrangement with the Society, will be the erection of a substantial Church, adequate to the accommodation of the numerous inhabitants of this Settlement, whose welfare and happiness so materially depend upon the regular administration of the sacred Ordinances of our Holy Faith. And while the Committee trust that the inconveniences at present experienced by the want of room in the Church, as it now exists, will be removed by the erection of a more spacious edifice, they feel it right to add, that no exertions shall be wanting, on their own part, to maintain, at this interesting Station, an efficient, affectionate, and devoted Ministry.

The Christian Institution.

This Institution was visited in March, at the Examination of the Regent Schools; when it was found that the number of Youths in the Seminary was reduced to 13; of whom three were absent, from sickness. In June the number was further reduced to 11, and at Christmas to 8. Some proficiency appeared to have been made by a few, while the remainder were very backward. With the elementary rules of Arithmetic they were well acquainted, and their writing was good. In the Latin Language, and English Grammar, they had, for a considerable period, received no instruction. For the more efficient regulation of this Seminary, which had suffered much from the absence of proper superintendence, it was deemed expedient, among other regulations, that the vacancies which might occur should be filled by such Youths as should be found best qualified, from any of the Settlements.

Gloucester.

The Returns of Mr. Düring, up to the period of his departure from the sphere of his faithful and successful ministrations, were given in the last Report. The spirit by which these documents were characterized, as well as that which pervaded his last Letters, afforded the best evidence of his preparation for the sudden and affecting dispensation by which he was removed from his labours. The Settlement has continued under the care of the Native Teacher, William Tamba: he has faithfully persevered in his labours, but has sensibly felt, and oftentimes pathetically lamented, the loss of the late Pastor of Gloucester. The Rev. Charles Knight, who has been appointed to this Station, will, the Committee trust, by gaining the affection of the Natives, contribute much, under the Divine Blessing, to restore to them that confidence and peace, for which they appear so dependent on European friendship.*

William Tamba states, that the Boys' School under Thomas Harding, and the Girls' School under Mrs. Renner, were going on well. The number of Communicants at Lady-Day was 143; at Midsummer, 132; at Michaelmas, 127; and at Christmas, 133. The Returns of the Schools were as follow:—

	Lady-Day.	Midsummer.	Michaelmas.	Christmas.
Boys' Day School . . .	59	61	81	43
Girls' Day School . . .	79	81	57	80

There were 17 Adults in the School at Lady-Day; and many, both of the Boys and Girls, lived at home with their Parents.

Leicester.

One of the Native Teachers from Regent has continued to visit Leicester, on Sundays and Wednesday Evenings. The people were assembled in one of the houses; but, as this was found insufficient to accommodate those who attended, a larger place was in preparation. The population of this Settlement is very small; but the readiness with which they listen to the means of grace is highly gratifying. At Christmas, William Davis stated that the people continued to attend well on the Sunday Services, and that there were five Communicants.

Wilberforce.

Since the removal of Mr. and Mrs. Metzger to Kissey, as before alluded to, this Station has enjoyed no regular superintendance; but has been occasionally visited, as other more pressing avocations permitted.

SHERBRO COUNTRY.

Of this Station Mr. Stephen Caulker writes, at Lady-Day—

Our Church being roofed, we hold Divine Service there in our own tongue. The inhabitants go out early in the morning for work, so that there is no possibility of collecting them for Morning Prayers: they meet, however, in the evening; when I read some of the Psalms in Bullom, and sing and read in English.

The Boys, now 34 in number, in general speak English, and understand a great part of what they read. I have reason to believe that the Books and Tracts which they read, and the Church Catechism which they get by heart, have made a great impression on their minds; and hope that the Lord will not only give me grace to improve in the way of Christ myself, but also to improve them.

At Midsummer, he adds—

The First Class are making a little improvement in writing and ciphering: and seven Boys of the Second Class are reading in the New Testament, and learning Addition, Subtraction, Multiplication, and Division Tables; and the rest of the Classes are doing well.

Blessed be the Everlasting God, the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who has preserved me to the present moment in health, which many have not enjoyed! and thanks be to His Holy Name that He has taught me, through His servants, to read His Holy Word, that I may be able also to instruct my Country-people in the way to their crucified Redeemer, Jesus Christ! May the Lord bless what little has been shewn to them; and give me grace and wisdom to instruct them in the right way!

In addition to the valuable testimonies from distinguished individuals to the improved state of the Settlements at Sierra Leone, which have appeared, from time to time, in the Reports, some gratifying extracts were given in the last Report, from the Letter of a Naval Officer. This Officer, as we learn from the Journal of Mr. Norman, was Commodore Filmore. Mr. Norman gives the following particulars of further remarks made by him:—

Dec. 20, 1823.—After our return from the Church, the Commodore told me that he was glad that he had been enabled to hear these things from the mouths of our African Converts; and that all which he saw and heard exceeded his most sanguine expectations.

Dec. 24—This morning I went on board the Owen Glendower, to visit the Commodore; and had an interesting conversation with him; during which he told me that he visited Regent under great prepossession of mind that too much had been said of its improvement, but he was now convinced that the reports concerning the state of the people were not at all exaggerated. He was perfectly satisfied with all that he saw.

Of his own departure from Regent, to return to this country, Mr. Norman adds—

Jan. 9, 1824—I was almost overwhelmed, when I left, at the affectionate manner in which the people bade me farewell.

The Committee feel anxious to do all in their power to supply the wants of this Mission. They are sensible that to maintain what is actually possessed is as important as to enter on new conquests. On this principle they would act in reference to Western Africa. They contemplate with gratitude the conquests already achieved by the Gospel over the superstitions of a part of the Native Population; they feel that a promising commencement has been made in the work of evangelizing Africa; and they would most deeply deplore, that the territory thus wrested from the dominion of the Great Enemy of Souls should be lost, through the want of adequate supplies for vigorously supporting the hallowed conflict. They are, moreover, impressed by the conviction, that the discouragements which have lately arisen in the African Mission are chiefly and naturally to be referred to the loss of Labourers at the different Stations; and they confidently anticipate the removal of those discouragements, under the Divine Blessing, when these losses shall be adequately supplied. But while the Committee are desirous to maintain the ground already gained in the Colony, they are also anxious to see the way opened for a wider diffusion of the light of the Gospel in the interior of Africa. And, as this part of their object must be materially aided by Native Teachers conversant with the languages and habits of the Tribes to whom they may be sent, it is evident, that while the instruction and due preparation of such Teachers will constitute an important branch of the Society's labours, the result of this branch of labour must have a powerful moral influence upon the whole African Population. Thus, by the blessing of the Most High on a well-directed combination of effort, and by a simplicity of purpose, and unity of action in the Labourers, the Committee, notwithstanding the clouds which for a moment may obscure the brightness of the prospect, still trust that Sierra Leone will become another Goshen; from whence, at some future period, the beams of Divine Light will extend in numerous directions across the wide Continent of Africa.

MEDITERRANEAN MISSION.

It was stated in a Note to the last Report, that this Mission had been deprived of the services of the Rev. T.C. Deininger. His retirement to Leghorn, in hope of the restoration of health, did not materially benefit him. He departed this life at the early age of not quite twenty-five years. His death was the tranquil and happy close of a life of short but devoted service. In his whole character there was such promise of future usefulness, if it had pleased God to spare him, that his loss is deeply felt by those who knew him. The Committee would, however, adopt Mr. Jowett's sentiments on this painful subject. He writes—

I have indeed lost a friend and a brother. But when I meditate on these words, Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven—Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God—and then reflect that this blessedness is inalterably his, I am more than resigned. But I would desire all my friends, under a sense of OUR loss, to increase in the fervour and fervency of their prayers to the Lord of the Harvest, that He would send forth more such Labourers into His harvest.

The appointment of the Rev. John Hartley to this Mission, and his arrival at Malta on the 26th of November, were stated under the head of "Missionaries and Students." A visit to Greece was, soon afterward, taken into consideration; when it was determined that Mr. Hartley should proceed, in the first instance, to Corfu, and spend some time in that and the neighbouring Islands, and that his subsequent measures should be regulated according to circumstances. Mr. Hartley having, in the mean while, applied himself to the study of Italian and Modern Greek, embarked for Corfu on the 17th of January, and landed there on the 22d. From his intercourse with persons of all classes, he feels encouraged. He finds the greatest readiness among the Greeks, not only to promote the circulation and reading of the Scriptures, but to attend the preaching of the Word. In allusion to one occasion he writes—

It was a spectacle highly gratifying to observe an Archbishop, a Bishop, and a considerable number of Laymen, listening to an English Minister, addressing them in the language of Greece. Who can venture to say that we are excluded from usefulness in this part of the world? What better opportunity of usefulness can a Minister enjoy in England, than to have a congregation of attentive hearers? To me it appears certain, that affectionate and zealous exertion among this interesting people will, by the Divine Blessing, be crowned with abundant success. I have heard of no Sermon addressed to them, to which they have not resorted with eagerness. And let it be remarked, that it is not a few obscure individuals, who have been present on these occasions; but the Heads of their Church and the Heads of their Nation. Bishops and Counts have listened, with apparent interest and delight, to the Sermons of English Ministers.

Mr. Hartley anticipates, with pleasure, the time when he shall be actively engaged in the communication of the Gospel*. He writes—

I thank God for what I have witnessed. I feel animated and encouraged by it. If God continue to bless me with health and strength, they shall both be spent in preaching Christ Crucified through the Countries of the Levant.

The appointment of Mr. Henry Andrews to superintend the various branches of the Printing Establishment at Malta was stated in the last Report. He arrived there, with his Wife, on the 1st of February of last year. They have both greatly commended themselves, by their character and conduct, to Mr. Jowett's esteem and regard: it is, therefore, with much concern that he reports the health of Mr. Andrews to be so seriously impaired, as to render his continuance in the Mission doubtful. Mr. Jowett remarks, in December—

The idea of quitting the Mission is inexpressibly painful, both to Mr. and Mrs. Andrews. They are attached to it, I truly believe, on the highest principles.

The Committee trust that it may please God to restore Mr. Andrews; as there has been a considerable abatement in the earlier symptoms of his disease, which seemed to require his immediate return. There is so much difficulty in finding persons, possessed of all the requisite qualifications to conduct a Printing Establishment abroad, and disposed to act herein on the high and disinterested principles of a true Missionary, that the Committee could not but regret the return of Mr. Andrews as a serious loss to the Mission.

Since Mr. Jowett's return from Syria, in March of last year, he has been fully occupied in the superintendance of the Press, and in the preparation of a Second Volume of "Christian Researches."

In May, he writes that he had several Tracts, both in Italian and in Arabic, ready for the Press; and, in June, he expresses his desire to enter immediately on a small Periodical Publication, in Modern Greek, which would, in all probability, have considerable circulation, as there is a great demand in Greece for useful publications: some imperfections, however, in the founts of types, and the illness of Mr. Andrews, retarded the execution of these measures.

The Second Volume of "Christian Researches," just mentioned, is chiefly the fruit of Mr. Jowett's visit to Syria and the Holy Land. The Manuscript has been sent home at different times as Mr. Jowett could prepare it, and by various means of conveyance; but it has all arrived in safety, and is proceeding at the press with all practicable despatch, under the care of the Society's late Secretary, who has obligingly consented, at the request of the Committee, to take charge of the Volume. As Mr. Jowett's Preface to the work will convey, in a short compass, a general view both of the present Volume and of the wide field of Research which yet remains to be explored, the Committee here subjoin it*.

The present Volume is designed as a continuation of those Christian Researches, in the prosecution of which the Author was engaged during the first five years of his labours in the Mediterranean, from 1815 to 1820; and of which an account has already been published by the Church Missionary Society.

In the former publication, a wider range was taken; and a general view was given of most of the countries adjacent to this sphere of Missionary Labour. In this Volume, a fuller description is offered of one particular portion of these regions —a portion by far the most interesting to Christians, on account of its connection with all the great events recorded in the Holy Scriptures.

The limited extent of the region here described dispenses with the necessity of that systematic arangement, which was observed in the former Volume—an arangement, which was, in fact, absolutely requisite to the clear developement of the condition and opinions of so great a variety of Nations and of Churches, as was exhibited in that publication. In the following pages, many of the Author's observations are given in the form of a Journal. It would not, indeed, have been difficult to subdivide the Volume into parts, each furnishing a separate account of the different classes of society to be found in Syria and Palestine. Since, however, that small country does, in fact, present an epitome of nearly all the Bodies of men existing around the Mediterranean, it is evident, that, in such a partition of subjects, some would have been found too inconsiderable to form by themselves a detached chapter.

The want of lucid order, incidental to this mode of publication, will appear, however, to be, in a considerable measure, remedied by the Introductory Section of the Work; in which, by means of an extensive compilation from a variety of Authors, there is presented to the Reader a classified view of the different Bodies of Men existing in Syria and Palestine.

In the Sections which follow the Journal, the Author has aimed at developing, more fully than his Journal had done, the condition of the people; not without an ardent hope, that the picture exhibited may be the means of rousing the British Public to a deeper sense of their obligations to prosecute Christian Missions in this part of the world. Various suggestions, the result of frequent communication with men of intelligence and piety, are likewise offered, in reference to the character of Missionaries and the measures of Missionary and Bible Societies.

In the Appendix is given the Journal of a Visit made, last winter, to the Regency of Tunis by Mr. Joseph Greaves—a friend from whose assistance the Church Missionary Society has, during several years, derived great benefit; and who was desirous to attempt at least, previously to his quitting Malta, a commencement of Christian Investigation and Exertions in North Africa—a region hitherto untrod by the feet of any Protestant Missionaries. Besides distributing many copies of the Holy Scriptures and useful Tracts, he has added to our general knowledge of the States of Barbary some valuable and interesting particulars, which may hereafter serve as a foundation of various practical measures.

The ChurchMissionary Society has felt the advantage of the System of Research thus far conducted, with sufficient force to desire that it should be, in its proportion, steadily pursued. In fact, the former Volume may be considered as a general Survey of the whole of the Mediterranean Sphere; the particular divisions of which will require, each of them in succession, to be filled up, so far as shall be found practicable, more in detail. On this plan, it would be desirable for the public to be furnished with an exact view of the circumstances and opinions of the following principal countries:—the PAPAL STATES, together with the Nations more immediately in relation with them—MODERN GREECE—TURKEY IN EUROPE AND ASIA—ARMENIA, and the neighbouring regions—PERSIA—SYRIA and PALESTINE (the review of which is, in the present Volume, in a considerable measure, executed)—ARABIA—EGYPT and NUBIA—ABYSSYNIA—and the BARBARY STATES. An intelligent investigation of the condition of these various regions, prosecuted by the different Missionaries in a truly Christian spirit, with accuracy of observation, sound judgment, meekness of temper, and a practical determination of mind, would furnish to the conductors of Missionary and Bible Societies, and to Missionaries actually on service, an invaluable depository of information, on which to form their opinions and direct their measures.

It is, however, fully to be borne in mind, that such a System of Research forms only a part—a small, and continually decreasing part, of the work of a Missionary. Enough has, indeed, been already effected, to open an introduction to immediate and important labours. The various Christian Societies of our own Country, of the Continent, and of America would probably all of them concur in this judgment, and many of them are acting upon it. But the spirit and the measures of all need a vast enlargement. It is high time for the faithful members of Christ to be instant in their supplications to Him, who is the great Head over all things to the Church—that He would vouchsafe to pour out the gift of His Holy Spirit more abundantly than ever, preparing all the Nations by a feeling of anxious expectation of some great event, and at the same time sending forth a numerous company of Evangelists to visit all the dark places of the Earth in the fulness of the blessing of the Gospel of Christ.

It is in this spirit and with these views, that the Committee wish to prosecute the great objects of this Mission: while they are desirous of continuing, as opportunities may offer, those Christian Researches which have been so auspiciously begun, they are anxious that practical measures should be pursued, as fast as the means can be obtained, wherever openings for labour may present themselves.

The attention of the Committee has been of late directed to two portions, more particularly, of this wide field—Greece and Abyssinia.

Mr. Jowett has detailed, in the Volume of "Christian Researches in the Mediterranean," the results of several visits which he paid to some parts of Greece. The events which have since occurred, and the present state of that country, have justly awakened toward it among Christians a peculiar degree of interest. The Committee have already spoken of the visit of the Rev. John Hartley to Greece; and they trust that the results of this visit may be such as to encourage them to follow up the design.

To Abyssinia, the attention of the Society was called some years since, by the circumstances which occurred in Mr. Jowett's visits to Egypt, and which are detailed in the Twentieth Report, and more largely in the Volume of "Christian Researches in the Mediterranean." The British and Foreign Bible Society has since availed itself of all the means at its disposal, to prepare the Scriptures for Abyssinia, both in the Ethiopic, as the Ecclesiastical Language of the country, and in the Amharic, as the chief Vernacular Dialect. By the active aid of its learned co-adjutors, the Four Gospels in Amharic, from the translation of Abu Rumi, procured for the Society by Mr. Jowett in Egypt, have been printed, and forwarded to Abyssinia. The Ethiopic Scriptures are under preparation: in aid of this work, the Committee have lately presented to the British and Foreign Bible Society some Ethiopic Manuscripts, purchased by Mr. Jowett at Jerusalem, among which was a valuable copy of the entire New Testament. Under these hopeful circumstances, some further statements and suggestions made by Mr. Jowett in his Volume now in the press induced the Committee to make preparation for a Mission, at the earliest practicable period, to Abyssinia. On the arrival from Bâsle of the Five Lutheran Clergymen before mentioned, three of them were destined to this service; and the other two to occupy such Stations in the Mediterranean as might appear most eligible, in reference to a connection with Abyssinia. The visit to that country will be a Journey of Research and Investigation, by the result of which future measures will be regulated. It is proposed, that the three Missionaries shall avail themselves, in studying the language, of the aid of some Abyssinians at Jerusalem; and, after spending some time in the Holy City with that view, shall proceed from thence to their destination: in the mean while, they are all, with their brethren, prosecuting the requisite preparatory studies in the Society's Institution.

The Committee have heard with concern of the death of Mr. Lee, the English Consul at Alexandria. His uniform kindness to Christian Missionaries will endear his memory to many who have found him a friend to strangers in a strange land.

The great questions at issue between Christians and Mahomedans are now more fully exhibited to the inquirer, in the Volume of "Controversial Tracts" recently published by Professor Lee. To a translation of Mirza Ibrahim's Arabic Tract in defence of Islamism, and of the three Tracts of Mr. Martyn in reply, the Professor has added a translation of the Rejoinder of Mohammed Ruza, of Hamadan, in reply to Mr. Martyn; and, besides a copious notice of a former controversy on the same subject, has supplied an able and elaborate Conclusion of his own.

In reference to this Mission the Committee would remark, that they contemplate the wide sphere of labour to which access is opened through the medium of Malta with feelings of deep and augmenting interest. The political and civil state of these countries draws much of the public attention to this quarter; and the Scriptural hope and expectation of the revival of Truth and Righteousness in these regions awaken increasing exertions among the more enlightened portions of the Christian Church, both in Europe and America. Mr. Jowett's Volumes, and the communications of the American and other Missionaries, will cherish and extend these feelings in the New as well as in the Old World. The thoughtful and serious among Christian Students will begin to associate with their ideas of the Holy Land and its surrounding regions earnest desires of their spiritual restoration. Many will offer themselves for this service; and prayer will abound, until the Spirit be poured out from on high, and the wilderness become again a fruitful field. The regions which witnessed the advent and death of the Saviour of the World, the labours of His Apostles, and the primitive glory of pure and undefiled Christianity, and which received that blood of the Martyrs which is the seed of the Church, are not destined to remain for ever under the relentless intolerance of bigotry and superstition; and there are sufficient indications in the course of events, that the time is drawing near when the old waste places shall be built and the foundations of many generations shall be raised.

CALCUTTA AND NORTH-INDIA MISSION.

The arrival of the Bishop of Calcutta at his Diocese was announced in the Twenty-fourth Report, as well as the appointment of the Rev. Daniel Corrie by his Lordship to the Archdeaconry of Calcutta.

The Episcopal Visitation was held, and his Lordship's first Charge delivered, at the Cathedral, on Ascension Day of last year. The Missionaries in connection with the Society who attended this Visitation were addressed by the Bishop. In allusion to the important object of their labours, his Lordship entered, somewhat at large, into the great question of Hindoo Conversion; and having appealed to the evidence furnished upon this interesting question by the Converts of the Church Missionary Society at Agra, Benares, Meerut, and Chunar, his Lordship referred to the happy results which had arisen from the labours of other Societies embarked in the same great Cause, in the following manner:—

Bear witness, those numerous believers of our own immediate neighbourhood, with whom, though we differ on many, and doubtless on very important points, I should hate myself if I could regard them as any other than my Brethren and Fellow-servants in the Lord. Let the populous Christian Districts of Malabar bear witness, where believers are not reckoned by solitary individuals, but by hundreds and by thousands. Bear witness Ceylon, where the Cross has lost its reproach; and the Chiefs of the land are gradually assuming, without scruple, the attire, the language, and the religion of Englishmen. And let him finally bear witness, whom we have now received into the number of the commissioned servants of the Church; and whom we trust, at no distant day, to send forth, in the fulness of Christian Authority, to make known the way of truth to those his countrymen from whose errors he has himself been graciously delivered.

The latter part of these remarks alludes to the Ordination of a Native of India on this interesting occasion.

At the First Anniversary of the Church Missionary Association, held on the 18th of May at Calcutta*, it was reported that the Contributions had amounted to 4449 Rupees. The Venerable the Archdeacon, the President, in opening the proceedings, remarked—

The accession of the Bishop of Calcutta to the supporters of the Church Missionary Society had of course rendered him a supporter also of this Association: and he had the pleasure of assuring the Meeting, that the Report about to be offered for their adoption had been, in conformity with their principles as Episcopalians, submitted to his Lordship, who had signified his general approbation of its contents, and even taken the trouble to correct it pretty largely with his own hand, without however altering in any respect the substance of what had been submitted to him.

* An Account of the Anniversary, with various intelligence relative to the Mission, was given at pp. 184—191 of the Missionary Register for April.

The proceedings at the formation of the Calcutta Auxiliary Church Missionary Society, of which the Lord Bishop is the President, were given in the Appendix to the last Report. That Society having only entered on the duties and responsibilities of the Corresponding Committee in December 1823, and having determined that their Report should close with the month of April, had in their first Report but to present to the friends of the Society the proceedings of a brief period. The Committee will avail themselves of that Report, and of subsequent communications, in giving a detail of the present state of this Mission.

The Auxiliary Committee at Calcutta propose, in future, to publish and circulate accounts of Missionary Proceedings, every month, instead of every quarter; and from the extensive benefits which have arisen from a wide and frequent circulation of such intelligence at home, there is every reason to anticipate a similar result from the adoption of this measure abroad.

From the standing Regulations of the Auxiliary Committee it will be seen how fully the Society's Missionaries at Calcutta will in future enjoy the patronage and superintendance of the Bishop.

The first of these Regulations requires—

That all the Episcopal Missionaries of the Society at this Presidency, who have not obtained the Bishop's licence, be directed to apply to him for the same; and that every Missionary of the Society, episcopally ordained, be directed, on his arrival from England, to present himself to the Bishop of the Diocese for his licence.

By this desirable and important arrangement, the Society's Labourers, who are Episcopally ordained, will bear a relation to their Diocesan in India, similar to that existing between the Parochial Clergy and their respective Diocesans at home. The Committee entertain a grateful and confident assurance, that in the distinguished individual who presides over the Church Establishment in the East, their Missionaries will find a Friend and a Father, who will animate them by his example, guide them by his counsels, and support them by his prayers.

The following sentiments are expressed in the Report of the Auxiliary Society on this subject:—

The Committee cannot refrain from congratulating their friends on the accession to their numbers of the Right Reverend the Bishop of Calcutta. Conformed as their proceedings had always been to the usage of the ancient Societies in the Established Church, they could not but desire the official countenance of their Bishop. They have now that privilege, which, from the personal attention paid by his Lordship to the interests of the Society, not only promises to add greater efficiency in the Committee's operations, but also afford an additional security to the Members of the Establishment, that their measures will be pursued in strict conformity with the principles which the Church Missionary Society has always maintained.

CALCUTTA AND ITS VICINITY.

The Auxiliary Committee, under the head of MISSIONARIES AND STUDENTS, state—

The Committee have to report the transfer of Mr. Dunsmure to the Society for Propagating the Gospel. In 1821 the Corresponding Committee reported, that a Youth, 17 years of age, the son of an Officer, had, with his father's consent, devoted himself to be a Missionary; and was then pursuing his studies under Mr. Perowne. Mr. Dunsmure continued to pursue his studies with much diligence and success, till the early part of 1823; when he was received as an Assistant in the English School of the Burdwan Mission, a situation which he filled with great advantage to the Pupils, and much to the satisfaction of Mr. Perowne and your Committee. He, however, was desirous of pursuing his studies further, with a view to eventual efficiency in the work to which he had devoted himself; and, with the cordial approbation of the Principal of Bishop's College, has been admitted, by the Right Reverend the Visitor, a Student on that foundation.

The Committee are happy to be able to report also the admission of a very promising Youth to Bishop's College, as a Student on the part of the Church Missionary Society. He has had all the previous advantages, as to education, which Calcutta affords; and, at his OWN URGENT DESIRE, his friends have given their full consent to the arrangement above stated.

In reference to some of the Labourers mentioned in the last Report, it was ultimately determined that Mr. T. W. Smyth should accompany the Rev. Michael Wilkinson and Mrs. Wilkinson to Goruckpore. Mrs. Jetter, late Miss Cortis, was for some time actively employed in sharing Mrs. Wilson's labours; but latterly the health both of herself and Mr. Jetter was so much impaired as to require change of air: Mr. Jetter, during the months of May and June, was disabled by serious indisposition; and his return home being deemed indispensable, he embarked with Mrs. Jetter, in August, on board the Princess Charlotte, bound to Liverpool; but the vessel having sprung a leak, was compelled to put back, after beating about in the Bay of Bengal for a period of six weeks: they embarked again in November, and arrived in this country on the 25th of April.

On the 4th of August the Rev. J. T. Reichardt was married to Miss Price. Mrs. Reichardt has become the Assistant of Mrs. Wilson in the place of Mrs. Jetter; and has undertaken the charge of ten of the Female Schools. A pulmonary complaint, which, for a considerable time, had prevented Mr. Brown from pursuing his usual occupation at the Printing Office, has at length terminated his labours: he died on the 20th of August. The Mission has sustained a great loss by the removal of this valuable individual. Mr. Wilson, in a Letter announcing his decease, speaks very highly of his piety and services, and of his devotedness to the Missionary Work.

The other Labourers at this Station were in the enjoyment of good health; particularly Mrs. Wilson, who appears to be blessed with a constitution and habit of mind peculiarly adapted to her laborious and important avocations.

The Society's Missionaries at Calcutta are diligently pursuing their labours, and, in some branches of their work, under circumstances of great encouragement.

On the EDUCATION of the Natives, the Auxiliary Committee state, that the Calcutta Association had relieved them of four of the Boys' Schools. They add—

By a distribution of labour, agreed upon between themselves, the Rev. Mr. Reichardt took the special care of the schools of the Auxiliary Society, whilst Mr. Jetter superintends those of the Association. In the six schools, including the English School at Mirzapore, are about 400 Boys. The first and second Classes of all the schools were examined together in the Society's Library at Mirzapore, in March last; when they were examined from the Gospel, the Dialogues, Geography, and Mr. Jetter's Spelling-book: the examination lasted from 9 to 3 in the afternoon. The Boys read and explained several chapters of the Gospel with considerable fluency and accuracy, and readily answered various questions on the Doctrines of the Gospel, to the satisfaction of those who were present. They evinced a good proficiency in writing by dictation, and wrote pretty correctly several passages which they had not previously seen.

The English School at Mirzapore has been under the superintendance of Mr. Wilson. The Committee of the Association, whose province it is to direct the general management of the Bengalee Schools, remark—

They are fully convinced that there is no obstacle in the way of General Education, but the want of Labourers and of increased Funds.

Mr. Wilson, respecting the progress of the Schools, observes—

The Boys' Schools give us great satisfaction. The First Classes read and explain the New Testament in a most delightful way. We have all Castes, from the lowest Soodra to the Brahmin; and according to their knowledge they rise or fall, without any regard to the holy string, or the slightest prejudice.

That the cause of Native Female Education in India might excite a more powerful interest among all classes of benevolent persons in that country, it was deemed expedient to assign this department of the Society's labour to a separate Association of Ladies.

On this subject the Auxiliary Committee state—

With a view to meet the feelings of the respectable Natives of India, and to improve more extensively the opportunities opening for Female Education, a Society was formed in March last, entitled, THE LADIES' SOCIETY FOR NATIVE FEMALE EDUCATION IN CALCUTTA AND ITS VICINITY, of which the Right Honourable Lady Amherst is Patroness.

To the high patronage and liberal support of this Society, the Committee have devolved the care of the Female Branch of their operations; reserving to themselves the right of resuming that charge, should circumstances ever lead to the abandonment of it by the Ladies' Society: an event, indeed, not likely to occur. It does not belong to the Committee to indulge in any eulogium on the Ladies who form that body: it was anticipated, that, when a suitable opportunity should offer, the Ladies of Calcutta would in no respect come short, in a department so peculiarly their own, of the benevolent characters of British Ladies in other countries.

Respecting the Female Schools in general, it is reported:—

Mrs. Wilson, before her connection with the Auxiliary Society ceased, had added only two to the number of the Schools reported by the Corresponding Committee in August: justly considering that she could not extend efficient superintendance to many more.

The number of Schools then reported was 22; and the Scholars had increased, at the beginning of April, from 400 to about 500, though the average regular attendance was considerably short of that number.

In December, at the Old-Church Rooms, a most interesting examination took place of the Society's Native Female Schools under the superintendance of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson. The scene was altogether a most striking and impressive one: many of the women and children evinced a proficiency truly astonishing, when we consider the obstacles which they had to surmount. The first Classes read the New Testament, not only with facility, but with an evident understanding of its meaning; and answered several questions put to them with a degree of intelligence and pertinence little to be expected. Specimens of their needle-work and writing were exhibited; and we do not hesitate to say, that both were beyond the most sanguine expectations that could have been formed when Mrs. Wilson first entered on her arduous undertaking: too much cannot be said in praise of her exertions, the effect of which must surprise even herself. The children were principally of the lower orders; a circumstance which will not fail eventually, we should think, to excite a spirit of emulation in those of higher caste and greater affluence. After the examination, suitable rewards were distributed; and a quantity of articles, supplied for the occasion by some benevolent Ladies, were disposed of to the Visitors; the proceeds to be applied to the building of a Central School. Lady Amherst, the Honourable Miss Amherst, the Lord Bishop, Lady M'Naghten, Mrs. Harington, and several other Ladies and Gentlemen in the first ranks of society, honoured the ceremony with their presence. Indeed, long before the introduction of the children the Rooms were crowded. To those who understood the Bengalee Language, in which the examination was conducted, it must have been doubly interesting.

Since that period, about 50 women and girls, who could read well, have left the schools. The irregular attendance of the children renders it necessary to guard the friends of Female Education against expecting too much at present from the measures in operation; whilst, also, the ignorance and pernicious habits and conversation with which they are still surrounded OUT OF SCHOOL, go far to nullify the little of moral good which they acquire in the school. The mothers, however, now no longer laugh at the idea of their daughters learning to read, but generally profess a wish that their children and grand-children should be taught. About sixteen adult women are among the learners in different schools. Experience proves more and more the desirableness of having a Central School erected; where, though fewer should attend, a better acquaintance with them may be cultivated, and the system of education be pursued with greater regularity and permanency.

The difficulty of procuring a piece of ground, in a suitable situation, to build on, is now the only obstacle in the way of this desirable undertaking: and to the prudence and good management of the Ladies' Society this, and every other consideration connected with the subject of Female Education, may be safely confided.

A Calcutta Journal thus speaks of the Public Examination:—

The Examination commenced, on the arrival of Lady Amherst, by the introduction of the First Class, consisting of a number of girls, who read the New Testament with much facility, and answered the questions, put to them by Mrs. Wilson and the Rev. Messrs. Wilson and Jetter, with much perspicuity and discernment. We cannot help remarking the quickness of one little girl, a child not exceeding four years of age, who read the New Testament without the slightest hesitation, and with a clearness quite astonishing. The girls composing the Second Class were examined in one of the elementary books made use of by the Society, and acquitted themselves very much to the satisfaction of the company present. Another Class was examined in Dr. Watts's Catechism, and evinced great retention of memory.

Of the promise of success in this most important branch of labour, the same Journal adds—

When we consider the short period that this Society has been in active operation—a period not exceeding eighteen months, we feel that every thing which could be said by us would be inadequate to the idea that we entertain of the value of its services.

Mr. Wilson gives the following particulars respecting these Schools:—

In this department of our labours there is every thing to encourage and animate us to go forward. Mrs. Wilson has now above 500 Children, in 24 Schools; and, if our funds would allow it, we might have double the number immediately. The prejudice of the people, in reference to the instruction of their daughters, is daily dying way. When Mrs. Wilson first came among them, they would not consent to enter our verandah, preferring rather to sit in the mud than to enter the house; but now they are willing to come miles, through the streets, to attend a Public Examination, and readily enter the rooms which adjoin the Old Mission Church.

Mrs. Wilson has introduced the New Testament into about half of her Schools; and, as soon as all the Children can read it, she will introduce that Sacred Volume to all under her charge.

In a Letter* dated Nov. 1824, Mrs. Wilson writes—

I hope that distinct Ladies' Societies will be formed, for carrying forward Education among the Females of this Country. A few Schools here and there will do but little; but I trust the subject is much prayed for and thought of in England. Press this vast work on the consideration of all ranks at home. Well-disposed Ladies will surely curtail ten pounds a-year from their wardrobe, to assist the Female Department of our labours: they will dispense with a costly trinket, in order that twenty or forty Heathen Girls may learn to read that Book which points them to Jesus the Saviour of Sinners.

Mrs. Wilson states, that she had then 27 Schools, but that sickness and the rainy season had rendered the attendance less regular than usual.

A Separate Fund has been opened in aid of Female Education in India, and the Committee have made a grant of 500*l.* to the Calcutta Ladies' Society.

Of the progress of Education, and its influence on the moral and maternal character of the Hindoo Female, the Report of the Hibernian Auxiliary thus speaks :—

> Female Education cannot remain stationary in Calcutta: it must pervade the Continent: and that city will only be the centre whence light and information, diffused over the country, will animate and elevate the female character. Raised to her proper rank in society, the Hindoo Female will modify and influence that society: the appalling forms of cruelty and pollution will disappear under her influence, and give way gradually to the mildness of the female manner; and the Woman of Hindostan, become the companion, not the slave of man, will no longer consent to sacrifice her offspring from superstition or herself through despair: but will find means to counteract that superstition, by the light poured into her mind from education; and that despair, by employments fitted for her rank, her sex, and her character.

In the sentiments here expressed, the Committee fully concur. They feel assured, that, in proportion to the elevation of the female character by education, will be the progress of female influence. The History of the Church, in various ages, will shew how frequently female influence has been exerted in favour of Christianity. "It is very observable," says Milner, "how much the Lord has made use of women in the propagation of the Gospel amongst idolaters. While France was deeply indebted to the piety of Queen Clovis, our own Country owes much, under the blessing of God, to the zeal of the illustrious descendant of Clovis, the Saxon Queen Bertha."

"There are many willows to cut down, and roots to remove," remarked a Native Indian to a Missionary, "before the path is made clear to walk in." When the Committee, therefore, bear in mind, that the project of communicating instruction to the Native Females of the East, which until recently was regarded as hopeless, is now in active operation and daily extending its range, they cannot but consider the facilities afforded for this important purpose, by the rapid diminution of prejudice, as opening a most cheering prospect. They desire to record their grateful acknowledgments to Almighty God, that an entrance on this interesting path of Missionary Labour has been so unexpectedly and happily effected.

In the MINISTRY OF THE WORD, Divine Service is continued at Mirzapore on Sunday Mornings in Bengalee; and on Sunday Evenings, and in the week, at a Bungalow Chapel in the vicinity. The Lecture at Kidderpore is also continued on Monday Evening; and Congregations of Natives assemble on these respective occasions, consisting of from 20 to 80 persons. Mr. Reichardt hoped to be soon able to address the Natives in their own tongue. The Auxiliary Committee quote his observations on this subject, as follows:—

With respect to preaching, Mr. Reichardt reports:—This important branch of our labours has been suspended for ten weeks, on account of Mr. Jetter's indisposition. Though I find my acquaintance with the Bengalee Language sufficient for teaching in the Schools, yet I do not feel myself competent to preach in it. I intend, however, with the blessing of God, to make soon some beginning, in speaking to the Natives at the Chapel in the New Road.

The difference between the acquisition of the Bengalee as it is WRITTEN, and employed COLLOQUIALLY, is thus referred to by Mr. Reichardt:—

The language which is spoken among the lower classes of people is more difficult to acquire than the book language; and it is a frequent defect of our preaching, that we use the book language, which, though familiar to us, is but little understood by the lower classes. The Pundits pride themselves in teaching us high language, and expressions chiefly taken from the Sanscrit; and even in their conversations with us they will exert all their skill in using the finest and highest expressions, because they say it is improper to use low words in the presence of a Sahib. It is, therefore, a difficult matter to acquire those colloquial expressions which are understood and used by all classes among themselves, because we seldom have an opportunity of hearing them. It is only a long stay in the country, and much conversation with the common people, which will afford means of acquiring such a knowledge of Bengalee as may enable us to make ourselves understood by all classes. If we tell our Pundits to teach us common words and phrases, even then, rather than do what we desire, they say that they do not know such common language.

Mr. Wilson, who for some time had performed part of the duties at the Old Church, has latterly devoted his attention more particularly to the acquisition of the Bengalee Language, in order to enter with more effect on his Ministry among the Natives. He is now in the habit of preaching to them three times a week, when from 10 to 70 or 80 assemble. Mr. Wilson remarks of these—

Some remain till the close of the Service: others go out, after hearing some truth which perhaps they do not love, because their deeds are evil. Thus, in the course of one evening, 150 or 200 Pagans hear the sound of the Gospel.

The medical knowledge of Mr. Wilson has been turned to good account, by enabling him to assist and facilitating his intercourse with the Natives.

While Native Females are making good progress in the elementary branches of education, the higher aims of the Society for their spiritual welfare have also, in several cases, been successful.

The Rev. Deocar Schmid writes, in a Letter to the Secretaries, dated Feb. 24, 1824, in reference to the Orphan Asylum under his care and that of Mrs. Schmid:—

You will be glad to hear, that, at the Confirmation which was held here on the 3d instant, six of our Pupils were confirmed; three of whom I have since found fit for admission to the Lord's Supper, as I have every reason to believe that they are truly converted to God. It affords us the greatest satisfaction, to be permitted to hope that we shall be instrumental in training up a succession of pious women, who will become suitable partners for Missionaries, or in other ways assist in carrying on the Missionary Work.

I may also observe, that of the 14 Girls who have been hitherto confirmed, 10 are become regular, steady Communicants, and live consistently with their profession: we have, therefore, great reason to be thankful to God for the success which he has granted to our labours; and we cannot but hope that he will be pleased to carry on, by our instrumentality, the Work of Grace which he has begun in our School.

One of the Pupils of Mr. and Mrs. Schmid was united in marriage to Mr. Smyth, one of the Society's Labourers, a few months after his arrival in Calcutta; and has proceeded with him to Goruckpore, for the purpose of aiding Mr. and Mrs. Wilkinson in establishing and superintending the Schools in that neighbourhood.

In June, Mr. Schmid thus writes to the Secretaries:—

It affords me great satisfaction to inform you, that in the course of a few weeks we shall have the happiness of sending forth three of our dear pious Pupils as Labourers in the Missionary Vineyard. Ann Mackay has been engaged by Mrs. Marshman, and Sarah Baron by Mrs. Rowe, as Assistants in the work of Native Female-Education: these are the two young women who had been engaged for the same purpose by Mrs. Wilson, as I mentioned in my last Letter: and a third, named Mary White, will, by the next opportunity, proceed to Burdwan, to assist Mrs. Perowne in superintending the Native Girls'-Schools under her care. We consider ourselves highly rewarded for all our labours, by seeing ourselves thus made instrumental in training up, we hope, a succession of Female Missionaries. As all the six, who have applied themselves to the study of Bengalee, are now engaged in actual Missionary work—one having married Mr. Smyth, three being on the point of proceeding to their several Stations, and two being fully employed as Assistants in the School—we have again placed six of the elder pious, or, at least, well-disposed and hopeful Girls, under a course of instruction in the Bengalee Language; so that, if I add to them those six younger Girls who have been learning Bengalee for several months past, there are no less than 12 of our Pupils under a course of direct preparation for Missionary usefulness. We have not the least doubt but that those three, whom we are going to send forth, will, if their lives are spared, prove very valuable agents in the work of Native Female-Education. One of them has just given to us a most gratifying proof of her piety. A respectable person in Calcutta, who often visits us, had made to her an overture respecting marriage; but though he is, in every other point of view, a very respectable and amiable character, yet, as he is still involved in spiritual darkness, she explicitly declared to him, in an excellent Letter, that she would by no means consent to a union with him, so long as he retained his present sentiments; and entreated him, in the most pathetic manner, to turn unto God without delay.

In October, Mr. Schmid informed the Secretaries, that he had received favourable accounts of the proceedings of these Females; and that another of their pious Pupils had entered into active employment, as Schoolmistress at the Cape of Good Hope. He also reports, that Miss Mary Jackson, the Assistant in the Female Orphan Asylum, was about to be married to his Brother, the Rev. Bernhard Schmid, and that she would be able to render important aid at the Female Seminary at Palamcottah.

On the gradual diminution of prejudice among the Natives of India, Mr. Reichardt remarks—

I am happy to observe that many general prejudices of the Hindoos are perceptibly wearing away. I spoke a few months ago to an intelligent Hindoo of the Merchant Caste, who seemed to inquire into the truths of Christianity; and, after some conversation respecting their superstitions, he said, "Ah, Sir, we are no more so prejudiced against Christianity and the customs of Europeans, as we were twenty years ago; and some few years hence we shall be still less so. I can prove this from my own case; because I am not so superstitious as my father, and my son is not so much prejudiced as myself." This is the sentiment of a Native himself; and I can testify, from what I have daily opportunity to observe and to hear, that he spoke the truth.

The rich among the Hindoos approach successively the European Customs and Manners: though they do not put on, as yet, the European Dress, they stock their houses with European Articles and Furniture in grand style, and pride themselves much in making a fine shew of such things when they give an entertainment to Europeans.

The Brahmins are still a mighty barrier against the introduction of Christianity into this country; though their influence is rapidly declining. They were formerly accustomed (and many of them do so now) to go from house to house, and receive at each some gift of money or eatables &c., for which they pronounced a blessing on the giver; but now, when they come to the houses of Soodras, they are often refused, and must hear such words as these, "Go and labour, and you will procure sufficient to maintain yourself."

On the insufficiency of human efforts for the propagation of the Gospel, unaccompanied by the influence of the Holy Spirit, the same Missionary adds—

During my stay in this country, I have sufficiently seen that it is not by might nor by power that success can be obtained in our work, but by the Spirit of the Lord: we are but the instruments in his hand, the Day-Labourers in the Vineyard of the Lord. If we are found faithful, discharging our duties in humble dependence on the God of all grace, we shall then surely prosper. The increase must come from the Lord, and the blessing from above. Pray for us, Dear Sir, that utterance may be given unto us to speak forth boldly the Gospel of Christ, and to be stedfast, unmoveable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, knowing that our labour shall not be in vain in the Lord. Cease not to pray, and to exhort ALL who can pray, to remember your Missionaries who have to bear the heat of the day in a debilitating climate, that we may be preserved from the deadening influences of Heathenism around us, and that the Lord may accompany our preaching with his Holy Spirit, and crown our labours with the brightest success.

Burdwan.

The Rev. John Perowne, the Rev. W. Deerr, and the Rev. Jacob Maisch, remain at this Station. On the completion of the Church, Divine Service in English was established, and has been regularly continued. On the Sunday Afternoon there is a Service in Bengalee, and the Scriptures are expounded in Mr. Perowne's house every evening. The attendance on these occasions is from 20 to 30. A suitable site has been obtained, at an equal distance from the two principal Bazars in Burdwan, for the erection of a Bengalee Chapel. In addition to the meetings held specifically for Public or Private Worship, Mr. Deerr is ready to receive all who are inclined to come to his house for religious conversation and discussion. Several persons often assemble for this purpose.

A translation of the Common Prayer Book into Bengalee has been commenced by Mr. Perowne.

The Auxiliary Committee enter at length into details respecting the Schools, as follows:—

Public Examinations having been found greatly to quicken the diligence of the Scholars, it was determined to hold two Examinations annually at this Station. Accordingly, the Rev. Mr. Thomason, with some other friends of the Society, proceeded to Burdwan in September last; and favoured the Committee with a very interesting Report on the present state and prospects of the Schools, as well as respecting the Classes examined. As the process adopted in the Examination has been repeatedly mentioned in former Reports, the Committee will extract chiefly such facts as relate to the present prospects of the Bengalee Schools.

Mr. Deerr has 14 Schools under his superintendence, scattered among the Villages near Burdwan, over a space of about 40 miles in diameter, comprehending (inclusive of the towns Burdwan and Kutchunagur) about 40,000 inhabitants. He is indefatigable in his labours: indeed it is scarcely possible to have a more minute and efficient superintendance. Every alternate day he goes his tour of inspection, and spends about three hours in the examination of each school. As the distances from home are often considerable, an alternate day of rest is found absolutely necessary for the preservation of his health. On this plan he is not able to visit each school oftener than once in a month; but as he has established many checks over the Pundits, and is very minute in his monthly inspection, he finds, by experience, that the system is maintained in sufficient vigour, and has no reason to regret that he cannot make his visits more frequent. When Mr. Maisch is sufficiently advanced in the Bengalee Language, he will of course (if it should ever be found necessary) add to the efficiency of the Schools already established, before he enters upon new ground of his own. At present, they concur in wishing that two new Schools may be erected, in order that the ground already covered may be more completely occupied.

At present, about 1000 Boys are under a constant course of Christian Instruction, at an expense of 13 Rupees per month for each School. On a strict inquiry, it has been ascertained that this expense cannot be diminished, without seriously injuring the Schools. NO OBJECTION is made by the Parents to the use of the Gospels, which are constantly read, and in which all the upper Classes are fully instructed. Having been assisted by a running commentary, carefully prepared by Mr. Deerr, and adapted to their very ignorant minds, they can give a much better account of the Gospel of St. Matthew, the Acts of the Apostles, and the former chapters of the Epistle to the Romans, than the vast majority of Boys in our English Schools. It is surprising to observe their readiness in explaining the Parables, and especially in unfolding the doctrines of the Gospel. The PUNDITS THEMSELVES ASSIST in these Christian Studies, apparently without the smallest backwardness. Wherever the seed of the Word is plentifully scattered, one of the results must of necessity be, the gradual prevalence of Truth: this begins already to appear: the books used at the Schools are read by the Boys at their homes, and listened to often by their Neighbours. Many, who have no Boys under Christian Instruction, have thus become acquainted with the Gospel; some of whom speak of Christ with respect. Among the School-Villages, Ryan is by far the most favourable to the Gospel. If any reliance can be placed on Mr. Deerr's information, (and as he himself has no doubt of its accuracy, we have the best ground for believing it,) the inhabitants are strongly inclined to prefer Christianity to Paganism. Ryan is the most famous of the Villages, as the residence of Pundits: all the Rajah's Pundits live there. Two of the School Pundits (living at Ryan), in the employ of Mr. Deerr, regularly attend Christian Worship at the Mission House on Sundays, and one of them is almost persuaded to be a Christian. The circumstance of their voluntary attendance on such occasions is far more striking in a village, than in a large city like Calcutta; as their practice is marked, and occasions much conversation.

The Auxiliary Committee give the following statement as to the results arising from the Schools:—

On the whole, Mr. Deerr is happy in the conviction, that, as there is a general reception of the Gospel, so there is a growing acquaintance with it. Beyond this, however, he has little to say. It was particularly inquired of him, whether he could relate any striking MORAL effects of his instructions, either among the Boys themselves or in the Villages: he could say nothing satisfactory on this subject. The People are still given up to their Idols: the Boys are still devoted to their Poojahs and Festivals. No apparent change has been produced, except in the very few instances wherein the Word has been received in truth.

There are about 60 Boys in the English School under Mr. Perowne; the eldest of whom is about twenty years of age, and, with two or three others, has been nearly four years under instruction.

In reference to the actual moral effects of instruction, concerning which Mr. Deerr's experience, as above related, has offered him so little that is encouraging, Mr. Perowne appears to entertain somewhat better hopes. At HIS school, the Natives are BOARDED as well as taught. Instead of mingling daily with their Relations, they remain together at the School; having accommodations for sleeping, contiguous to the house. Many of them continue for several weeks separated from their homes; and, as they are constantly under a laborious course of instruction in the English Language and Scriptural Reading, Mr. Perowne thinks they have acquired a somewhat higher tone of thinking and regard to character, in many instances, than other boys manifest: however, he thinks the good thus acquired is lamentably destroyed by the recurrence of Holidays and Poojahs; the attendance on which produces a manifest deterioration of character. The disappointment of hopes, in cases of this nature, is among the severest trials of the Missionary. Still, however, the Missionaries are far from being discouraged. Relying on the faithfulness and Almighty power of Him who hath promised, they go forward with hope, yea with the assurance that their labour shall not be in vain in the Lord.

The day following that on which the above Report was written, an examination of the Schools took place, which proved highly satisfactory.

The Divine Blessing has attended the religious instruction addressed to the Elder Youths; one of whom acts as First Monitor, and conducts himself with much diligence and propriety.

The National System of Education has been found productive of much benefit, so far as it has been practicable to adopt it in the Bengalee Schools. The order and harmony which attend this system are everywhere apparent, and have excited the admiration of many intelligent Hindoos. Mr. Perowne thus writes respecting the Schools:—

They present a most interesting subject of contemplation to the pious mind. Although there is nothing, extensively, of a DECIDED nature, still there is that which gives us a pledge of the Divine Blessing—there is that which should fill the minds of all our friends with thankfulness, and encourage them to renew and increase their exertions. The Name of Christ, once an object of contempt, is now treated with so much respect, that the Children invariably speak of Him as "our Saviour:" the Scriptures, formerly dreaded in the Schools, are now read with pleasure: and the Christian Scheme, which was supposed to inculcate little more than the eating of beef and drinking of wine, or a total disregard of all order and all customs, is now understood, and admired for its purity and excellence. You cannot go into any of our Schools without perceiving that the Children are better acquainted with the leading truths of Scripture than most children in Christian Countries are.

The Auxiliary Committee report respecting the English School—

Ten of the Boys in the English School have agreed to remain, and attend Worship regularly. Twice or thrice in a year they are to visit their friends, for a week or two: most of them, two years ago, refused to live on the Mission Premises. "My Meetings," Mr. Perowne adds, "both on Sunday Afternoons and on Week-day Evenings, are well attended: seldom less than 20, sometimes nearly 30 are present."

Mr. Maisch, who shares with Mr. Deerr in the labour of the Bengalee Schools, thus speaks of the plan of examination adopted to inspire and keep alive the zeal of the scholars:—

The examination of each School generally occupies three or four hours, in order to come at a knowledge of its real state; otherwise the treachery of the Hindoos would conceal any thing which might displease. It happens, sometimes, that a School begins to fall behind the others, without the fault of the Teachers; particularly if the Boys believe themselves more advanced than the others; and it is with some difficulty, in such a case, that their zeal is kept up. A method has been found out, which has, in many respects, the desired effect, in proving a stimulus to their exertion. We invite the first two or three Classes from a School where they have been diligent, and also from one where they have abated in diligence; and place them opposite one another, in one of our rooms, with their books in their hands. Each is at liberty to interrogate his neighbour, by turns, in any branch of Science, or in the New Testament. This is what you would call debating; and, as the Teachers are not permitted to interfere, nor does Mr. Deerr himself, it assumes frequently that character, in decently rebuking the ignorant for their sloth and inactivity. I was present at the last of these meetings, in August, and was astonished at the questions which they put to one another: I can assure you that it exceeded all my expectation.

Of their acquirements, he adds—

Many of the Boys have learnt the whole of St. Matthew's Gospel by heart, together with the Comments, and are now doing the same with the Acts of the Apostles; and four or five among them have also committed to memory Ellerton's Dialogues, and are beginning with the Romans: so that they are ready to answer almost every question which is put to them.

On the general prospects of the Mission here, Mr. Maisch justly remarks—

It cannot be expected, that, under the present state of things, and at the beginning of the work, the effects produced should be shining and numerous. Supporters of the Cause, and Labourers in it, must alike defer their joy to that brighter future day, which, according to the gracious promises, will CERTAINLY come. In the mean time, we have SOME encouragement under a burning climate, which rouses our spirits to new exertions. The introduction of the Holy Scriptures has, in some measure, paved the way to our work among the Adults; and as the Children are at perfect liberty to take their books home, under the promise of bringing them again, or leave them at school each day, it has induced some, if not many, of their parents to have some portion of them read by the younger branches of their families, probably out of curiosity; and sometimes the good seed has fallen at least so deep, that he who has received it can recollect passages and chapters. The Parables of our Blessed Lord are, in this respect, admirably adapted for Asiatics.

On the removal of certain prejudices in the Schools, he adds—

It is greatly to our encouragement, to look back on what has been done—what prejudices have been conquered or have vanished. There are school-books in our possession, and those of a historic nature, in which the Name of Jesus is obliterated wherever it occurs in the printing, even in a matter of Chronology: the Boys obstinately refused, at that time, to pronounce that Name; but now they read it with reverence.

The friends of the Society are aware of the difficulties with which Mrs. Perowne has had to contend, in her efforts to establish Female Schools at Burdwan. Three several attempts were made by her for this purpose, and three successive failures were the result. In the Summer of 1823, however, her persevering exertions were crowned with success. She was enabled to begin with a School of 20 Girls. In April 1824, Mr. Perowne made the following encouraging statement:—

Mrs. Perowne has now Seven Female Schools, and applications have been made for several more. The number of Children is about 180, besides about 20 Girls in two of my Boys' Schools. Her prospects are very cheering. In one village, every child that is old enough attends school; not even excepting the Brahmin's Daughters, of whom there are six.

The Committee of the Auxiliary Society observe—

At Burdwan, as in Calcutta, no limit but that of MEANS need be set to the education of children of both sexes. The present state of the Schools is reported to be—

Under Mr. Perowne's care, including the English School, Five Schools, containing . .	420
Under Mr. Deerr's, Fourteen Schools, containing	1254
Ten Female Schools, containing	243

In a Letter dated September 28, 1824, Mr. Perowne states—

Our sphere of labour has been enlarged since I wrote last. Three new Boys' Schools have been added to those under my charge; and Mrs. Perowne's Female Schools are increased to thirteen. In these thirteen schools are about 350 Children of all castes, from the Brahmin to the Haree. They manifest a power of intellect superior to most of the other sex. They have more simplicity, and less prejudice. The ignorance and degradation of the female population cannot even be conceived by those who live in happy England. Wretched as is the state of the men, that of the women is far worse. Destitute of instruction, and shut out from the means of obtaining it, they have nothing scarcely to guide them but the dictates of their own passions and desires. With what pleasure, then, will every lover of our race hear, that a brighter day is beginning to dawn — that the ignorance of the Females is beginning to be dispelled—and that they are receiving that knowledge, which must eventually not only raise them to their proper rank, but tend to humanize and reform the other sex also. I may appear sanguine—but I cannot pass along the road, without seeing objects whom I regard as presages of future good. To behold, in every direction, little GIRLS, with bunches of leaves under their arms and inkstands in their hands, hastening with smiling faces to school, is so new a thing in this country, that the very novelty may well excite peculiar sensations in the mind.

Of the improvement already made in the Female Schools, Mr. Perowne remarks—

They were so sunk, as to be without a single spiritual idea. If asked who made them, they could not tell; and to the question, "Who is God?" if able to give an answer at all, it was only by pointing to a shapelesss block of wood or stone. But, in twelve months, this desert has begun to rejoice and blossom as the rose. Ideas have been imparted—their mental powers have been called into exercise—and they have learned the leading truths of Revelation, and the relative duties which it enforces. All looks fair and promising: we only wait for the outpouring of the Spirit from on high, to give life and perfection to the body thus formed.

If it be thought that the number of Children is small, compared with the immense population of Burdwan, we confess, with regret, that this is the case; but, looking at the openings in every direction, and trusting to the blessing of God, we say, with confidence, "GIVE US THE MEANS, and, by next year at this time, the number shall be DOUBLED."

At a very recent period, a Naval Officer, who had visited Burdwan, stated to one of the Secretaries, that he had been assured that nothing but the want of Funds prevented the admission of as many Girls as Boys into the Schools; and that there was no longer any difficulty in the way of Female Education, but that which arose from inadequate pecuniary resources.

Many of the School Buildings connected with this Station were either seriously injured, or entirely swept away, by an alarming inundation in the Autumn of 1823. Some months elapsed before the disastrous ravages of the flood were repaired. Of this awful inundation, Mr. Jetter thus writes:—

I was with Mr. Perowne, where we saw the raging River Damoda rolling along, and from which streams of water rushed against our house, rising to such a height, that we dared not venture to go to an out-house to procure some eatables to satisfy our craving hunger.

We were 33 persons, including 23 English School-Boys, who were unable to go home because of the water. One night (from Saturday to Sunday) we were obliged to stand on the top of the house, the water rising so high that it was nine inches in depth in the rooms. Oh how awful it was to see the poor helpless Bengalees sitting on the banks of tanks and the branches of trees, every moment expecting the water to swallow them up!

On the same subject Mr. Reichardt writes,—

Whilst at Burdwan, I beheld a truly singular and awful scene. Two days after our arrival, it began to rain, and continued without intermission for two days and two nights. The rivers, which were already high, overflowed their banks; so that the whole district of Burdwan, as far as the eye could reach, was inundated. All the houses of the poor Bengalees fell in; and the people were obliged to climb up the trees, in order to save their lives. There they sat for four days, without sustenance, crying to their gods, "Hori! Hori! save us! we are lost!" Brethren Deerr and Maisch and myself were together in one house; and if the water had risen but one inch higher, it would have entered our rooms, and we should have been obliged to flee to the roof, for which purpose we kept a ladder ready: however, we were spared this danger by the water decreasing. Many Idols, and particularly those which they had prepared to celebrate the Poojah of the Goddess Doorga, were broken to pieces or floated away. I saw a heap of them, about sixty in number, lying broken near the road: the impotency of these Idols was greatly exposed, and many of the Bengalees began to ridicule them, saying, "Our gods are dead! They could not prevent the flood." But I am sorry to say that this impression of the nothingness of Idols, which they, during this awful catastrophe, received, is already worn off; for, soon after that, instead of the image of Doorga, they worshipped a water-pot, into which they had cited her spirit.

The following statement of this inundation is given in the Report of the Auxiliary Society:—

A fearful desolation was spread over the face of the whole country, by the overflowing of the Damoda River. The mud cottages of the Natives were laid in ruins, and several persons perished in the waters. The Society's School-houses were swept away: the books used in them were destroyed; and the Children for a long time after generally scattered, being compelled to seek shelter where they could find it. The pecuniary loss to the Society has not been less than 3000 Rupees; and as it has been determined to re-erect the English School on the Society's Premises, of materials which may resist a similar calamity, that alone will cost 1200 Rupees. It has been found necessary also, both with a view to the health of the Missionaries, and also as, eventually, the best economy, to build another Dwelling-house on the Society's Premises; the estimated expense of which is 5000 Rupees.

For a short time after the inundation, the business of the Schools was completely at a stand; but, by the great activity of Mr. Perowne and Mr. Deerr, every thing now has assumed its former appearance. Mr. Perowne has even added considerably to his former number of Schools; and, in a recent communication, informs the Committee that his department in the Mission goes on in an encouraging manner.*

The New Station, which is conveniently situated for the superintendance of the Schools and for visits to the city, is occupied by the Rev. Thomas Morris and Mr. Stewart; while Mr. Adlington remains at Secrole. Mr. Morris had suffered from ill health during the rains, but was much recovered.

In the endowed School are 141 Boys, some of the elder of whom appear to have derived advantage from the use of the Sacred Scriptures: and four additional Schools, established at Benares and in its vicinity after Mr. Morris's return from Goruckpore, contain 113 Scholars.

In the School opened at the Old Mission-Premises in 1822 for the Daughters of the Native Christians, were 11 Females, some of whom have made considerable progress: after encountering much difficulty, Mrs. Morris established a Female School in Benares, in which were 9 Girls. Two more Girls' Schools, containing together 20 Scholars, have been recently established.

The interest which some of the Pupils in the Schools feel in the proceedings of the Missionaries may be learned from the following statement of Mr. Morris:—

I attended a Mela, or Fair, near the city; at which were assembled many thousands of human beings, who knew not the God who made them and who gave His Son to be a sacrifice for the sins of the world! Surveying the multitude from a little eminence which we had selected, and on which we stood to distribute Tracts and the Scriptures, my mind was much affected by what I saw of the immoral condition of the people. One circumstance, however, delighted me: several of the Boys from our Schools stood round us, ready to assist in examining such persons as came for books; as we do not give them except to those who have first learnt to read. Such a circumstance may appear of little importance to those who do not enter into our situation: but it is highly encouraging to us, to witness it in this country—to see, in such a scene as an Indian Fair presents, children, who have themselves learnt from us to read our books, ready to put them into the hands of those who are more advanced in years.

The Calcutta Committee thus report the proceedings of Mr. Morris, in his own words:—

Since my return to this place, four schools for boys have been commenced in the city and suburbs of Benares. The difficulties with which we have hitherto had to contend (such, for instance, as the want of proper teachers, and the boys constantly teasing us for pice) will, I trust, in time be gradually removed. The want of efficient Schoolmasters has been, and still is, greatly felt; and this must be the case till we have means of training them up ourselves. Seminaries attached to Missions for this purpose are highly desirable. Aware of the little real good ever likely to be effected by the old disorderly system, kept up by the Natives, of teaching the children merely to cipher and write the Kythee Character, I endeavoured to teach, in the first instance, three men to read the Davanagari, in which we have Gospels, Tracts, &c. printed. These men are at present employed at the schools.

In order to keep the boys in the schools, and also to rouse them to action, those who are diligent, and get on pretty well, receive each a ticket on the day of the weekly examination; and quarterly or so, according to merit, they must obtain a trifling reward. Indeed some excitement of this kind appears absolutely necessary, as few come to school from a real love of acquiring knowledge, further than as much as will enable them to obtain a livelihood.

The following is a List of the Schools, where situated, and when commenced; with the number of boys in each school:

	Place.	When commenced.	Numbers of Boys.
1	Aurangabad	Dec. 18th, 1823	45
2	Lalapore	Jan. 2d, 1824	25
3	Nisharpokar	March 1st, 1824	30
4	Bhaironath	April 20th, 1824	13
			113	Boys.
5	Old Mission premises,	May 22d, 1822	11	Girls.
6	Aurangabad	Feb. 23d, 1824	9	do.

Of the Boys it must be understood that their progress at present is but small. One part of the day they devote to ciphering in Kythee, and the other they employ in reading in the Davanagari Character. As soon as they have learned the Alphabet and gone through the Spelling-book, either some easy Lessons written out on purpose, or Fables, or whatever little useful books can be obtained, are introduced with the Gospels. A short time ago, in one of the schools, a little boy was found reading a copy of the Gospel, which, it appears, some of his friends had received at a Fair: a few days after this, five boys brought back the Fables, and requested to read the Gospels also: what may have been their motive I know not; but, at any rate, they were quite aware that they could not in any way dispose of them for pice, as the teachers are accountable for all books sent into the school, and must produce them weekly. So far the circumstance was pleasing; and tends to shew, among many other instances, that there is not on the part of the Natives generally, that fear of reading the Scriptures, which persons not much acquainted with them may suppose.

The School for Christian Girls, on the old Mission Premises, goes on well, and is an useful institution; though the number is not likely to be great, in consequence of the children being under the necessity of moving about with their parents from place to place. The girls repeat the Catechism, and read the New Testament in the Davanagari Character pretty fluently; so that wherever these poor children may hereafter go, they will carry with them some knowledge of that Blessed Word, which is able to make them wise unto salvation.

That we do not see more success attend the good cause, is indeed to us often matter of regret; but we must recollect that the work is God's, and will one day prevail. The present small beginnings are, however, quite sufficient to encourage real Christians to go straight forward in their work, without wavering. We cannnot reasonably expect to reap an abundant harvest, before the seed is well sown. Besides, the kingdom of God cometh NOT with observation; so that silently, unseen, and unknown to us, a work may be going on, which will ultimately shew that labour has not been bestowed in vain. May we be diligently employed in cultivating the ground, and sowing the seed of the word of life; and then patiently wait till God shall give the increase!

The following statement by Mr. Stewart respecting the School founded by Jay Narain is also taken from the Report of the Auxiliary Society.

Our School at Benares is attended generally by the usual number of Scholars, with whom I cannot but entertain prospects of increasing good, both as to their progress in the English Language, and the removal of those false principles entertained by them. At the life of Christ they are much surprised; and, from their acquaintance with it, are, in some measure, enabled to contrast it with that of their own gods; where they perceive enormities of so gross a nature and venomous a tendency, as to sap the foundation of their belief. On this very day I set the boys of the First Clsss to question one another in Geography, History, &c. After some altercations and disputes, a boy of a sudden starts up, and, addressing himself to another double his years, "What brought sin," he asked very seriously, "into the world?" The other answered, "The Devil." "No," the boy replied, "Adam brought sin in by eating of the fruit which was forbidden." "But," he asked, "Did not Satan put him up to do it?" Now it was but a little while before this, that the boys could not be persuaded but that as God is the Author of all good, in like manner is he the Author of all evil; which awful idea we have, I think, removed from some of their minds, though many in this city cannot believe the contrary. A very promising boy, who had left the School for a long time, returned a few days ago; and we trust that the School is, on the whole, improving as well as can be expected under the circumstance of its being situated in one of the most idolatrous cities in India.

Idolatry bears an universal sway here; but a great deal of indifference may be observed to prevail. In discoursing with my Moonshee a day or two ago, I asked if he thought the distribution of Tracts and various portions of Scripture had any effect on the people's minds in Benares: he replied, "They are surprised, and cannot conceive why the English are at so much expense and trouble in printing, and sending them abroad; and many respectable people (acquaintances of mine), in reading them, wonder at the harmony of the Gospels, and especially at the life of Messeeh, who was so humble and patient under all his suffering; and I myself never read or heard of a character like his."

The Preaching of the Word is now constantly maintained at the Chapel at Secrole. Respecting the commencement of this, Mr. Morris writes—

On Sunday the 18th of April, 1824, I preached my first Sermon in Hindoostanee at the New Chapel. My fears had been in a great measure removed, by the encouragement received from friends well acquainted with the language. I had long ago, as opportunity offered, endeavoured to converse with the Heathen; and hope now to be able to do so frequently.

He adds, in another Letter—

Divine Service is held in Hindoostanee at the New Chapel on Sunday and Wednesday Evenings; and Mr. Adlington and myself have agreed to hold a Weekly Prayer-Meeting, in order to pray for Missionary Success throughout the world, and especially at this Station. If we desire to see the kingdom of our God come with power, we must PRAY for it with all our heart.

In a Letter to Archdeacon Corrie, Mr. Morris says, in reference to his sphere of labour—

I shall most willingly give the Committee an account of whatever remarkable facts may occur in the course of my labours among the Heathen: but I have been hitherto cautious in writing; lest, before accounts could reach home, appearances, which have sometimes gladdened my heart, might prove like the morning cloud or the early dew: this is too often the case. May the Holy Spirit from on high be poured out on the millions in this country slumbering in idolatry and sin! The great work is to be accomplished, Not by might, nor by power, but by my Spirit, saith the Lord. For THIS, therefore, we must pray EARNESTLY: if we do so, God will hear us; and, in His own good time, grant our request.

The Missionaries at this Station continue to receive great kindness from the Chaplain, and other resident Europeans.

Chunar.

In addition to the English Services conducted by Mr. Greenwood at this Station, Hindoostanee Worship is held by Mr. Bowley on Sundays, Tuesdays, and Thursdays.

There were 60 Communicants on Good Friday. Of the consistent conduct of the Communicants, Mr. Bowley thus writes—

The state of the Native Christians demands our grateful acknowledgments to the God of all Mercies; as they continue, through grace, to conduct themselves in an exemplary manner, to our great joy. No broils or quarrels, so common among this class of people, are here heard of; but, contrariwise, unity and love and friendship abound. The means of grace, public, private, and secret, are regularly attended to: nor have I had any cause to suspend any from the Communion; but the reverse has been the case, several, after examination, having been admitted to it; and others are Candidates for admission.

Mr. Bowley had married six Native Couples. Of the Children baptized by him, two had been adopted from among the Heathens. Two of the Communicants had died in the faith: of one* of these he says—

Sumrut Doss was a convert from Heathenism. He was baptized about three years ago, and was a steady, industrious, and exemplary character; much admired, even by the Heathens, for his mildness and respectful and orderly behaviour: they regret his loss. A very great concourse, both of European and Native Christians and of Heathens, attended his remains to the tomb.

Of the recent effect of Mr. Bowley's Ministry, the Calcutta Committee thus speak:—

The Committee have this year no actual conversions to report, as the result of Mr. Bowley's indefatigable labours at Chunar and in the neighbourhood: ten or twelve respectable Natives, inhabitants of Chunar, have however become regular and attentive in their attendance on Public Worship; and no objection seems to remain in their minds, except the fear of the reproach, to which for a time they would be subject, from their unconverted countrymen.

Mr. Bowley continues to visit Benares and other places, and sometimes travels to a considerable distance. Much interest is thus frequently excited among the people; who often receive the Scriptures and Tracts with eagerness.†

The state of the Schools is thus reported:—

The first is a Female School, for adult women and girls: it is purely of a religious nature, where the New Testament, the Catechism, &c. are taught: it has altogether about 50 regular attendants.

The next is a Hindee School, in the Church Premises; where the Boys come but half a day, to repeat the English tasks with translations, and to read a chapter of the Hindee Testament.

The third and fourth are Hindee Schools: one in the town, consisting of 45 boys; and the other in a village, of 20 lads. Into these Schools I have of late been introducing copies of our pages, in Kythee Characters, made by my copyist. Unless the Gospels and suitable Tracts are printed in this

* The other Communicant who died was named Mary Gibles. Her unfeigned piety appears in a short account of her, printed at p. 201 of the Number for May; where she is called, by mistake, Mary Gibbs.

† Extracts from Mr. Bowley's Journals have appeared, since the Anniversary, at pp. 396—411 of the Missionary Register for September.

character, the great body of the Natives of Hindoostan will be shut out of the advantages arising from Bible and Tract Societies.

The fifth is a Persian School, containing 33 boys: several of these have made good progress; and, without hesitation, read the Pentateuch and Sellon's Abridgment, in Hindoostanee.

On the Version of the New Testament which has long occupied Mr. Bowley, the Committee of the Calcutta Bible Society thus speak:—

Mr. Bowley's important Hinduwee Testament (altered from Martyn's) has been completed. Several thousand Single Gospels of this Work have been already forwarded to the upper Societies, and your Committee continue to receive assurances of their acceptableness and utility.

Several Gentlemen at this Station, on being solicited to that effect by the Secretary of the Auxiliary, have formed themselves into a Committee, for the purpose of regulating the temporal affairs of the Mission at this Station.

Goruckpore.

At this place, which was visited from Benares in 1823 by Mr. Morris, the Rev. Michael Wilkinson and Mrs. Wilkinson, with Mr. and Mrs. Smyth, have arrived, and entered on their labours. The English residents have long been desirous that this should become a Missionary Station: its large population, amounting to 70,000 souls, opens a wide field for usefulness.

The Calcutta Committee state in their Report—

The district is populous, the climate mild, and communication with the Stations occupied by the Church Missionary Society in that quarter easy. Its vicinity also to Nepaul affords the prospect of help being obtained for carrying on the labours of the late Mr. Schroeter, should a Missionary, qualified and inclined to that pursuit, be stationed there.

The Society have an active and valuable friend in the resident Judge at this Station. By employing the prisoners, condemned to hard labour, on works calculated to promote the public benefit, he has materially reduced the expense of the buildings required for the Mission.

On the exertions of the Society's Friends it is remarked—

dious house to be prepared for the Missionary's residence; and a handsome Chapel is by this time roofed in, without A SINGLE RUPEE OF EXPENSE to the Society. In May, a Branch Association was formed in aid of the Auxiliary Society, and an ample monthly subscription raised for Missionary Purposes in that district. Were a similar spirit of piety and prudence in operation among European Christians in general throughout India, how comparatively easy would be the labours of Missionary Societies! how speedily would the reproach of inattention to the religion which we profess to believe be done away!

In reference to the Schools, the Calcutta Committee state—

Mr. Wilkinson reports, that he found there, when he arrived, a School consisting of from 18 to 20 boys, who for want of a suitable Schoolmaster had proceeded little further than the Alphabets: it has since been materially increased: in the month of April there were about 76 Boys on the list. Being obliged to obtain another Schoolmaster in consequence of the inefficiency of the one found here, on discharging him, 20 boys left with him: several of them afterward applied for readmission, but it was thought expedient to refuse them. Good has already resulted from this step: it has given an additional value to the School in the estimation of the people, and the former number is now fully completed. This number includes a Persian and a Hindee School. In the Persian School there are at present 18 Boys; and, in the Hindee, 51: a second School has been established on the Mission Premises for children of a higher class, which promises to be well attended.

Meerut.

The Native Christians mentioned in the last Report continue their labours, under the direction of the Rev. H. Fisher, the Chaplain. He says of them—

Behadhur lives in my compound, with his wife and little boy; and acts as Clerk to my Native Congregation. I employ him among the Native Christians of the Barracks, who are willing to be instructed by him; and, occasionally, in visiting the sick, to read the Hindoostanee Testament to them. He is very consistent and well-behaved. Matthew Phiroodeen remains in the old gateway: he has felt a desire to return to his corps, to prove that the "Sahibs" [Europeans] do not think hardly of him, now that he is a Christian; and expressed some unwillingness to accept of any other situation, more especially as the non-commissioned officers of his regiment have manifested a desire that he should return: he, however, blesses God that he has enjoyed opportunities for religious instruction, which he might not have obtained elsewhere; and is now contented to go or stay: I hope he will not be forgotten, and that something may yet be done for him. Peter Dilsook and his wife Ruth are our domestic servants: Peter is my own man; and Ruth is Mrs. Fisher's "Ayah" [waiting woman]: they are both, I think, sincere converts; and behave with great propriety, bringing up their three boys in the nurture and admonition of the Lord.

Mr. Fisher gives a gratifying account of the conversion of a Brahmin.

I must not pass over an interesting circumstance, of recent occurrence; because it seems to demonstrate, with sufficient evidence, that good may be done, though it be but in a solitary instance, by the distribution of the Christian Converts among the people, and that the Heathens may yet be leavened. Joseph the Henreepore Man, you will probably remember, lived with David Jysingh, the converted Saadh, while David had his school; and has remained there ever since the poor old man's blindness: the old man is supported out of our charitable fund. Some time ago a Brahmin, named Jinvabur, sought opportunity to get acquainted with Joseph, having heard that he was a Christian: seeing him, one day, reading near the water-side, whither he had himself retired to perform his superstitious ablutions, he entered into conversation with him. The Brahmin had long been very unhappy in the profession of his idolatries; and, in the exercise of his own reason, was satisfied that there was no present peace to be found, and no eternal salvation, in such Satanic Delusion. Joseph's Testament became their immediate subject of inquiry and discussion, and subsequently has been their daily food and meditation: the Brahmin listened with delight, and continued to cherish the liveliest desire to give himself to Jesus Christ. He accompanied Joseph, in his last visit to Meerut; and remained some time with Behadhur, in my compound. His opportunities of making further inquiries into the meaning and nature of the Gospel and its free and finished salvation were, of course, abundant; and appeared to delight him more and more. I also was able to inquire more particularly into his motives and feelings; and to ascertain a point in which I have had abundant cause to be very jealous, that he was not actuated by worldly motives. He seemed a warm-hearted, zealous, simple-minded man—said he wanted nothing as respects this world; that he had enough and to spare—and that he only longed for the kingdom of heaven. He was baptized in the Church, on Good Friday 1824; together with a woman who has been some time a Catechumen, and who is a resident at Meerut.

On this Convert and another Native, Mr. Fisher adds—

David Jinvabur is gone back to Henreepore; exclaiming as he went away from me, and bowing low to express his grateful feelings with all the courtesy and politeness of the Asiatic—"May God's mercy be with you! For ever I bless Him that I have seen you! As the sandal tree communicates its fragrance to every thing that touches it, so may I retain the savour of your conversation!"

There was another man who also accompanied him, a Fakeer; and who professed to have similar feelings and desires: but he left us after a few days, appearing to be alarmed at the prospect of the possible persecution which he might endure. He may yet return; for he professed a thorough contempt for his idols, and a belief that the Christian Religion is the truth.

Delhi.

Of Anund Messeeh, the Native Teacher, who continues to be diligently occupied, Mr. Fisher thus speaks:—

Anund appears as much as ever in earnest, in his Christian profession. He had many enemies, and endured a good deal of scoffing and reviling at first; but now the very bitterest have asked his forgiveness for their unkind behaviour, and salute him cordially when they meet—a striking proof that his unassuming, meek, and Christian-like deportment has disarmed their animosity, and convinced their judgment that he is what he professes to be—an upright, lowly-minded, and pious man. There is often, indeed, a natural command of temper and suavity, about almost all Asiatics—from whatever principle: in Anund, it is, I trust, a Christian Grace. When a man's ways please the Lord, He maketh even his enemies to be at peace with him. His usefulness seems principally to consist in reading and conversing on the Scriptures to numbers who daily visit his dwelling.

Henreepore.

Joseph, the Native Teacher at this place, was spoken of under the head of Meerut as having been made instrumental to the conversion of the Brahmin, David Jinvabur. Joseph was himself brought to the knowledge of the truth, at Meerut, in 1819; and now resides in the School-house at Henreepore. Anund Messeeh occasionally visits this place from Delhi.

Agra.

The Committee of the Calcutta Auxiliary thus speak of this Station:—

The Committee are happy to be able to report favourably of their Mission at this Station. By the kind exertions of the friend who has for some time had the charge of the temporal affairs of the Mission, the Kuttra has been much improved; and a large piece of ground in the rear, which had long lain in a ruinous state, purchased for the Society, and added to the Mission Premises. This has added greatly to the accommodation of the worshippers, and admits of a spacious Church being hereafter erected there.

The Chaplain pays much attention to the affairs of the Native Christians, and registers the Baptisms and Marriages that take place among them. Morning and Evening Prayer is, as usual, celebrated in the Kuttra, and attended by the Native Christians who reside contiguous; and, on Sundays, Divine Service is performed by Abdool Messeeh, in the morning at the Kuttra, and in the evening in the Hindoostanee Chapel at the Lines. The Lord's Supper was lately administered to about ten Communicants, in the Hindoostanee Church and Language, by the Chaplain.

The venerable Native Missionary, Abdool Messeeh, was referred to in the last Report, as circumscribed in his labours, by the debilitated state of his frame. In a Letter* to the Archdeacon of Calcutta, after referring to the loss of the use of his limbs, and to the extreme weakness under which he had suffered for many months, he adds—

The palsy has not wholly left me: but I can move about in a carriage, and God grants me the faculty of speech. Through His blessing, I trust I shall be permitted until death to declare the truths of the Gospel. When, at length, this sinful body of mine is dead, and shall have put on immortality, may I be found among the least of the Blessed!

* This Letter, and another of a later date, are printed at pp. 194—196 of the Missionary Register for April.

Mr. and Mrs. Jetter having left India for the recovery of their health, there are now employed, at the Ten Stations of this Mission, 11 Missionaries; of whom one is Indo-British, another Native, and the rest Europeans. The Returns of the various Assistants are not sufficiently full to enable the Committee to state the exact number: but it appears from the despatches, that the Europeans and those of European descent are 13, of whom 9 are Females; and that there are 10 Native Teachers (including one Indo-British) of various descriptions, together with the Native Assistants in 43 Boys' and 43 Girls' Schools.

In these 86 Schools there are under instruction, as nearly as can be estimated from the last despatches, 2950 Boys, 895 Girls, and 25 Women—making a total of 3870 Scholars.

The Expenditure, from the 1st of September 1823 to the 31st of May 1824, amounted to 58,616 rupees, or a little more than 5860*l.* reckoning the rupee at 2*s.* This total consisted of the following particulars:—Mirzapore, including building expenses, 727*l.*—Calcutta and Kidderpore Boys' Schools, 514*l.*—Calcutta Female Schools, 1013*l.*, of which sum 457*l.* was transferred to the Female Branch on its formation—Burdwan, 1143*l.*—Benares and Chunar, exclusive of local subscriptions, 1315*l.*—Goruckpore, 562*l.*—Meerut, 173*l.*—Agra, 100*l.*—Printing Office, 90*l.*—Books, Stationery, Writers, and Incidentals, 55*l.*—On account of the Ceylon Mission, 168*l.*

The Receipts, in Calcutta, were, in round numbers, as follow:—Benefactions and Subscriptions, 197*l.*—Female Branch, 500*l.*—Sale of House at Chunar, &c. 143*l.*—Bills drawn on the Society, 2337*l.* Besides which Receipts, a Balance of 400*l.* in the Treasurer's hands, on account of the Female Branch, has been exhausted, and the Treasurer remains in advance 2283*l.*

The Auxiliary Committee close their Report with the following appeal in behalf of the Society:—

The liberality of the Parent Society, in supplying funds from home to the utmost of its ability, is gratefully acknowledged; and it would rejoice the Committee, could they add, that corresponding exertions were made by their friends in this country: but the amount of receipts does not admit of their making this acknowledgment. The outfit of additional Missionaries who have arrived and have been settled at their Stations during the period included in this Report, the ravages committed by the inundation at Burdwan, the necessity of providing accommodations for the Missionaries at Benares, and the call for funds to meet the expenses necessary for the completion of their required buildings on the Society's valuable premises at Mirzapore, have not only EXHAUSTED their Treasury, but also (as will be seen by the Treasurer's account) have involved the Society in a very heavy and expensive debt.

It is a proper occasion, as the Committee think, for bringing to the notice of the Religious Public, the very small amount of money contributed in India for Religious Purposes, compared with the vast sums freely expended for such as are simply benevolent; and they trust that when the questions, "What have I that I have not received? and from whom have I received it?" are properly put, and duly reflected on, those who profess to ground their hopes of salvation on Jesus Christ will see the absolute NECESSITY of raising the standard of their contributions for HIS SERVICE to such a degree, as will enable them, in this respect, to give a good account of their stewardship at His tribunal.

They urgently call, therefore, on the friends of Christianity, and on the Members of the Established Church in particular, to come forward, and assist them to meet the necessary wants and just demands to which the Committee are subject; and to relieve them from the embarrassments which they must otherwise suffer.

MADRAS AND SOUTH-INDIA MISSION.

From the Seventh Report of the Corresponding Committee, with various despatches received during the year, the Committee will collect a summary account of this Mission.

The Committee regret that the anticipation of the last Report, in reference to the uncertainty of the Rev. Marmaduke Thompson's continuance in India, has been so soon realized: his state of health rendering it impracticable for him to remain, he was about to re-embark at the date of the last despatches. The Corresponding Committee has suffered further loss by the decease of some of its Members and the return of others; while several who are still resident at Madras have been unable to enter so fully as they wished into the detail of the Society's proceedings, by unavoidable attention to their own important duties. Other friends were, however, about to assist the Society in conducting its concerns. The Rev. James Hough, who left this country in June, on his return to India, would, on his arrival, renew his services in this department. In reference to this subject, the Treasurer of the Committee remarks—

The concerns of the Society's principal Missions are happily in such an advanced state, under the management of their laborious and now-experienced Missionaries, as to render the systematic oversight of the Committee less indispensable than formerly.

The Committee record with gratitude the receipt of two munificent benefactions from Messrs. Arbuthnot and Co. The Treasurer, J. M. Strachan, Esq. who is, himself, one of the Partners of this Mercantile House, thus writes on the subject:—

In reference to the Seminary at Madras and the College at Cotym, two of the most interesting objects of attention within the Committee's sphere of superintendence, I have the satisfaction to state, that I have been authorized by Messrs. Arbuthnot and Co. to appropriate the following sums of money, arising from a fund created in their Establishment for purposes of a benevolent nature, toward the expenses of the two above-named establishments, viz.

Contribution toward a permanent Fund for each Institution, 4000 Rupees, making together . .	8,000
For the Current Expenditure of each for Buildings &c. 4000 Rupees, making together	8,000
In all . . . . . Rupees	16,000

MADRAS AND ITS VICINITY.

The Rev. James Ridsdale continues in charge of the English Department of this Mission, and the Rev. William Sawyer of the Native. The Corresponding Committee state—

During a year marked by a series of calamitous events, affecting all classes of inhabitants, both European and Native, the lives of our Missionaries have been spared: but they have suffered deeply in their families; and the Rev. W. Sawyer has, during some months, been labouring under affliction. In such circumstances, his work must necessarily have experienced material obstruction; but assiduity and devotedness to the exclusive business of his office have effected whatever was practicable to remedy the hindrances, and to maintain the native branch of the Mission in a progressively improving state.

The allusion in this extract is to the illness of Mrs. Sawyer. This was of such a nature that her return was judged necessary. She sailed, in consequence, with their little daughter, on the 21st of July, in the Triton, Captain Crea; but it pleased God soon to take her to Himself: she died at sea on the 13th of August.* The kindest attentions were paid to this excellent Woman by the Captain, by the Rev. James Lynch of the Wesleyan Society, under whose friendly care she had embarked, and by all around her.

In reference to the MINISTRY OF THE WORD, the Corresponding Committee thus speak of the Native Department of the Mission:—

The Native Congregation, which assembles at the Mission Chapel on Sunday Morning, now averages about 100 persons. Their attendance has become more stated, and their demeanour in Public Worship is commendable. In a knowledge of religion and in the external profession, these people may appear to advantage compared with the generality of Nominal Christians; but the more intimate acquaintance with their state, which is acquired by Ministerial Visits among them, detects the prevalence of practices indicating, with few exceptions, a lamentable deficiency of real piety.

In addition to the Services previously established, one of the Readers has been employed to conduct Worship for a few persons who meet on Tuesday Evening in the Fort.

* An Obituary of Mrs. Sawyer, communicated by Mr. Lynch, is printed in the Missionary Register for March.

The Baptisms during the year have been five Children and one Adult.

Among the deaths, two were marked by circumstances affording ground for very favourable conclusions as to the state of the parties. One was Amoordapen, a Reader of the Mission; the other, the wife of the Reader, Christian.

The baptism of the Adult here mentioned was stated in a Note at p. 133 of the last Report; and some interesting particulars of his baptism are given by Mr. Sawyer.* His name as a Heathen was Soubarayen: he received, in baptism, that of John. On one or two occasions, he had given way to temper; but had latterly conducted himself entirely to Mr. Sawyer's satisfaction. Mr. Rhenius being on a visit to Madras in the early part of last year, John accompanied him to Palamcottah on his return thither.

The baptism of this Brahmin was the occasion of giving a very salutary check to the influence of Caste among the Christians connected with the Mission. The distinctions of Caste, it is well known, have generally been maintained even among Christian Natives, in this part of India. The observance of these distinctions by four Christian Youths of the Seminary, in refusing to eat with the Parriar Youths, and even with himself though a Brahmin, because he had broken Caste by eating with these Parriars, was highly offensive to John, as entirely opposed to Christian love and unity; and the more so as these four Youths were all Soodras, which is the lowest Caste recognised among the Hindoos. It was thought right to suspend these Youths, and there was every prospect that this event would issue in the extinction of this observance in the Seminary †.

On the English Department, the Committee thus speak:—

The Public English Services continue to be conducted at the Mission Chapel in Black Town. The attendance has become progressively more regular and devout; and increasing Ministerial Intercourse between the Missionaries and their hearers has been attended with evident spiritual benefit to the people, while it has imparted encouragement and satisfaction to the Missionaries.

The Missionary Association, composed of Members of this Congregation, continues its commendable endeavours to aid the Funds of the Corresponding Committee.

On the SCHOOLS the following Report is given:—

Since the last Report the number of children in the Schools has been gradually increasing. New Schools have been established under encouraging prospects; in the Great Bazaar in Black Town, and at Chingleput. These last owe their establishment to the benevolence of Gentlemen at that Station.

The following is an Abstract of the Numbers in the Schools at the period of the latest Report:—

Madras Schools.

Second Tamul	80
Third Tamul	64

In this List, the Madras English and First Tamul Schools constitute what was denominated, in former Reports, the CENTRAL School. The Madras Fifth Tamul School is that which has been added to the number.

* Some particulars of Mr. Sawyer's Visits to these Schools have appeared in the Missionary Register since the Anniversary: see pp. 415—418 of the Number for September.

On the state and influence of these Schools, the Corresponding Committee add—

The instruction in every School has gradually become more decidedly Christian: parts of the Sacred Scriptures are read every day; and, in some instances, considerable portions committed to memory. A plan for the closer superintendence of the Schools in Black Town has been adopted, and Mr. Sawyer has visited the different Country Schools as often as was practicable, during the year; but his numerous avocations prevent his bestowing upon this interesting branch of duty the degree of attention which he wishes. Of his visits to the Schools, Mr. Sawyer remarks—

The opportunity, which the visits to the Schools, both in Black Town and in the Country, give the Missionary, of conversations with respectable Heathens, who usually attend in numbers on such occasions, is, of itself, a sufficient inducement to retain the Schools. It has often been encouraging to me to observe the attention, with which the Adults listen to the simple and familiar instruction that has been given to the Children.

For a few months after the establishment of the SEMINARY in January 1823, it remained in the Mission Premises in Black Town: the Youths being necessarily limited to the bounds of these Premises, their health began to suffer; and the Seminary was, in consequence, removed, for the present, to Piramboor, a healthy and retired situation, about three miles from Black Town, and not far from the establishment, at Vepery, of the Society for promoting Christian Knowledge. The Corresponding Committee thus speak of the Seminary:—

Of the Seminary for Native Teachers, Mr. Sawyer states—

The past twelve months have been abundant in trials to this Infant Institution: its numbers have been reduced, by sickness, death, and other causes, to nineteen.

The deaths of three* of the Youths were marked by circumstances of peace and hope, which strikingly evinced the value of the instruction imparted at the Seminary, while they excited a mournful feeling at the disappointment of the expectations which were reasonably indulged of the future usefulness of the individuals, if it had pleased God to permit the continuance of their lives.

One of the Students has been placed in charge of the School at Chingleput, and has hitherto proved active and useful in his station: another, of irreproachable character,

* Of one of these Youths, Gooroopattam, an Obituary has appeared, since the Anniversary, in the Missionary Register for May; and that of another, Aseervantham, in the Number for September.

but without the qualifications desirable for Missionary Employment, has been placed out in service. Three other Youths will be shortly qualified, it is expected, for employment as Schoolmasters; the Institution giving, thus early, proof of its utility in furnishing duly qualified persons for some of the offices of the Mission.

Of the progress of the Students Mr. Sawyer reports—

The progress made by the generality of the Youths in their studies has been very satisfactory. In High Tamul, many are considerably advanced; and, in English, Boys, who were a year ago learning the Alphabet, are now able to read the New Testament. Watts's Catechisms have been committed to memory: Stillingfleet's Explanation of the Church Catechism is now in progress. Pinnock's Catechism of Geography has been learnt by some; and a small work on the same subject, just published in Tamul, put into the hands of those who are capable of understanding the science. A commencement has been made in the Latin Language; and the progress already made warrants me in saying that it will proceed. The Teloogoo has been begun by three of the Young Men.

To the most important object of this Institution, the bringing up of Youths for the Work of the Gospel, I feel, with every Christian, my total incapability; and rejoice that the work is in the hands of Him, who has all hearts at His disposal, and can turn them as He pleases. The Holy Scriptures are explained as fully as my knowledge of the language permits; and instructions are given publicly and privately. Encouragements from on high have not been withheld; and, in due season, they will, doubtless, be still more abundantly given.

Mr. Sawyer devotes much of his time and labour to the religious instruction of these Youths. The course which he pursues cannot fail, with the blessing of God, to be highly beneficial to them. He exercises them in the interpretation of Scripture, and in the composition of Sermons; watching over them, in all their exercises, to lead them to form just views of Divine Truth. An instance of the care with which he instructs them occurs in the following passage of his Journal:—

I find some of the Boys very backward in comprehending the doctrine of Justification by Faith. So often as it has been explained, it would be impossible to account for their ignorance on any other principle than that of the total inability of man, without Divine aid, to begin or carry on any thing for his own spiritual benefit. How true is it, that these things must be spiritually discerned!

One of the Youths having given some unsatisfactory answers to questions put to him on this subject at the time of Family Prayer, I took an opportunity of explaining the doctrine more fully. He said that his ideas were borrowed from a friend who believed that works were meritorious. To his question, "What are those works which are pleasing in God's sight?" I answered, "Such as are the fruits of faith." After some further explanation, the boy was satisfied.

We may, indeed, confidently expect the blessing of God to rest on exertions made in the spirit in which these appear to be conducted. Mr. Sawyer thus speaks of a measure which he has lately adopted with the Seminarists :—

Commenced a plan on which I have long been meditating, for Family Prayer at noon. Those only who felt it a privilege were invited to come. Six of the Young Men expressed a wish to attend. I explained my intention of praying, at this season, more particularly for Heathens and other unenlightened men. I trust that the Lord was in the midst of us indeed. May the Spirit ever abide upon us in our little Meetings!

The Department of the PRESS, which continues under the direction of Mr. Ridsdale, is becoming increasingly profitable. The Corresponding Committee remark, generally, on this subject:—

The quantity of work on hand and the prospects of continued supplies of business leave no room to doubt, that, under proper management, which Mr. Ridsdale's experience and sedulous attention insure, the Printing Office will be a progressively-increasing resource for the Committee's Treasury; besides executing all the Society's work for its Missions on this coast, without any charge except the cost of paper.

They add, in reference to their Seventh Year—

The business of the Press defrays all its expenses—furnishes all the work for the Society's Missions free of charge—and has, this year, contributed a surplus of 2237 rupees to the General Fund of the Corresponding Committee. During the same period, it has completed an edition of 4500 copies of the Tamul Version of the New Testament, for the Auxiliary Bible Society—23,000 School-books and Tracts, for the Committee's Stores—and 29,000 for the School-Book and Tract Societies.

An excellent Fount of Teloogoo Types, mentioned in the last Report, has been completed: the Office is, consequently, in a capacity to perform any printing required in that tongue. Three presses and fourteen workmen are now in constant employment.

Poonamallee.

Of this Station the Corresponding Committee report—

The out-station of Poonamallee has been, for want of suitable Native Assistants for the Schools and small Congregation, in a declining state. The Missionaries are engaged in measures for rendering it more effective.

TRANQUEBAR.

The arrival at this Station of the Rev. G.T. Bärenbruck from Madras was stated in the last Report. It had been usual to visit from Tranquebar the Society's School-Establishments in the Province of Tanjore; but, as it was desirable to fix on a Station from which they might be more advantageously superintended, the most suitable spot became a subject of diligent inquiry. Some circumstances seeming strongly in favour of Combaconum, Mr. Bärenbruck removed thither, with the Seminarists and Mission Servants, leaving Tranquebar on the 23d of April 1823. Mr. Bärenbruck, with John Devasagayam and the other Assistants of the Mission, continued their diligent labours at Combaconum till January of last year. The Society for promoting Christian Knowledge has a School in that place; and the Corresponding Committee had felt from the beginning that it was desirable, on that account, that Mr. Bärenbruck should settle, if practicable, elsewhere. On this subject they remark—

Our solicitude to avoid intruding within the remotest limits of the Christian-Knowledge Society's Missionaries in this Province has been sufficiently manifested to you, we have no doubt, by the measure of removing Mr. Bärenbruck from the Town of Combaconum, in the midst of the most useful exertions and promising prospects of still further usefulness—a removal, deeply distressing to him, and painful to ourselves; but indispensable on the principle which we have uniformly asserted, of the impropriety of any Society fixing a Missionary at a place preoccupied by another Society.

On Mayaveram, the place ultimately fixed upon for the seat of the Mission, 15 miles west of Tranquebar and 21 miles north-east of Combaconum, they add—

The Town of Mayaveram, in the Tanjore Country, was, after much inquiry and consideration, selected for the station of the Rev. Mr. Bärenbruck's Mission, in connexion with the Tranquebar School-Establishment; but, owing to various impediments, it was not till a late period of the year that Mr. Bärenbruck succeeded in completing the purchase of an eligible piece of ground for the site of the Mission. His success, finally, is attributable to the obliging assistance of John Cotton, Esq. Principal Collector of the Province.

Mr. Bärenbruck's mind had been harassed for several months by the difficulties interposed by the different proprietors of the land to be purchased: but he writes, on the 6th of November last—

To-day every thing respecting the Society's land was settled at Mayaveram; and we blessed the Name of the Lord, who had given us success. May He sanction, from on high, the undertaking; and bless the Mission to this place and people! They seem, indeed, not much to like the idea of Christians coming to settle, for the first time, among them: they rather appear averse to it, and endeavour to keep at a distance from us. But our trust is in the Lord, and in His might do we put our confidence—conscious of having the best designs, as regarding the eternal welfare of this people, at heart; and desiring to do the will of the Lord, who has the key to open a door where it appears to be shut.

The Corresponding Committee state—

Measures are in progress for erecting the requisite Buildings, for the accommodation of the Mission at Mayaveram; where, it is hoped, Mr. Bärenbruck will be settled in the course of this year, and where he will thenceforth be enabled to pursue the objects of his office with advantages which he has not hitherto possessed.

Mr. Bärenbruck's MINISTERIAL LABOURS were unavoidably interrupted by his exertions for the final settlement of the head-quarters of the Mission. After his return to Tranquebar from Combaconum in January of last year, he continued the whole of that year at Tranquebar. The course of his labours, and those of his Assistants, at that place and in its neighbourhood, is thus described by him:—

Though my chief attention is given to the Schools, I think it my duty, and am convinced that it is the Committee's desire also, that I should do as much good to the Christians in this Mission and to the Heathens about us, as may be in my power; and I am happy to say that I have found ample opportunities for this, hitherto. Since we have been here, with the exception of one Sunday, I have found opportunity to occupy the pulpit twice, either in Jerusalem or Bethlehem Church; and, on the week-evenings, if I am not going on a visit to the Schools, I can spend my time very usefully in visiting the Prayer Houses, four or five times a week, where from 20 to 40 Native Christians assemble to hear the Word of God.

The Readers are, every day, engaged in the streets and public places, in reading and explaining the Word of God to Heathens, Mahomedans, and Roman Catholics. They are frequently sent to fixed places, where we may inspect them, and see whether they are faithful in the discharge of their duty; and, every evening, they have to deliver the report of the day.

At Combaconum, Mr. Bärenbruck had great encouragement. A Missionary of another Society writes of his labours while there—

In our walk through the town, which is large and respectable, I found that Mr. Bärenbruck and his character were well known to the people; and we met with many who were quite willing to hear and converse on religious subjects.

From the Native Prince of the District, the Rajah of Tanjore, Mr. Bärenbruck received much kindness; and so favourably were his labours regarded by many of the Heathen, that several of them offered to assist in the work by pecuniary contributions.

On the Assistants in the Mission the Corresponding Committee remark—

The most favourable testimony continues to be borne by Mr. Bärenbruck to the industry and piety of his principal Native Assistant, John Devasagayam—to the fidelity of the inferior members of his establishment, in their respective stations—and to the gradual improvement and promising qualities of the Youths attached to the Seminary for Catechists and Schoolmasters, under his immediate superintendence.

In reference to the SCHOOLS* the Corresponding Committee remark—

Mr. Bärenbruck's inspection of the various Schools under his charge was uninterrupted, and he has been enabled to introduce, in the course of the year, some further improvements in the system of instruction and superintendence, from which he reasonably expects material advantage to the Scholars. Better conducted Catechetical Instruction, and more exact inspection of the conduct of the Masters, are the chief points of progressive improvement alluded to in the system of the Schools.

The following account comprises the different classes of Scholars connected with 32 Schools:—

* Further particulars respecting the Schools and the Mission generally have been given, since the Anniversary, from the Journal of Mr. Bärenbruck and the Native Assistant, at pp. 418—438 of the Missionary Register for September.

Protestant Christians	88
Roman Catholics	27
Christian Girls	12
Brahmins	123
Soodras	1348
Mahomedans	61
Total Children in the Schools	1659

Reviewing the advantages resulting from the Society's Schools in this quarter, Mr. Bärenbruck observes—

Since the establishment, upwards of SIX THOUSAND FIVE HUNDRED CHILDREN have received in them Christian Instruction. Of this number, a considerable proportion passed through the Schools regularly, attending them for several years—others were there for a shorter time; and were, of course, less perfectly instructed.

When the advantages resulting from the acquirement of the elements of learning and some measure of religious instruction are considered, it cannot be doubted, that the benefits of an Establishment, which affords those advantages to so considerable a number of children, must well repay the expense of its maintenance and the benevolence of its supporters.

A subsequent Report of the Schools, in July of last year, gives the following number:—

Protestant Christians, 70—Roman Catholics, 48—Christian Girls, 16—Brahmins, 132—Soodras, 1383—Mahomedans, 72. Making a total of 1721.

TINNEVELLY.

The Madras Corresponding Committee give the following satisfactory view, in their Seventh Report, of the state of this Mission:—

The survey of the proceedings of the Tinnevelly Mission, during the past year, is calculated to afford pleasure to the Christian Philanthropist, to give encouragement to the individuals who are engaged in it to persevere in their benevolent exertions for the dissemination of Divine Truth, and to call forth renewed expressions of gratitude and praise to the Almighty, without whose blessing all human efforts for the good of mankind must fail of success.

With the view of extending Female Education in this Mission, and for the better conducting of its increasing concerns, some addition to the Society's Establishment at Palamcottah became necessary. An advantageous purchase of new premises has, in consequence, been effected by the Corresponding Committee, of which Mr. Rhenius gives the following description:—

The House and Grnoud are excellently suited to the object which we have in view: they are not too far from the present premises, yet distant enough to have the Male and Female Departments properly separated; while all may be assembled together, when occasion requires it, in two or three minutes. The public road passes between the two premises; and the situation of the new ground is much more convenient for building a Church than the old is: the new ground measures, on the north side, 375 feet; on the east, 580; on the south, 382; and, on the west, 552. The House is built, as most of the houses are here, of raw bricks, with burnt bricks in the upper and lower parts: it is 93 feet by 62: it contains a hall 26 feet by 18, six rooms, and four small verandahs, with two chambers: on the east side are the offices, consisting of a kitchen, three rooms, and six smaller for poultry &c.: on the west side, there are stables for five horses, a pigeon-house, a bathing-room with a small tank near it, and two small huts: the house and principal out-houses are tiled; and the rest are covered with ollas. There is a fruit and vegetable garden, with a number of cocoa-nut, mango, and other trees, and a grape pandal. There is, in the Compound, another small tank; but the garden is principally watered by a little stream, which passes close by the Compound.

In reference to the price paid for these premises, Mr. Rhenius thus writes to the Treasurer of the Corresponding Committee:—

I have the pleasure to inform you, that, agreeably to the sanction of the Committee conveyed by your Letter of August the 4th, I have succeeded in purchasing the New Premises opposite the present Mission Garden, at a considerably lower rate than that first mentioned; viz. at 750 pagodas. I cannot but notice the liberality of Vengoo Moodeliar. The House and Ground cost him 850 pagodas; and considerable improvements have been since made by those who rented it of late: yet he relinquished 100 pagodas, in consequence of its being a concern of charity, for which I have expressed to him our cordial thanks.

Mr. Rhenius visited Madras in the former part of last year, chiefly in reference to his revision of the Tamul Scriptures. He left Palamcottah, with Mrs. Rhenius and two of their children (two others having been left in the charge of friends), on the 11th of February. Proceeding by way of Jaffna, in Ceylon, they reached that place on the 25th: they staid till the 8th of March with Mr. Knight, in the Society's Mission at Nellore; and arrived at Madras, by way of Tranquebar, on the 30th. Nearly three months were spent at Madras: they left on the 18th of June; and reached Palamcottah, by land, on the 15th of July.

To the LABOURERS in this Mission, some addition has been made. Mrs. Schnarrè, Widow of the Society's late Missionary at Tranquebar, had continued at that place, with her son, under the protection of the Society, since the death of her excellent Husband: having expressed a wish to be employed in superintending Female Schools, she removed to Palamcottah in September; where she will be able to exercise more particular and constant superintendence, than Mrs. Rhenius's care of her family has allowed her to do. Mr. Schmid has also, by his marriage, added an efficient helper in the Female Department of the Mission: he was on a visit, with the concurrence of the Madras Committee, to his brother the Rev. Deocar Schmid, at Calcutta, where he arrived on the 11th of October, having left Palamcottah on the 24th of August and Madras on the 29th of September: he was subsequently married to a Young Person who had assisted in the Female Orphan Asylum, and had greatly endeared herself therein to Mr. and Mrs. Schmid.

The Corresponding Committee thus report on the labours and success of the Missionaries in the exercise of their MINISTRY:—

At Palamcottah, the seat of the Mission, the general attendance at the Chapel on Sundays was very satisfactory throughout the year. Persons had repaired to it from considerable distances, and had heard the Word of God with much attention. The Congregations had, indeed, been so numerous as to excite a wish, that the Building should be enlarged. In the course of the year, there were thirteen baptisms, one marriage, and one death.

The attendance on Divine Service at Tinnevelly, it is stated, was unusually encouraging. The Heathen, it would appear, have evinced attention to the subjects of Discourse, and have been led to frequent questions and discussions respecting them.

At Keelpatam, an aversion to Missionary Instruction has unhappily continued to be manifested by the Roman Catholics.

The Church planted at Tiroopoolangoody has continued steady in its profession, and has received a small accession to its Members.

At Arooloor, a small Christian Establishment has been formed, and a building for Prayer has been erected.

Pleasing appearances of the renunciation of Idolatry have presented themselves at Satangkoolam, where the truths of the Gospel have been preached to a large Congregation, and a satisfactory knowledge of the principles of Christianity has been acquired by persons of both sexes who are Candidates of Baptism.

Favourable symptoms of dissatisfaction with the prevailing system of Idolatry have also been observed at Amandavanakoody, Pandarapooram, and Secadivally.

Of these places, Mr. Rhenius thus speaks in a review of the progress of the Mission during the year:—

All these places have been frequently visited by our two Native Assistants. They have been in the practice of staying in each place for some time, assembling the people for prayer, and instructing them in the Word of God. At other times the people instruct themselves—the most clever among them reading to the rest the New Testament or Tracts, and praying.

The number of people, who belong to the Mission, and are under religious instruction, is as follows:—

At Mooroogenoorchy, the Chapel near the Compound, and in the two Seminaries, 117 Native Christians and 4 Candidates for Baptism—Tiroopoolangoody, 14 Native Christians and 5 Candidates for Baptism—Arooloor, 2 Native Christians and 39 Candidates for Baptism—and at Satangkoolam 135 Candidates for Baptism, at Amandavanakoody about 50, at Pandarapooram about 20, and at Secadivally about 30—making a Total of 416.

I will not be positive in determining the motive which has urged these people to renounce Idolatry, and put themselves under the Christian Ministry. Knowing the Native Character as I do, I always take much pains to find out their true motives. In the present cases, I cannot discover any other but the desire of being saved from sin, and instructed in the Word of God.

It began with some people in what we now call Arooloor. They could not have any design with respect to worldly advantages. While we ourselves and our Native Assistants were visiting them, and teaching them the Word of God, one of the Assistants, from a desire to communicate spiritual good to a number of people who had collected together at Satangkoolam, for the Market, went thither; and preached, and read Tracts, to a large number of them: on which, some Shanar Families came and requested to be instructed in the Word of God: they have now increased to 30 Families. They were visited and instructed by us, as the Journals will shew; and we have often large Congregations there, from 400 to 500 people. From thence it spread to the neighbouring places, and so the remaining Congregations arose. When once the heavenly flame is kindled, who will quench it? Or if the high and the rich harden their hearts against the Gospel, who will wonder when God selects a Church for Himself from among the poorest classes? All souls are mine, saith He, in his Holy Word.

As to the evidence of their being excited by proper motives, how ignorant soever they still are in religious matters, I think I may say this—they actually forsake idolatry: they acknowledge their sins: they learn and hear the Word of God with diligence: their behaviour is pleasing, so that even their enemies have not yet brought charges of lying, cheating, quarrelling, or any such thing against them: they are all aware, both from our instructions and conduct, that they will not be relieved by our instrumentality from taxes, or the services which are legally required from them: they are ready to pay, and do, all that is required: they know, also, that they must earn their bread by their own labours, and they are willing to do so: lastly, they patiently endure afflictions, for the sake of Christianity.

The Native Services have been continued at Palamcottah; and, on Wednesday Evenings, at Tinnevelly. The School-Houses at the Out-Stations are also used for religious instruction and for prayer; and discussions frequently take place there with the Heathen. The blessing of God on these exertions has been clearly manifested in the large increase of Native Christians and the number of Candidates for Baptism. Opposition is made, indeed, at some of the Stations, to the progress of the Gospel, and the Converts are called to endure much persecution; but, in reference to this, the Corresponding Committee very justly remark to the Missionaries—

We are pained at the sufferings of the Country Converts. Christianity, it would seem, must extend in India, even in this day, as it did in the early times, amidst tribulation and opposition: but it is an attestation of the pureness of the Christianity which is being introduced; and we trust that the sufferers will give proof, by their behaviour under persecution, of the spirit which they have received with their new profession—and, like their progenitors in this holy warfare, vanquish by suffering.

On the department of SCHOOLS, the Corresponding Committee thus speak:—

The following Table shews an addition of two Schools to the number mentioned in the preceding Report, and an augmentation of no less than 144 to the number of Scholars:—

1.	Mooroogenoorchy . . .	40 Scholars.
2.	Tinnevelly	45
3.	Munjacooly, in Tinnevelly .	38
4.	Pettah, in ditto . .	21
5.	Chickneygramum . . .	48
6.	Tatchanalloor . . .	38
7.	Vannarapettah . . .	36
8.	Kopidoopallam . . .	38
9.	Kanasabaram . . .	22
10.	Moorappanadoo . . .	32
11.	Keelpatam	19
12.	Tiroopoolangoody . . .	22
13.	Kanabadinadenoor . . .	13
14.	Amandavanakoody . . .	20
	Total Scholars . .	432

The increase in the number of Scholars is a gratifying indication that the prejudices of the people against Christian Instruction are wearing off, and that the character of the Schools is rising in public estimation. It is, likewise, pleasing to know that boys continue longer under tuition than they did formerly; as, without remaining under instruction for a suitable period, they can but imperfectly reap the benefit which the Schools are fitted to impart. The books of the Missionaries are taught and learnt by the Schoolmasters and Scholars with apparent pleasure.

At a late Examination, of 147 Boys examined 36 received rewards; and, on a subsequent occasion, 41 were rewarded out of 164. The interest which the people take in the Schools manifestly increases; and the parents, themselves, derive much knowledge from the children. The Monthly Meetings of Schoolmasters held by the Missionaries have proved very beneficial.

Of the FEMALE SCHOOLS it is said—

The Girls' Seminary, the establishment of which was noticed in the Committee's last Report, has succeeded remarkably well. It contains thirty-six Girls, and is now placed under the charge of the Widow of the late Rev. Mr. Schnarrè, formerly the Society's Missionary at Tranquebar; from whose zealous and judicious management much advantage may, under Providence, be expected to accrue to the Institution. The Girls obtain instruction in reading and writing, and in other appropriate branches of Female Education.

The Divine Blessing has been strikingly manifested in the progress of the SEMINARY for the preparation of Native Teachers. On this subject, the Corresponding Committee state—

In the Boys' Seminary there are Thirty-five Young Men and Boys, whose progress in useful learning, and whose general conduct, merit commendation. They receive instruction in Religion, Geography, History, Arithmetic, and English.

In reference to this Institution, Mr. Rhenius reports—

The blessing, which the Lord has been pleased to bestow on the Seminarists in spiritual matters, demands our highest gratitude. Those who were, last year, in an awakened state, have not only continued but also advanced therein. Their conduct, in general, corresponds with the Gospel. Some of them have, during the year, discovered much piety and zeal for the cause of Christianity among their countrymen: they have their private Prayer Meetings. When they visit their homes, they take Tracts with them to read to their relations and other people whom they meet with. At different times during the week, they go into the high road which passes by our Compound, and read Tracts or portions of Scripture to the passengers.

The Missionaries labour, with great earnestness and affection, to prepare these Young Men for future service; and they feel abundantly rewarded for all their past exertions and trials, in the manifestation of that gracious influence of the Holy Spirit whereby so large a number have been converted to God, and such good hope is afforded concerning others. Mr. Schmid, under whose more especial charge these Young Men are, thus speaks of them:—

Our Journals will shew you that the Lord is gracious to our dear Youths, in that He has awakened many of them from the sleep of sin—has filled their minds with a strong feeling of His omnipresence—and, what is more, has shed abroad in their hearts the love of Christ. Of many of them it can be truly said—Behold, he prayeth!

I feel myself unable adequately to describe the very pleasing and important change, which has taken place in the whole conduct of nearly all of them. Their very countenances have altered, and are become serious; but, at the same time, they bear a marked expression of an inward peace and happiness, which the world could not have given them. Could you, Dear Sir, be among us for some time, and see with your own eyes what we daily witness, you would unite with us in thanksgivings to our Heavenly Father, that He has thus revealed himself as unto babes!

I am satisfied in my mind, that their relinquishing Caste, by entering the Seminary, has greatly assisted them to get more perfectly rid of the world, and to submit, more decidedly and unreservedly, to Christian Principles and Christian Discipline.

I did never expect to have the happiness to see in India, what I have seen these few months.

But, that I may not appear as one who sings triumphal songs before the termination of the battle, I must expressly add, that the hardness of some Youths causes us still to sorrow: and we expect that Satan will be active, and successful enough, to sow his tares; which will grow up, when we least think of it. May we, therefore, be found watchful and unwearied in prayer; that these, as yet, tender plants, committed to our care, may be preserved from the poisonous blasts of hell and the world, and grow up to spread a sweet and reviving odour of Paradise through this Heathen Land!

In reference to PUBLICATIONS, the Corresponding Committee report—

During the year, between four and five thousand Tracts were distributed; and it appears, that the people continue to be desirous to receive them. In the important undertaking of translating the New Testament into Tamul, the Rev. Mr. Rhenius has completed the Epistle of St. Paul to the Romans.

Journies are continued, as opportunities offer, for making known the Gospel to the people, by the distribution of Tracts, and by conversation and preaching. Of these and all their other proceedings, the Missionaries continue to furnish full and faithful accounts in their Journals*, which are kept and transmitted with exemplary care.

Your Committee cannot leave this Station, without expressing their devout acknowledgments to the God of all Grace for the blessing which He has vouchsafed to the labours of the Missionaries. When, in addition to the progress of true religion among the Seminarists at this place, and the growth of inquiry and serious concern among the people, they contemplate the increase of genuine piety in other quarters, they cherish the hope that the Word of the Lord is about to have more free course and to be glorified amidst the gross superstitions of the East, and that numbers will arise from among its Idolaters to call Him blessed.

TRAVANCORE.

While the field of exertion among the Syrian Christians and their neighbours requires additional LABOURERS, the Committee regret to state, that domestic afflictions and sickness continue to interpose many obstacles to the present Missionaries in the full discharge of the duties in which they are zealously engaged. Mr. Bailey, with the Syrian Clergy and in the care of the Press—Mr. Fenn, in the College—Mr. Baker, in charge of the Schools—and Mr. Norton, at Allepie—have, however, with some interruptions, proceeded in their work.

* Ample extracts from the Journals of the Rev. C. T. E. Rhenius and the Rev. Bernhard Schmid will appear in the Missionary Register for October.

In order to strengthen this Mission, the Rev. Joseph Beddy and the Rev. Samuel Ridsdale were appointed, as stated in the last Report, to this quarter: it has been already mentioned (see p. 35) that they arrived at Madras in September. Circumstances led, on their arrival, to a change of Mr. Beddy's destination, as will be hereafter stated; but Mr. Ridsdale was to proceed to Travancore, to be ultimately fixed either at Cotym or Cochin, when qualified by the attainment of Malayalim, as might appear expedient. The Rev. John William Doran has been appointed to assist Mr. Fenn in the Syrian College, and will soon leave this country for his destination.*

The death of Thomas Woodroffe, a pious Young Man, was a great loss to the College, as he had rendered important assistance to Mr. Fenn: his decease was occasioned by the bite of a snake: Mr. Fenn gives this lamented Young Man a high character:—

He had been attached to the Mission three years—was a Youth of no ordinary talents, perseverance, and energy—and lived under the decided influence of the love and fear of God.†

How severely the burden of the College was felt by Mr. Fenn will appear by the following extract of a Letter to the Rev. Marmaduke Thompson:—

Could some help be afforded me, I should be very glad. I have upward of 30 Youths learning Latin and English; and have, at present, no help of any kind. Even in England, it cannot well be expected that one person should take the sole management and tuition of 30 Boys; but what comparison is there, between the labour of instructing lads of our own country, of similar habits and language and taste, and those who are dissimilar in these and other respects from ourselves? Besides this, books are formed in England to our hands—

* The admission of Mr. Doran to Deacons' Orders was stated at p. 36. On the 29th of May, he was admitted, by the Lord Bishop of London, to Priests' Orders; and sailed, on the 31st, from Deal, in the Mulgrave Castle, Captain Ralph, for India.

† Some further particulars of this Young Man, and of the Mission generally, are given at pp. 404—407 of the last Volume of the Missionary Register: and, at p. 416, an Engraving of the Syrian College.

here, all is to be put into Malayalim. Do not leave me any longer without help.

Mr. Fenn's health having seriously suffered through these exertions, it became necessary to seek such local assistance in the care of the Junior Students of the College as could be obtained. Through the kindness of some Members of the Corresponding Committee, two Assistants in this department, Mr. John Ryan (who received a classical education) and Mr. James Roberts, have been procured from the Military Service, whose character and attainments give good promise of their becoming a valuable acquisition to the Mission.

Cotym.

Of the different departments of labour in behalf of the Syrians, the Madras Committee, in their Seventh Report, give the following view :—

College—The Report which the Committee have received from the Rev. Mr. Fenn on the state of the Syrian College, in the past year, is satisfactory in regard to the attainments of the Students; while it affords an agreeable presage of the future usefulness of the Institution. The number of Students is stated to be 51; and their punctuality in attendance and application to study have borne testimony to their desire for improvement.

There are three Latin Classes. The First Class is numerically small, not containing more than seven persons: but its members, who have begun to read Virgil, have acquired a tolerable acquaintance with the construction of the Latin Language; and they possess a serviceable knowledge of English, as is evineed by the circumstance of their prosecuting their Latin Studies through the medium of English Dictionaries, without deriving any aid from Malayalim Vocabularies: the Students of this Class also render some assistance in the instruction of the others, who are not so far advanced as themselves. The Second Class consists of eight, and the Third of ten Students: the Second has commenced Cæsar's Commentaries, and the Third is reading Selectæ é Veteri.

With a few exceptions, the Students of the Three Classes have begun to direct their attention to the acquisition of the Syriac. The study of Sanscrit has, for the present, been discontinued by the Students, at the recommendation of the Metran; that they might devote a longer portion of their time to the study of Syriac: but they are considered to have made so much progress in it, that they may, without difficulty, renew it at a future period. The effect of their attention to this ancient and polished language is observable, in the classical tinge by which their conversation is marked; and as the Rev. Mr. Fenn observes—

The due mixture of the more common Sanscrit terms with the colloquial Malayalim of the country, is that which distinguishes a Native Scholar from his more illiterate neighbours.

The following observations by Mr. Fenn shall conclude this branch of our Report.

I cannot but hope that the plan of education adopted is beginning to succeed. The great desideratum, which has been ever kept in view, has been the promoting of habits of study, and reflection, and investigation; as well as the inspiring of a certain degree of confidence in their own natural powers; rather than the imparting of any particular quantum of general information on any subject.

The study of Latin seems to be well adapted to effect this; and, on this account, the plan adopted in our old Grammar Schools has been imitated: the unravelling of a Latin sentence, the review of its construction, and comparing of the different modes of expressing the same idea, appear to be good exercises of the mental powers.

While learning Latin, the Scholar is also learning English; and it appears to me, that, by this plan, time is saved. To learn any language tolerably well, if it be the first language studied, less than five or six years is too little; and then the knowledge remains to be perfected, by daily reading and reflection. If this time is given to the acquisition of English, and afterward the Latin is to be learnt, Latin can never be commenced before the Student is twelve years of age; and, in the generality of cases, two or three years older—a period almost too late for a successful cultivation of the language in most instances: but if the study of both languages be pursued conjointly, though the proficiency in English will not be so great, certainly not in appearance, and most likely not in reality, still some years will, I think, be saved by this method.

Grammar School—The progress of the Scholars, in the acquirement of English and Sanscrit, has been steady. Two boys have been sent out as Schoolmasters; and thus the School has begun to fulfil an important object in its plan. The Boys are regularly instructed in religion, and almost all of them have committed to memory our Lord's Sermon on the Mount: some, indeed, have learnt this instructive portion of Scripture by heart, both in English and Malayalim. The Church and Dr. Watts's Catechisms enter into their course of study.

Parochial Schools.—The prevalence of sickness occasioned, for a time, a relaxed attendance at some of the Schools: and fear seems to have been entertained that the people were becoming indifferent to the education of their children; but the apprehension has, happily, been removed. Fresh applications have been made for Schoolmasters in different places; and, in two instances, the requests have been accompanied by offers, on the part of the people, to bear the charge of one half of the Schoolmaster's stipend. At present, the Schools are attended almost exclusively by Syriac Children: the Roman Catholics are prohibited from attending, by their Bishop; and the Mahomedans and Heathens are averse to receive Christian Instruction. A change, in this respect, may, however, be anticipated, for the Schools bear a good character among the people, and much pains are taken to keep the Schoolmasters attentive to their duty.

Subjoined is a statement of the Schools; with reference to which it is remarked by the Rev. Mr. Baker, who is charged with their superintendence, that the total number of children thus attending the Schools is 1231. The Schoolmasters are 51 in number, there being two in one School, at Cunanculancare. In some of the Schools, the Boys do not attend regularly: at the season of harvest, in particular, there is a falling-off in most places. But that the number shewn in the subjoined Table are taught in the Schools, so as to make considerable progress, is evident from stated returns of their proficiency, and from examinations held personally by the Missionary in charge of the Schools:—

Clergy—In the past year, the improvement of the Catanars was not great; but it is noticed, that some, who have been Ordained since the establishment of the Mission in Travancore, conduct themselves in a manner more befitting their vocation than their seniors. The Rites and Ceremonies of the Syrian Church continue as usual; yet a hope is entertained, that, as the light of knowledge is diffused among them, their superstitions will be laid aside. The Metran has, indeed, addressed a Letter to the Churches, prohibiting some Heathenish Customs, which had been observed at their Feasts.

Churches—Two new Churches, to one of which reference was made in our last Report, are building; and other Churches are undergoing repairs. Considerable pecuniary aid is necessary to put the Churches in a good state of repair; and the Syrians, themselves, are too poor to supply the requisite means. In reporting on this subject, the Rev. Mr. Bailey expresses an expectation which the Committee would indulge the hope of seeing realized, when he says, that—

Through the liberality of the Christian Public, we trust that every needful assistance will be afforded, not only for this purpose, but for carrying into effect every other plan which is and may be hereafter adopted for the general good of the Syrians.

TRANSLATIONS—In reference to these, Mr. Bailey states—

The Translation of the Scripture has occupied as much of my time as I could possibly devote to that important object. In my last Report, I believe, I stated that I had proceeded as far as the Eleventh Chapter of the Epistle to the Hebrews, in revising the New Testament. Since I finished Revelations, I have revised again the Epistle to the Romans, and the First Epistle to the Corinthians. The Gospel of St. Matthew I have prepared for the press, and it has been printed. The Gospels and the Acts of the Apostles are nearly prepared for the press. There is a considerable desire excited among the Syrians in general to possess the Sacred Scriptures; and it is no small grief to us, that we are not able to supply them with those invaluable treasures. The Gospel of St. Matthew is distributed, as fast as we can get copies stitched together and put in boards.

To this Report, your Committee will add some extracts of various communications, which will throw additional light on the state of this important Mission.

From the following statement, lately received, it appears that the College was to be much improved:—

Considerable alterations are contemplated, in order to render the present College-building more commodious, which is indeed required; and to erect some new out-buildings. The College is a quadrangle, of three stories to the north and south, and two to the east and west; with inside sloping verandahs, which make it very close and dark: it is proposed to remove these verandahs—to raise the east and west wings—to partition off Studies for the twelve upper boys, for which the building is well adapted—and to form outside verandahs. Of these four things, two are much to be recommended—removing the heavy inside verandahs, and forming Studies for the Youths. The expense will not be great; but the whole will be submitted to the judgment of an Engineer Officer, and the expense will be defrayed from the Subscriptions now in progress.

In the mean time, the Hebrew Professor has been discontinued, at 35 rupees per month; and also the Malayalim Translator, at 30 rupees. The Professor is not at present required: the Translator requested his discharge, in the hope of finding a more lucrative situation.

Mr. Fenn reports well of the progress of Marcus, the Senior Student: with the next three Youths, he assists Mr. Fenn in the care of the other Students. Of all the more advanced Youths Mr. Fenn remarks—

Their desire of knowledge increases, and they manifest the most docile and amiable temper.

A small Philosophical Apparatus has been sent out, for the use of the College; and an additional supply of books for the Library.

Of the Boys in the Grammar School, Mr. Baker writes—

I am just about sending the boys belonging to the Grammar School to their homes, where many of them have not been for the last ten months; and I am happy to say that I do it with a greater degree of pleasure, than I have felt on any former occasion. I do not dismiss them, this time, altogether ignorant of the Word of God. Last year, the greater part of them had committed to memory Watts's Three Catechisms; but had not read any part of the Scriptures: now, nearly the whole of them have committed to memory the Sermon on the Mount; and would have learnt much more, but this is all that we had ready for them in their own language. The First Class have just come to the close of the book of Genesis, which they have gone through reading and explaining half a Chapter a day regularly; but they are not thoroughly acquainted with it, and must read it again after the holydays. Besides this, they have read in English two of the Gospels; but these, likewise, they are as yet but imperfectly acquainted with.

It appears from the latest despatches, that Mr. Baker had been obliged to give up the charge of the Grammar School, on account of a recent increase in the Parochial Schools: it has devolved on Mr. Fenn and his Assistants; and becomes thus more immediately connected with the College.

On the Parochial Schools, Mr. Baker remarks—

I am obliged, through want of printed books, to allow the Masters to teach nearly according to their own plan; though I dislike it more and more every day. I insist, however, on having the Catechisms taught in all the Schools; and allow only such books being taught as I am acquainted with, and know to be tolerable.

Mr. Baker much wishes the establishment of a second Press at Cotym, as that already possessed by the Mission is almost entirely occupied with the Malayalim Scriptures. On the subject of the Scriptures he writes—

Nothing is so much wanting in all the Schools as suitable books, and particularly the Scriptures. Oh what would I give for the whole New Testament in Malayalim! If this were read in the Schools, a knowledge of it would, I am sure, soon become general. Wretchedly sunk and degraded as the Syrians are, in a religious and moral point of view, there is among them a growing desire after religious knowledge; so as to warrant a hope, that many of them would receive the Word with all gladness if we had it to give them.

The Rev. Marmaduke Thompson, who spent some time in this vicinity last autumn, has stated some circumstances with reference to Mr. Bailey's proceedings in the department of Translation and Printing, which the Committee have great pleasure in bringing before the Society. He writes—

The Printing Office appears to be well and substantially built. It consists of two large rooms: one of these is sufficient for the easy working of four Presses, and for all the necessary types and apparatus; and the other, which is of equal size, receives all the paper and other stores, and furnishes conveniences for bookbinding. The whole is enclosed with a rather deep verandah; one end of which is at present formed into a dwelling for the Native Printer, and the other end may be quite sufficient for the Type Foundry. The situation is elevated, airy, and dry.

Mr. Bailey's proceedings in this department ought to be put on record. How very faulty the Malayalim Types were, the Committee have long known.

Hopeless of any thing better, at least for a long time to come, Mr. Bailey, without ever having seen a Type Foundry or its apparatus of any kind, eager to get some portion of the Scriptures and some other works respectably printed as soon as possible, set himself to endeavour to form his own types, with such aid as he could find from books alone and from common workmen. He had recourse chiefly to the Encyclopædia Britannica; and, with the instructions which he derived from this and another smaller work or two, a common carpenter, and two silversmiths, it is pleasant to report, that he succeeded so completely, that, some months ago, he sent a specimen of his types, in print, to the Resident, whose reply to Mr. Bailey's Letter sent with them, I have seen in the following terms:—

Accept of my best thanks, for the specimen of the new types, which you have been so kind as to send me. The print is extremely beautiful and correct, and reflects much credit on your zeal and industry.

The sight of this machinery, and of the means by which he has accomplished all, was very gratifying to me. He counted upon being able to prepare a sufficiency of types for the printing of the whole Scriptures, in little more than a quarter of a year. Besides the correctness and beauty of his types, noticed by Colonel Newall, he has so reduced them in size, that we can now print at one half of the cost of the old types. We can print in Malayalim at Cotym, at the prices of Tamul-printing in Madras.

I have to conclude my Report with the welcome intelligence of a permanent reduction in the expense of printing, involving another little interesting circumstance in connexion with Mr. Bailey. The Printer sent from Madras we were obliged to dismiss. In the mean time, a Youth, adopted some years ago by Mr. Bailey as a destitute Orphan Child, had acquired the art of printing sufficiently to succeed as Head Printer, to which office we appointed him on a salary of seven rupees per month. This little incident adds singularly to the completeness of Mr. Bailey's work in the Edition of the Malayalim Scriptures, to issue from our Press, we trust, in a short time. The Translation is entirely his own—the types formed by himself from the very mould—and the printing to be executed by an Orphan Boy, reared up by his charity,

The interest felt by the Metropolitan in the diffusion of religious knowledge throughout his Diocese is thus noticed by Mr. Fenn—

The Metropolitan is very anxious, even to a degree that it is difficult to express in writing, for the cultivation of sound learning, and especially sound Biblical Learning, among his people; and more particularly among the Clergy, and those destined for the Clerical Office.

On the prospect of success Mr. Fenn observes—

We are so ignorant of what the purposes of God may be, and it pleases Him so often to disappoint the most natural and apparently-just expectations, that it becomes us to use great diffidence of language; but I cannot help thinking that no Station promises so much, or would so richly and speedily repay moral and intellectual culture of the highest kind.

In allusion to the domestic trials of Mr. Bailey he remarks—

Mr. and Mrs. Bailey are now at Quilon, in great affliction. It has pleased God to take their eldest child from them—a lovely girl of six years of age: she had been gradually sinking for many months; and had, more than once, expressed a preference of death to life, and a longing after the presence of Christ in heaven.

And, in reference to the disinterested attention of a liberal and affectionate Medical Friend towards them, he adds—

Mr. and Mrs. Bailey are staying at Dr. Macaulay's, nephew of our excellent friends General Macaulay and Mr. Zachary Macaulay. He is all kindness to them: and not to them only, but to all who are sick, and need his aid; and seems to take especial pleasure in serving those who cannot adequately remunerate him.

The local fund in aid of this Mission has been liberally supported. The Corresponding Committee give a list of the Contributors, and recommend it to the special notice of the Christian Public.

Of the state of the Syrians, both priests and people, Mr. Thompson speaks in not very favourable terms. Two improvements, however, he considers to be permanently effected—the abolition of the Celibacy of the Clergy, and the purifying of some of the Festival Solemnities from the Heathenish admixtures by which they were degraded: but he laments, among other things, the corrupt state of the Syrian Liturgy, the low condition of the Females, and the want of due regard to the Sabbath. He entertains, however, in common with all who duly appreciate the state and prospects of this Mission, the most confident hopes, under the gracious influence of the Holy Spirit, of its ultimate success. To its Labourers and their Work he bears the following strong testimony:—

Our Missionaries are worthy of our utmost esteem and confidence. Their part has been most difficult, particularly from the state of extreme ignorance, political depression, and dismal degradation, in which they found the people; and, what was indeed to be expected from such a state, their tenaciousness of their own customs and habits, and extreme jealousy of any interference with them, however unscriptural, childish, and wrong. It pained me greatly to hear from them continually the common Heathen defence of "Custom"—"Custom"—"It is our Custom."

Our Missionaries have these difficulties, and still bear up under all, with a degree of patience and address, of wisdom and prudence, which we cannot but hail with reverence, as coming from above. Nor is the unity of spirit, the simplicity, and the harmony and love, in which they live together, less striking, or less gratefully and devoutly to be acknowledged. They respect one another; and they respect the objects of their Missionary Care, with all their failings, and especially the heads—the Metropolitan and the Priesthood: and they enjoy the fruits of it, most manifestly, in mutual comforts and benefit, and in the reverence of the whole people universally.

Their devotedness to their work is equally admirable. They really live in toil, from morning till night; and not without much smarting. Mr. Bailey and Mr. Fenn, particularly, suffer much, not unfrequently—Mr. Bailey, from intense head-aches; Mr. Fenn, from more general visceral derangement. Yet they certainly do not spare themselves.—"My only fear," said Mr. Bailey to me, in reference to a late alarming illness,—"My only fear was, that the Doctors would order me to England."

Their works do not yet appear, outwardly, to any very great extent; but enough is very visible, in each department—in the Printing Office, its establishment and produce in Translations; in the College, and its Youths, and the Grammar School; in the Parochial Schools; above all, in these excellent men themselves, in their families, and in their intercourse with one another and with the Metropolitan, Malpans, and Catanars—to make Cotym and its whole charge, one of the most interesting spots for the Christian Visitor, we may boldly say, in all India.

Allepie.

The Rev. Thomas Norton is aided in his work by a Native Reader and an Indo-British Assistant. The Native Reader is the Hindoo Youth mentioned in the last two Reports: his name is Sandappen: he belonged to the School at Allepie; but having been much opposed by his relatives, he went to Palamcottah, were he was baptized by Mr. Rhenius, on Christmas Day 1822: returning to Allepie at the following Midsummer, he was appointed by Mr. Norton, in the beginning of October, to act as Reader of the Mission, in the bazaars and through the vicinity; and was, soon after, married to one of the Females brought up in the Mission School. The Assistant was brought up a Heathen, and was baptized by Mr. Norton in April 1823, when his Heathen name of Appoo was exchanged for that of Daniel.

Among the collateral benefits of Missionary Labours in India, are the opportunities sometimes afforded of benefitting detachments of the British Army. The increase of piety among British Officers and Soldiers in India, generally renders services of this nature very acceptable to a portion of the troops. Of an occasion of this kind, afforded by the passage of His Majesty's 89th Regiment through Allepie, Mr. Norton writes—

A good congregation heard, with great attention, a Sermon from Eph. ii. 8, 9. Some Roman Catholics, who had never been at Protestant Worship before, were present, and behaved exceedingly well: one of them, after Service, begged hard for a Bible. I was struck with the request of a few of them, that I would pray with them before they marched; which I did, in my Study. May God bless them!

Mr. Norton visited Ceylon twice in the course of last year. His absence, on occasion of his first visit, was from the latter part of February to the latter part of April. The Corresponding Committee thus speak of his second visit—

Mr. Norton's labours have been interrupted during the year by absence from his Station. On a second visit to Colombo, in the course of this period, he was married to a Lady, who, the Committee trust, will afford him essential assistance in his Missionary Employments, and especially in the management of his Schools. A Sunday School was established by Mrs. Norton shortly after her arrival at Allepie: it was attended by many children, and with a good prospect of usefulness and permanency.

Particulars of proceedings at this Station are not given: but the Corresponding Committee give the following somewhat unfavourable view of their result:—

The Schools for Natives do not appear to have afforded so much satisfaction as formerly, and they contain fewer Scholars. Mr. Norton bears testimony to the diligence of his Native Assistants; but no substantial benefit appears to have accrued from their labours among their countrymen, during the period under review.

Cochin.

There is a resident Malayalim Schoolmaster at Cochin; and the Missionaries at Cotym continue, as opportunities occur, to visit the Station.

TELLICHERRY.

The Corresponding Committee report in reference to Tellicherry—

The Committee had undertaken the support of the School, established at this Station by the Rev. Mr. Spring, with the view of maintaining alive, in some measure, the Missionary Schemes commenced by that Gentleman. T. H. Barber, Esq. one of the Provincial Judges of the Station, kindly looked after the School as long as he remained attached to that office; but it has been deprived of this advantage by his departure from the District. The Schoolmaster continues to carry on the plan of instruction established by Mr. Spring; and, by the last Report, the School contained 59 Children of various castes and classes.

NELLORE.

The arrival of Messrs. Beddy and S. Ridsdale, and the appointment of Mr. Ridsdale to Travancore, have been before stated: of the destination assigned to Mr. Beddy the Corresponding Committee thus speak :—

Availing themselves of the arrival of these Clergymen, the Committee resolved on the measure of establishing a Mission in a District north of the Presidency, where the Teloogoo or Gentoo Language is vernacular. The vast extent of country throughout which that language is spoken—the limited endeavours hitherto made to impart to the inhabitants the knowledge of Christianity—coupled with the circumstance of the Mission Press at Madras being now furnished with Teloogoo Types, and consequently capable of giving speedy circulation to School-books, Tracts, and Translations of the Scriptures and other works, in that language—all rendered the execution of this measure, in the judgment of the Committee, highly desirable.

The Nellore District, the nearest of the range in which the Telogoo Language prevails, was selected for the Mission; and, by the kindness of Edward Smalley, Esq., Collector of the District, the object has been so far accomplished, as to secure the advantageous settlement of the Rev. J. F. Beddy in the town of Nellore; whither he proceeded in the month of December, and where he immediately commenced the study of that language.

The Expenditure in this Mission, from the 1st of October 1823 to the 30th of September 1824,

The Treasurer remarks—

> The favourable course of Exchange renders the Expenditure less onerous on the Home Funds than it would otherwise have been.

At Nine Stations in this Mission there were employed, at the date of the last Despatches, 11 European Missionaries, and one is on his passage. The Returns of the Missionary Teachers and Assistants are here also, as in the case of the North-India Mission, not sufficiently full and accurate: but, from the best accounts that can be collected, it appears that there are 13 Europeans, of whom 11 are Females; and that there are 8 Native Teachers, with the Native Assistants, employed in 5 Seminaries, 117 Boys' Schools, and 2 Girls' Schools.

In these Seminaries and Schools, so far as can be collected from the Returns and Despatches, there were 157 Young Men, 4327 Boys, and 101 Girls under instruction—making a total of 4585 Scholars.

The Corresponding Committee close their Seventh

Report with the following view of the growth and present state of the South-India Mission.

It is now ten years, since the Church Missionary Society commenced its operations in this country. Beginning with the humble establishment of two Lutheran Clergymen, designated only for the charge of the Tranquebar School-Establishment, it has gradually extended its plans until its Missions are established at Six Stations, where Clergymen are settled, besides several minor places under Native Superintendence.

After stating the number of Missionaries, Schools, and Scholars, the Committee proceed—

The Society has Five Seminaries for the preparation of Natives of the country, by means of an enlarged system of education, and the personal religious instruction and moral control of the Missionaries at the respective places, for future labours among their countrymen. The number of persons composing the Congregations of the several Missions cannot be very accurately stated; but a reference to the details of this Report will convey some idea of them. Several of the Missionaries are engaged in Literary Works in the Native Languages, in Translations of the Scriptures and other Books, and the preparation of Tracts for the wider dissemination of Religious Knowledge. At every Station it has pleased Almighty God to grant to the Missionaries some measure of success in the conversion of souls: if this measure appears small, it is chiefly owing to the high standard of expectation adopted by those excellent men, short of which they themselves allow of no real success.

A great field of exertion is thus exhibited, with many measures in operation, from the eventual progress of which it would be irrational not to expect, in due time, under the blessing of the Divine Author and Finisher of our faith, results honourable to His Name, and inestimably beneficial to the people within the range of their influence.

It especially behoves Christians living in the midst of the Heathen to promote the success of these benevolent undertakings, for the present and eternal welfare of the benighted people, by their prayers and their liberality: and the cause of the Church Missionary Society in this quarter of its labours, is urgently commended to both.

BOMBAY AND WESTERN-INDIA MISSION.

Of the Schools under the care of the Rev. Richard Kenney, the Corresponding Committee report—

The children learn to read the Scriptures, and repeat various parts of them in the Mahratta Language. These Schools have been visited by different friends of the Society, and exhibit satisfactory proficiency.

Here, also, as in other parts of India, some of the elder Scholars give good promise of future usefulness among their countrymen. The Committee state—

In addition to these Schools, in which from 100 to 150 boys are instructed, from fifteen to twenty Young Natives have, for nearly two years, attended at Mr. Kenney's residence; where they are regularly instructed in Mahratta and English, and read the Scriptures in both these languages. Four or five of these boys frequently attend Public Worship conducted by Mr. Kenney.

One of these Youths, in a Letter to Mrs. Kenney, which is entirely his own uncorrected composition, thus writes—

We have visited the two Mahratta Schools, Saturday Evening, and heard some of the children read Gospel, and say the Ten Commandments, perfectly well. We put them some questions, namely, Who God is? &c. They seemed quite ignorant of Him and His will: they answered, "Sun, moon, sea, cow, and the trees &c. are the objects of their worship." We, being sorry for them, taught them that there is but One God, the Maker of Heaven and Earth: He ought to be worshipped. I employ my time very well in attending every Sunday, except few, with my companions, Divine Service, where we hear Mr. Kenney preaching, which I understand perfectly well, and find gladness in it.

On a tour by Mr. Kenney, in the Northern Concan, in company of one of the American Missionaries, the late Rev. John Nichols, the Corresponding Committee remark—

They had opportunities of distributing Tracts, which were well received by natives of different descriptions. Mr. Kenney states, that a Missionary, stationed at any of the principal towns in that part of the Concan, might establish Schools and carry on the Missionary Work, with good prospect of success, in the surrounding villages. The natives were found uniformly civil and respectful.

After urging the Society to send out four additional Missionaries to this part of India, the Committee state—

We should then be able to form two other Stations—one, probably, at Basseen, for the Northern Concan; the other at Ahmedabad, for the North of Guzarat. Both these Stations would possess advantages, as the Scriptures are already translated into the languages spoken in those populous districts.

At the end of October, Mr. Kenney writes from Poonah, that he had been at that place, experiencing the friendship and hospitality of the Chaplain, the Rev. Thomas Robinson, for the last two months, for the restoration of his health. He was carrying on his Translation of the Liturgy into Mahratta, and hoped to complete it in eight or ten months. On Sundays, he addressed about 100 of the blind, halt, and maimed, to whom Mr. Robinson was in the habit of distributing alms. No prospect appearing of the health of his wife and children allowing of their return to him, he expresses his conviction that it is become his duty to join them in this country.

The Branch Association, formed in 1821 by the Rev. Henry Davies, had collected, at the end of 1823, the sum of 5652 rupees: that sum has been transferred to the funds of the Corresponding Committee, to be appropriated to the general purposes of the Society.

CEYLON MISSION.

The Rev. William Adley and Mrs. Adley have joined the Labourers in this Mission: they arrived at Trincomalee on the 10th of September, and would proceed to Nellore to assist Mr. and Mrs. Knight in their work. Mr. Knight was then absent, attending the Sixth Annual Meeting of the Missionaries, which was held at Cotta, from the 8th to the 16th of September.

At this Meeting, it was determined that Mrs. Bailey's state of health required her immediate removal to the Cape, and perhaps ultimately to Europe; and it was thought right, under some peculiar circumstances of the case, with reference to Mrs. Bailey and their children, that Mr. Bailey should accompany them: aware of the very serious hindrance to his work which this measure would occasion, it was intended that Mr. Bailey should return from the Cape to Ceylon, if Mrs. Bailey should sufficiently recover there to proceed forward to England. They accordingly left Ceylon, on the 10th of November, in the Thames, Captain Dewar, and reached the Cape on the 20th of January.*

Mr. Lambrick is again, therefore, left alone at Cotta. Mr. and Mrs. Browning contine to occupy the Station at Kandy, and Mr. and Mrs. Mayor and Mr. and Mrs. Ward that at Baddagame.

There are now, therefore, in service at the Four Stations, Six English Missionaries, of whom five are married. They are assisted by 34 Natives, and have 29 Schools; of which 7 are at Cotta, 5 at Kandy, 6 at Baddagame, and 11 at Nellore. The Return of Scholars is as follows:—Cotta, 193 Boys; Kandy, 42 Boys (the number being much reduced by sickness); Baddagame, 192 Boys, 77 Girls; and Nellore 411 Boys, 73 Girls—making a total of 838 Boys and 150 Girls.

In reference to the plan of boarding and educating Native Children to whom on their baptism names assigned by their Benefactors should be given, the Missionaries make the following remarks:—

In the Southern Maritime Provinces of this Island, the generality of the children have received Christian Names in baptism: and where this is not the case, as in the Interior and Northern Provinces, although Christian Names may be appropriated to Native Children, who generally consider it an honour to receive them, yet they always retain their native names; and are called by no other among the Natives in general, though, at the Stations to which they belong, they are called by the names given to them. With this reserve, the names of the Benefactors sent out by the Society may be given to children in the Northern District and the Interior of the Island. In this way, we have a fair prospect of fulfilling the engagements of the Committee, and of answering the expectations which they have held out.

* Mr. and Mrs. Bailey, with their two children, have arrived in England since the Anniversary. Her health not materially improving at the Cape, they sailed on the 13th of April, in the Duke of Bedford, Captain Cunningham, and landed at Ramsgate on the 8th of June. While at the Cape, they resided for about nine weeks at Wynberg, a village about eight miles from Cape Town, where Mr. Bailey regularly took two Services on the Sunday, for the Rev. Mr. Wright, of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, who availed himself of Mr. Bailey's residence at Wynberg to visit the interior of the Colony.

Mr. Knight was, in consequence, authorized by the Meeting of Missionaries to appropriate as many of the names sent out by the Society as he may judge proper, to children already under his care, and to take other children into his family as opportunities should offer; and the Missionaries in the Cingalese District will pursue the plan as they may have opportunity.

The Liturgy being under translation into familiar Cingalese, it was resolved at the Meeting that a portion should be printed with all despatch for the use of the Society's Cingalese Stations.

Much sickness prevailed in the Island, in the course of last year. Mr. Lambrick writes—

This has been a remarkably unhealthy season, I believe, in every part of the Island; but especially in the interior. Mr. and Mrs. Browning have both had fever; but have been graciously spared, while many Europeans as well as Natives have fallen. Colombo and its neighbourhood, which is thought to be the healthiest part of the Island, has not been exempt from this visitation.

The Committee regret to state the death of the Archdeacon of Colombo, the Hon. and Rev. Dr. Twisleton, who was suddenly carried off by fever, on the 15th of August. Testimony has often been borne to the friendly assistance rendered by the Archdeacon to the Society's concerns. He had preached at Baddagame, a few months before, on occasion of opening the Society's Church at that Station, and had not returned to Colombo. Mr. Mayor writes, on this melancholy subject—

He had been unwell for some time, but not so as to excite any alarm. He was attacked with fever, while travelling in the south of the Island; and died, very shortly after his arrival in his palanquin, at Humbanlotto. By his death we have all of us lost a very sincere and kind friend. He always acted with a truly liberal and Christian spirit toward all the Missionaries in the Island. There is good reason to hope that his mind had been much impressed with a sense of eternal things before his last illness. He preached a very excellent Sermon at the opening of our Church. He also preached on Good Friday and Easter Sunday at Galle, and administered the Lord's Supper: during these Services, he was very much affected. While on his tour, he performed Divine Service with the family on the Sabbath, and spent much of his time in reading religious books. He was always very remarkable for his kindness and great benevolence. A friend, who accompanied him on his tour, wrote to me, that, before his last attack, his uncommon gentleness and attention toward all around him were very delightful and affecting. The last Sermon which he preached was at Matura, and was from 2 Cor. iv. 3, 4.

To Major-General Sir James Campbell, the Lieutenant-Governor, who succeeded Sir Edward Paget, and to his Lady, the gratitude of the Society is due, for their countenance and friendly co-operation.

COTTA.

Mr. and Mrs. Bailey were left, in the last Report, about two miles from Colombo. In the early part of 1824 they removed to Colombo, and remained there while a house was preparing for them at Cotta. In May, they settled at Cotta. The Rev. Mr. Armour, one of the Government Chaplains, having proceeded to Calcutta to obtain Priests' Orders, Mr. Bailey undertook, at the request of the late Archdeacon, to occupy his place during his absence, so far as his Missionary Duties might allow. Mr. Lambrick writes, on the 11th of June—

He is entering on the work of superintending the Schools, and of preaching by an interpreter: and we look up to our gracious Lord that he may bless us; making us mutually helpful, and uniting us together with one heart and one mind to do the blessed work which He has committed to us.

This hope was soon disappointed; and Mr. Lambrick is very naturally urgent, under the loss of Mr. Bailey's expected co-operation, for immediate aid.

In reference to the exercise of the MINISTRY, Mr. Lambrick wrote in May:—

I have now three Services on the Lord's Day—one, at Mirihani, early in the morning; a second, at Cotta, in the forenoon; and a third, at Nawela, in the afternoon. I go out among the people twice in the week, and find a little congregation assembled to hear the Word of Life. Many more women have attended, within these few weeks, than ever did formerly.

On this subject, Mr. Lambrick thus reported to the Meeting in September:—

Before the late sickness, which has been severely felt throughout the greater part of the Island, our prospects in preaching to the people were improving: not only had our Sunday Congregation increased, but opportunities had opened to us for going out among the people, who seemed willing to hear the Word. Since that time, both these favourable appearances have considerably diminished: we have, through want of adult hearers, been obliged to give up the early morning preaching, which we had under promising prospects begun before the sickness, and to have the Schoolmaster and children attend our Forenoon Service at Cotta. We have now preaching at three Schools; besides our Home Services, one in Cingalese and the other in English.

We have formed pleasing hopes of two Natives; connected with the Mission, one for more than four years and the other nearly as long. Both are, we trust, seeking Salvation by Christ, and have given such evidences of their sincerity as have induced us to admit them to the Lord's Table.

The names of the SCHOOLS, with the number of Boys in each, are as follow:—Cotta, 25—Pagoda, 25—Nawela, 25—Mirihani, 29—Wellicada, 40—Gangodaæwila, 27—Bœwila, 22. Of these Schools Mr. Lambrick reported to the Meeting in September:—

In the Rules which we have adopted for our Schools, we have not thought it advisable to place the Masters under any restrictions respecting the use of the Native Books; but have endeavoured to make it their interest to teach the Boys as many Christian Lessons during the month as they possibly can: this, however, we find does not exclude their own books. The fact is, that these books are read merely for the sake of acquiring a correct pronunciation of the learned language of the country; the Masters neither pretending to explain, nor being capable of explaining, the meaning of what is read: and, as this sort of learning is in high estimation among the people, they would consider a prohibition of the use of their old school-books as a great privation. In order therefore to avoid coming in immediate contact with their prejudice on this point, we have made the Master's salary to depend, in some measure, on the number of lessons, which the boys learn of our own appointing, during the month; and, in this way, they are kept more at their Christian Lessons, than they otherwise would be.

The late severe sickness, which has so much prevailed in the villages around us, as well as in other parts of the island, has reduced the number of boys in some of our Schools, and caused great irregularity of attendance in all of them.

Since the last Meeting, three Schools have been established in populous villages; and pressing applications have been made to us to establish five others in as many different villages, some of which may, perhaps, at a future time, be attended to: at present, we wish that the Schools already established should be brought under a course of strict regular discipline, which cannot be done without frequent inspection. We shall not, however, suffer any favourable opportunity of establishing Schools in populous villages, which can be regularly visited, to pass by; as they are a means of bringing both parents and children acquainted with the precepts and doctrines of the religion of Jesus, who hath taught us in His Word not to despise the day of small things, and hath promised His blessing to the feeblest efforts to make His Name a praise in the earth.

The PRESS sent out by the Society has been set up; together with another, the temporary use of which was granted to the Missionaries by the District Committee of the Society for promoting Christian Knowledge. A complete fount of Cingalese Types had not been procured, but a few small pieces had been printed, and some others in English: it was expected that the Press would, soon after the Meeting, be in full operation, when the printing of one of the Gospels, of Mr. Lambrick's translation, would be begun: that translation had proceeded to the Book of Exodus in the Old Testament, and to the middle of St. John in the New.

In reference to the BUILDINGS at this Station, it was reported—

There are now erected, 1. A substantial Stone Building, with convenient offices, for the accommodation of a Missionary Family: 2. Complete Printing Offices: 3. A Bungalow, lately occupied by Mr. Bailey's family; which will serve for the residence of a Schoolmaster, and for a Central School for this Station. A great proportion of the materials, requisite for the proposed buildings of the Christian Institution, is collected.

Captain Schneider, the Colonial Engineer, was so kind as to furnish a plan of the buildings for the Institution; but the Meeting thought the plan was on too large a scale, and came to the following determination:—

That it consist of a main building, of two stories, of about 150 feet long and 61 broad, including verandahs, and the main walls 32 feet high; for the purposes of a Lecture Room, Library, and the accommodation of two English Families: and that there be two ranges of low buildings capable of accommodating Thirty Students, with the necessary Native Teachers, and the requisite out-buildings for the two families.

KANDY.

The improving prospects at this Station, referred to in the last Report, were soon obscured. Mr. Browning draws an affecting picture of the state of the people: he writes, in June—

It is under circumstances of a painful nature with respect to the success of my labours in this place, that I now write to you. I have long been waiting, and hoping, and praying for the dawn of a brighter day in Kandy; and, a few months ago, my expectations begun to be a little raised, by some apparent disposition on the part of the people to hear the Word of God: but now, alas! I am greatly impeded in my work, by an alarming prevalence of disease among them. For the last nine months, we have had very little rain in the interior; the consequence of which has been oppresively hot weather, and this has proved fatal to many. The mortality has been very great, among both Europeans and Natives.

It pains my heart when I reflect how many of these deluded and ignorant people are daily passing into an awful Eternity, destitute of the knowledge of God, and of his Son Jesus Christ. Oh that I could impart this saving knowledge to them! But, alas! most of them are unwilling to hear, or to receive Christian Instruction: their minds are so enslaved to superstitious vanities and lies, that they will not believe the blessed truths of the Gospel: a devil dance, a charm, or an incantation to their supposed gods, is far more regarded by them, than prayer to the Supreme Jehovah; and, even among those who are Nominal-Christians, many of whom reside in Kandy, some, as I have been credibly informed, daily have Buddhu's doctrines read in their houses, in order to keep away devils and to ward off sickness from their families! Their profession of Christianity appears to be entirely in name: for they neither govern their lives according to Christian Precepts, nor are they supported in sickness and death by Christian Consolations; but, having lived a life of ungodliness, dishonourable to their profession, in the time of sickness and death they fly to the delusive consolations of Buddhuism to give a quietus to their guilty consciences; and thus make it appear by their conduct that Buddhuism is, in their view, preferable to Christianity. I trust that you will still remember us at the Throne of Grace; and that you will pray especially for the conversion of Kandians, who may recommend the Gospel to their idolatrous countrymen by a holy and consistent life. I long to see the arm of the Lord made bare among this people. I long to hear them inquire how they shall obtain salvation—how they shall escape the wrath to come!

In August, he adds—

My last to you was written in a season of peculiar discouragement, as it regarded the suffering state of the inhabitants of this place. I am happy now to inform you, that it has pleased God to remove the severity of the affliction; and, in a great degree, to restore health to the people. Thanks to His Holy Name, for having safely preserved me and my family in such an alarming visitation; for though we have not altogether been left without chastisement (Mrs. Browning having had two attacks of fever, and myself one, and one of the children on our establishment having died), yet the Lord has dealt mercifully with us.

To the Meeting, in September, Mr. Browning reported—

The late awful visitation has greatly affected the state of our Schools and Congregations. I have not, for some time past, made any visits to the villages around; and, if I had, I should not probably have been able to obtain hearers: nor would it, perhaps, be prudent to venture, until the country becomes more healthy. I have lately circulated a great number of papers and ollas, on the leading doctrines of Christianity, both among the inhabitants of Kandy and among strangers from the country. In some instances, these have been received with pleasure, and the people have promised to read them: indeed a few persons have come to me to solicit books. But some, to whom I have offered them, have looked on them with great suspicion, as if they feared that I had some design upon them. Very few, comparatively, know how to read; and it is desirable to put the Word of Life into the hands of those who do. Oh that we had the Scriptures in such a style of language, as would be intelligible to ordinary readers!

The regular SERVICES at my own house and at the prison, on Sundays, are continued. In these Services, I sometimes feel a degree of pleasure, in witnessing the attention of the people to the Word preached; but, at others, I am much discouraged at the few that attend, and at their apparent indifference concerning what they hear. Many, whom I invite to come and hear me, promise to come, but do not. Before the sickness came on, I regularly went out every Sunday Morning to preach in one or other of the Schools; and also established a kind of Christian Worship in them all, by appointing the Masters to teach the children on the Sunday the Litany, instead of attending to the usual course of reading &c., to which they made no objection, and the practice is still continued. But the mortality has been very great among the children: in one School, no less than 25 died within a short time!

The SCHOOLS connected with the Station at present, are five, viz. Kandy, Embilmegama, Kurekada, Wellatte, and Pulawella; neither of which, since the sickness, has an average attendance of more than seven or eight children: the Boys' School, in Kandy, is beginning to revive. Mrs. Browning has not found any Girls willing to be instructed since our last Meeting: several who used to come were the children of Roman Catholics, but are now prevented by their parents from attending. My establishment of children in the family is reduced to two: I have made many attempts to increase their number, but have not succeeded: these two lads, though very young, make progress in their learning: two of the names sent out by the Society may be appropriated to these boys.

A School was also opened at Pollgolla, under very promising circumstances, in the Bana Maduwa, or place where the Buddhist Priests read the Bana, or Sacred Books. Here Mr. Browning was first enabled to establish Christian Worship, in a Kandian Village, on the Sabbath Day; but he was obliged, after about nine months, to discontinue this School, for want of a proper Master.

The Schools afford, as in other places, access to the adult population: but not to the extent that they do in many quarters; the people seeming afraid to appear to countenance them. Mr. Browning writes—

On inquiring of one of them the reason why his children did not attend more regularly, he said that the Priests had been persuading them not to attend; telling them that it was not good for them to hear of other religions, and that if they attended our Schools and read our books, they must hear our religion. This is almost the first instance wherein the influence of the Priests operating against us has absolutely come under my notice; but I have no doubt that it does so operate, in a great degree, and that we shall see more of it as our Schools obtain more celebrity.

Opportunities for exertion are, however, multiplying, and more Labourers are greatly needed. Major Audain, of the Sixteenth Regiment, a sincere and zealous friend of the Society, who is in command in the Kandian Provinces, urges the establishing of a Missionary at Badula, some of the Head-men having solicited that a person might be appointed to instruct their children. Mr. Mayor thus mentions another Station, where he considers that two married Missionaries might be fixed with advantage:—

Next in importance to an efficient helper being sent to Kandy, would be the establishment of a Mission at Ratnapoorah, nearly in the direct line from Galle to Kandy, and at the mid distance between them. The neighbourhood is populous. A Collector, and an Officer with a few Soldiers, reside there. There are facilities for erecting the necessary buildings. It is probable that a new road will shortly be made from Galle through Baddagame to Ratnapoorah. This Station would connect us with Kandy and Cotta: in passing from hence to Cotta, it would be but four or five miles out of the direct road to go by Ratnapoorah. The whole field is promising.

In the sickness or absence of the Chaplain of the Station, Mr. Browning has continued to do the Garrison Duty; preaching on Sundays in English, and visiting the sick in the Hospital. In Kandy, among the Natives, many difficulties are opposed to the progress of the Gospel: some are prejudiced against it by Buddhuism and others by Popery. Nearly all the professed Christians openly profane the Sabbath Day. If Mr. Browning would admit to baptism all who wish it, it would be easy to make numbers of Nominal Christians; but the conscientious strictness, with which he requires reasonable proof of adequate knowledge and a proper state of mind, soon wearies those who apply for admission to the ordinance from worldly motives. Of his proceedings on occasions of this nature, the Committee will quote an example. He writes, in reference to some Candidates for Baptism—

As my time is now fully occupied on the Sunday, I appointed them to meet me two mornings in the week. This will occupy more of my time; but, while persons are ready to receive instruction, it is a pleasure to communicate it. Happy indeed should I be, if these people truly desired instruction, or if their motive in wishing to be baptized was a pure one; but this is not the case: yet I think it my duty, while they are induced by any motive to receive religious instruction, to impart it; trusting in the Lord that He will be pleased to overrule it for their good. They are all anxious to obtain baptism immediately; but this, as I have repeatedly told them, I cannot think of administering to them, till they have made some satisfactory progress in the knowledge of Christianity. I exhorted them all earnestly to pray to God for the teaching of His Holy Spirit.

These Candidates, finding this course irksome, soon left Mr. Browning, and procured baptism at other hands. Your Committee are assured that the Society will entirely approve this course of proceeding, which is adopted in all its Missions; and will wish to see no adults admitted into the Church until they give satisfactory evidence of intelligence and sincerity.

BADDAGAME.

This Station and the vicinity have continued very healthy; while much sickness, as has been already stated, prevailed in the interior. Mr. Mayor and Mr. Ward, with their wives and increasing families, have enjoyed their usual health. An affection of Mr. Ward's chest limits his exertions in public speaking; and, in the latter part of the year, rendered a temporary cessation from labour requisite. He visited Cotta, therefore, at the time of the Annual Meeting, but did not obtain much benefit from the journey: in the beginning of November, however, he states that his health had much improved.

The Missionaries are urgent for more LABOURERS. They write in November—

There are several very promising situations within ten or twelve miles, where we wish much to have Missionaries stationed. It is of great importance to have several Missionaries within reach of one another. The effect of Missionary Labours in the Cingalese Division of the Island has been greatly lessened, by the Missionaries being so widely separated from one another. Our personal piety is much kept alive by frequent Meetings for social prayer and conversation. From what I have observed and felt myself, I would earnestly recommend there never being fewer than three Missionaries at a Station: they need not reside in the same village, but fix on eligible situations within a distance of three miles of one another. What Dr. Chalmers has written on the advantage of cultivating well a certain spot, is as applicable to the labours of a Missionary abroad, as to a Clergyman or Philanthropist at home: we must come to this, or little, with our present powers, will be effected.

In reference to the exercise of their MINISTRY, the Missionaries stated to the Annual Meeting—

In the Report of last year, we expressed the pleasure which we felt in the prospect, that, being relieved from all external engagements, we should be enabled to direct our whole attention to the concerns of our Mission. This has, happily, been the case; so that whatever circumstances we have to state in this Report are solely connected with the work of God in our immediate neighbourhood.

During that part of the year in which the people are least occupied in their agricultural pursuits, we took advantage of their comparative leisure for the purpose of visiting and preaching the Gospel to them at their houses. We had engagements, almost every evening in the week, to preach in some place or other; and, occasionally, the people attended in considerable numbers.

Our Church was opened on the 11th of March. Dr. Twisleton, our late Archdeacon, preached a very appropriate Sermon, in English, in the morning; and, in the afternoon, Br. Lambrick preached in Cingalese: nearly the whole of the European Inhabitants of Galle attended, together with the principal Native Head-men, and a large concourse of people from all parts of the District.

We immediately commenced two Services in the Church, on the Lord's Day; and one on Wednesday Afternoons, at four o'clock: we have also a Sunday-Evening Service in Br. Mayor's house. We do not say that any decided change has been wrought in the hearts of any of our hearers; yet we would hope that a few are at least feeling after the Lord, if haply they might find Him.

On occasion of opening the Church, Sir Richard Ottley, who was present, gave benefactions both in money and in communion-plate for its Services.

Mr. Ward writes, toward the close of the year—

Our time is fully taken up in preaching and teaching the things which concern the kingdom of God, chiefly to the people in immediate connexion with the Station: they require to be told the same things again and again—to have line upon line and precept upon precept. Our congregations are tolerably regular, but they are chiefly confined to our own people; which indeed, all together, including the Schools, make a pretty large congregation. The people, in general, still care for none of these things: they are wholly given up to idolatry and the world.

Their visits to the people have been pursued with assiduity and perseverance, and not seldom under very discouraging circumstances. Mr. Ward says—

This is humiliating work, in this country; and my heart often shrinks from it. Words cannot express nor the mind conceive the awful state of ignorance in which these people are: and, humanly speaking, there is no possibility of instructing them. We cannot get them, in their present state, to attend Divine Service; and it is equally impracticable for us to instruct them at their own houses. May God, in His mercy, open a way for their rescue!

On relinquishing to the Chaplain, at the end of June 1823, as stated in the last Report, the Garrison Duty at Galle, which the Missionaries had discharged for about three years, they received the thanks of Government and those also of the Inhabitants of Galle, for the readiness and zeal with which their services had been so long gratuitously rendered. The Garrison Duty having, however, again devolved on them, as stated also in the last Report, by the temporary removal of the Chaplain to Kandy, they rendered for some months, till his return, such aid as they could do consistently with the prior claim of their own immediate duties.

Some hope has been entertained respecting a Buddhist Priest, who placed himself, in the early part of last year, under the instruction of the Missionaries in order to baptism. They say of him, in their Report to the Meeting—

He has continued with us, and has conducted himself with propriety. He manifests considerable earnestness in obtaining instruction, and reads the Scriptures with diligence. He speaks with sorrow respecting his former way of life; sometimes doubting as to the possibility of being forgiven: at other times, he seems encouraged to hope in the mercy of God through Christ Jesus. He is now very solicitous to be admitted into the Church of Christ by baptism.

Mr. Ward writes of him, at the time of his admission under their instructions—

He is about 30 years of age, and is of respectable connexions. He has been wavering about his religion for three or four years; was attached to a celebrated temple at Dadalle, near Galle; and attended Br. Mayor, in Galle, to learn English; which he relinquished on Br. Mayor's leaving Galle to settle at Baddagame.

He adds, at a subsequent date—

Bartimeus has thrown off his yellow robes; and is now become, nominally at least, and I would hope sincerely, a disciple of Jesus Christ: for, though I had some reason to doubt the purity of his intentions when he first came to us, my opinion of him has since gradually changed in his favour. He has his food here; and is, therefore, enabled to attend our family prayers in Cingalese. I devote an hour to him daily, which is generally spent in reading the Word of God. In this delightful exercise, he seems sometimes like one transplanted into a new world: a new set of ideas burst in upon his mind, in the acknowledgment of one only, all-wise, all-powerful God; and of a continually superintending Providence. His perceptions of truth are, of course, at present, small: he is, in fact, like one who has been hitherto in the grossest darkness, but is now emerging to the light: he requires to be led gradually: time, however, will shew whether or not he is sincere: we shall not baptize him yet. He has much, very much, to unlearn, and very much to learn, ere he can be admitted into the Christian Church.

In November, Mr. Ward says—

Bartimeus, the late Priest, is not yet baptized. I have directed him to the most particular passages in the Acts of the Apostles on baptism, that he might know what persons the Apostles admitted. He sees the unprofitableness of the mere rite, when unaccompanied by repentance and faith in Christ.

In December, Mr. Ward states that they had seen the necessity of deferring the baptism of this Native, as he had been betrayed into a very improper spirit. He was employed as a Writer, at a small monthly salary; but the Missionaries had given him to understand, that they must have much stronger evidence of his repentance and sincerity before he could be admitted, by them, into the Church of Christ. This reserve and caution are absolutely necessary, in order to detect and repel hypocrites and interested persons.

Two other Priests of the same temple have, since Bartimeus came to Baddagame, renounced the Priesthood; but the following remarks by Mr. Ward will shew that this is no indication of favour toward Christianity.

This renunciation of the Priesthood often takes place, without at all involving a doubt as to the truth of their religion; but merely from a desire to change their mode of life. An old Priest has lately thrown off his robes in this village, who is nevertheless as rigidly attached to his superstitions as he ever was. He has spent the best part of his life in the jungle, without house or home.

This manner of life is called "Tapas-Rakinawa;" and is represented, in the Native Books, as the most meritorious, and as the only way by which the heart can be cleansed: the persons who have adopted it are constantly held up for imitation; and the followers of Buddhu are often exhorted to leave their all—to abandon father, mother, brother, sister, houses, and lands—to separate themselves from the society of men—and to dwell like the wild beasts of the forest. This, however, is not at all congenial to the minds of the Cingalese, who are, both priests and people, most excessively ambitious of the honour of this world; and hence there are but few who conform to it.

The old man above mentioned, on being asked why he had abandoned his retreat in the jungle and cast off his robes, replied, that it was impossible for old men and children to fulfil the duties of their religion. He prides himself much, however, on the course of life which he has led; for which, he says, he expects to be born again, either into the world of Gods, or into this world as a great King. He hesitates not to declare, also, that he is by far the wisest man in the country, as it respects the knowledge of religion.

I ought to have mentioned that those who observe the "Tapas-Rakinawa," denying themselves as they do the usual honours of the priesthood, are also exempt from the performance of its duties. Their clothing is not provided by the people, as is the case with the other priests; but it consists of small pieces of old cloth, which they themselves have picked up and sewn together: their food is obtained by begging from house to house. Accordingly they take no part in the Services of the Temple, nor in the office of teaching; but profess to spend their whole time in meditation.

Mr. Mayor's medical knowledge and surgical skill continue to give him influence with the people, by enabling him to confer benefits which they can duly appreciate. Of one case, the Missionaries thus speak in their Report to the Meeting:—

In the month of January, the Chief Priest of Buddhu in this Island, being blind, came hither from Kandy, to place himself under the care of Br. Mayor. A considerable number of priests accompanied him, and many more assembled from various parts of the country to meet him: we had thus an opportunity of distributing among them several copies of the New Testament, and of the Book of Genesis; and we had many discussions with them on the principal subjects of Revelation. Br. Mayor operated on the old Priest, but he has little hope now that he will recover his sight. Many prayers have been offered up to God for him: he is still, however, the slave of prejudice and superstition. They are now in the village; and their presence, together with their frequent readings of the Bana, have confirmed these poor ignorant people more than ever in the belief of their fabulous doctrines.

It is stated, in a late Letter to a friend, that the operation was attended with ultimate success; but, from the following passage of a Letter written by Mr. Ward in the beginning of November, little spiritual sight seems, at that time, to have been gained by these Heathens.

The Kandian Priests, who have been in the village these last ten months, are about to depart as they came—bigoted and prejudiced against Christ and His Holy Word. Before their departure, the people intend to load them with presents: but one man, who has been in our employ from the first establishment of the Mission in the village, on being called on by his relations to contribute his share, refused, declaring, that he would not give ANY THING—that he believed their religion to be false—and that the Christian Religion was the only true religion. The natural consequence is, that he is reproached and persecuted by them. His conduct is uniformly consistent.

The SCHOOLS were, at the last dates, seven in number: the Scholars and their average attendance are thus stated:—

Girls: Baddagame, 76; average attendance, 55.

The Baddagame Boys' School had, in the last Report, 69 Scholars. This diminution seems to have arisen from the visit of the High Priest and his attendant Priests. Mr. Ward writes, in reference to it—

Many of the boys who formerly attended our school are receiving lessons from the priests, and have signified their intention of not coming again; though they had received many favours from us: this, however, we must bear.

He adds, at a later date—

Our school has increased in the number of its attendants during the last month—partly, because the Kandian Priests are returned; and partly, because Christmas is approaching, when they expect to share in the rewards which are generally distributed at that season: some, however, it may be hoped, are come from better motives.

The Schoolmasters attend every Wednesday Evening to receive religious instruction. In reference to them Mr. Ward writes, in December—

We have lately determined to pay our Schoolmasters, not altogether according to the number of attendances, which we have for some time done; but partly according to the improvement of the Scholars during the month, which is ascertained by a monthly examination. By this means, the indolence and deceitfulness of the Masters are better detected, and obtain their proper reward; while the actual instruction of the children is more effectually secured. At this arrangement, some of the Masters, wishing to obtain their monthly stipends without doing any thing for them, are somewhat refractory, and will probably occasion their dismissal; while the more industrious and conscientious are encouraged, by receiving according to their actual endeavours.

The FOUNDATION SCHOLARS, or those which are taken into the families of the Missionaries and supported at the expense of Benefactors in this country, give good promise of supplying a better race of Teachers. There appear, at the last dates, to have been five Boys and one Girl thus circumstanced. Mr. Ward writes, in December—

Several Boys are coming on fast in their learning, who will, I trust, prove a great blessing to their benighted countrymen; a light in the midst of this gross darkness. Much of my time is taken up with them: perhaps, however, it is the best way in which I can spend my time, particularly during the day. My inclination would lead me to devote myself wholly to the preaching of the Gospel to the adults; but my constitution will not allow me to do so: preaching two or three times a week is as much as I can bear, in the general way; and if I expose myself to the sun I am speedily laid up.

The two Youths, Elias and Abraham, mentioned in the last Report, continue to give much satisfaction to the Missionaries, who have taken them on the Establishment as Native Assistants. They teach the younger Scholars, copy Tracts, and visit the distant Schools; and Elias acts as Clerk in the Church. Of these, and a few of the more advanced Scholars, Mr. Ward says—

We have abundant reason to hope for the Divine Blessing on these dear Youths; and that it will please God to raise up some of them, at least, to be witnesses of the truth among their benighted countrymen.

In the Baddagame Boys' School, eleven are learning English: of the GIRLS' SCHOOL, Mr. Mayor writes—

We are beginning to teach twelve of our most promising Girls English. We want to elevate the Female Character, and to train up Assistants in the great work of educating the rising generation.

Assistance is much wanted in this department. Mr. Ward remarks, in reference to his own family and that of Mr. Mayor, which have considerably increased—

Mrs. Mayor and Mrs. Ward have now a great and impe-rious charge upon them, in instructing their own children, many of whom are come to that age which requires much time and attention. Our earnest desire and prayer for them is, that they may grow up in the fear and love of God, and become a blessing in their day and generation; but we have many fears for them: the contagious influence of Native Example reaches even to them; and will, without continual watchfulness and care on our parts, vitiate their moral feeling and character. Hence, in this country, parental authority and a constant habit of family instruction become of infinitely greater importance, if possible, than in our own highly-favoured land.

The feelings and prospects of the Missionaries will be seen by some further extracts from their communications.

In January of last year, at the time when, though then unknown to him, the blessing of God was descending on the Missionaries in the northern part of the Island, Mr. Mayor writes—

Our prospects are somewhat brightening. We preach daily, and have an increasing number of hearers. We want only one thing—the day-spring from on high to visit us! Pray, earnestly and in faith, for us; and the Lord will surely manifest His glory in the salvation of this people. We feel, most deeply, that success in the work is wholly from Him; and to Him shall surely be all the praise, if ever these poor blind Heathens are brought out of darkness into light.

In June, Mr. Mayor gives the following view of their state, and of the superstition which opposes the progress of the Gospel.

We have encouraging appearances in some, but we cannot speak decidedly of any. Our number of hearers increases—knowledge is spreading—many are inquiring—some are doubting—a few, perhaps, are thinking about their sins, and partially amending their ways. We see more of their unrighteousness: we are enabled to unmask their character more fully, and to expose the wretched refuge of lies in which they have hitherto been trusting. We still labour in hope, and believe that truth is prevailing, though we see not, as yet, that overthrow of Satan's dominions in this land of darkness, which we assuredly expect to witness. Satan seems to tremble for the loss of his dominion. The enemies of Truth have rallied. They have erected very near us a large Bana Maduwa, where the people have assembled in hundreds and thousands to hear the Bana and make offerings. But this has turned out to the furtherance of truth—a nearer view of their customs has armed us with better arguments against them; and, by comparing their idolatries and their doctrines with the glorious truths of Revelation, many have been confounded, and some of the Priests themselves put to shame.

The Priests of Buddhu require to be honoured as Gods. The people prostrate themselves at their feet in adoration, before they will open their lips to instruct them. So highly do they exalt the virtue of paying homage or making offerings to themselves, that, were a person to murder his father and mother and children, and live in the commission of the most atrocious crimes, and pay homage to a Priest of Buddhu or make an offering in the name of Buddhu, though he repented not of any of his sins, he would, according to their Religion, be born into the world of Gods! so subversive of all morality is Buddhuism; for though lying and stealing &c. are forbidden, all may hold these truths in unrighteousness and escape all future punishment, if they fail not, before they die, to offer adoration to the Priests, or to make offerings in the name of Buddhu.

In October, he adds—

We have nothing very encouraging to relate of our people: all that I can tell you is, that our hope does not diminish, nor do our exertions slacken. We trust that the Lord will arise and glorify His name in the midst of us. We learn, by experience, that we, ourselves, needed as much preparation to qualify us to teach, as the barren wilderness around us does before the seed sown can be expected to spring up and bear fruit. I believe that I may say of all of us, that we feel as sanguine of success now, as we did when we knew less of our own insufficiency, and less of the moral difficulties that oppose the reception of the truths of the Gospel. The way of the Lord is preparing, and He will surely manifest himself to the Heathen; yea, to the poor blinded Cingalese.

On another occasion Mr. Mayor writes—

We wish very much for Books on the Evidences of Christianity: we greatly need books of this description, for circulation among our own countrymen, some of whom are awfully infatuated with Infidelity, and even dreadfully active in disseminating their opinions.

Yet many others are of a better mind. Mr. Mayor adds—

We should be glad to have more copies of the Missionary Register and of the Reports for circulation around us. Many would subscribe if they had the means of knowing what great things are doing in the world. We are, ourselves, much encouraged and animated to persevere by the example of our Brethren, of whose labours we hear through the Missionary Register. I doubt not that this publication is of essential service, in communicating a constant impulse to the whole body of Missionaries: the zeal of one provokes the zeal of all.

Mr. Lambrick, at Cotta, remarks on this subject—

The Numbers of the Missionary Register for July, August, and September, 1823, have just reached us. Our feelings have been excited; and, for myself, I can say, I have been much humbled by reading the accounts of our dear Brethren in Western Africa. Blessed be the Lord for dear Johnson and the others who have fallen victoriously fighting His battles there; and blessed will those be, whom our Great Captain shall call to fill up the thinned ranks.

Labours accompanied by that spirit of humble dependence on God which the following passage displays give the best promise of ultimate success:—

Being convinced, as we have always been (which conviction increases as we advance in our Missionary Work), that, without the influence of the Holy Ghost, there is "nothing strong, nothing holy," we have been more constant, and, we trust, more earnest in our supplications at the Throne of Grace. Besides our usual Saturday-Evening's Prayer-Meeting, we have, for some time, met together daily, to offer up our united prayers and intercessions in the Name of Jesus, that God would have mercy on this people. We have often felt it good to humble ourselves under the mighty hand of God; trusting that, in His good time, He will exalt us, and cause us to rejoice over the conversion of many of those around us.

NELLORE.

The arrival of the Rev. William Adley, appointed to assist the Rev. Joseph Knight at this Station, has been already mentioned: he and Mrs. Adley were diligently applying to the study of Tamul.

In the exercise of his MINISTRY, Mr. Knight continued Divine Service in his house, till it was found incapable of accommodating those who were desirous of attending. He, in consequence, entered on the use of the Church before it was quite finished. Nearly 300 Children and from 50 to 60 Adults assembled therein, and manifested much attention. On the other parts of the Sunday, he preached at one or more of the Schools, where some Adults attended; but, of these, he says—

I cannot perceive that any yet come for the purpose of obtaining instruction. Curiosity, the desire of gain, the hope that I shall recommend them to some Government Office or intercede for them when they have law-suits pending in the Courts of Justice, or some other worldly motive, often prompts one and another to come and hear me; and sometimes they will attend for a long time, even so long as to excite our hopes respecting them, before we are able to discover their true motive. This state of things is exceedingly discouraging: but it must be borne with; and should teach the Missionary to look more steadfastly to the Power and Promise of God, where he is in no danger of being disappointed.

To the Meeting in September, Mr. Knight made the following statement relative to his Ministry:—

In addition to my usual preaching, I have had to supply Mr. David's place for the last ten months, in preaching to his congregation of Protestant Christians—first, during a visit which he paid to Colombo; and, subsequently, during a journey to Calcutta, to obtain Episcopal Ordination, from which place he has not yet returned. The additional duties which have thus devolved on me, have proved very arduous; but, I trust, that good has, by the Divine Blessing, been done thereby. Some have been excited to attend the Means of Grace, who were before living in the neglect of them; and I have hopes of one or two persons, who appear to have been stirred up to flee from the wrath to come. These circumstances prove animating and encouraging; and much fruit, it may be hoped, will yet be gathered from that promising congregation. Mr. David's efforts among them have done much in enlightening their minds, and in preparing them for the cordial reception of Divine Truth.

My labours at Nellore have also been, as I humbly trust, in some measure owned of God. The Interpreter, and three or four others connected with the Station, meet me, once or twice a week, to inquire into the evidences of Christianity, and to converse on personal religion. They appear to be seeking the salvation of their souls; and their progress in the knowlege of the Word of God is pleasing: but I do not yet feel fully satisfied, whether their motives are sincere or not. All, except the Interpreter, were brought up Heathens: but I have reason to believe that they have relinquished their Heathen Practices; and that one or two of them have, in consequence of their new profession, subjected themselves to the ridicule of their Heathen Friends.

By the gradual diffusion of light, through the preaching of the Word and the distribution of portions of the Scriptures and of Religious Tracts (of both which we have lately had a more liberal supply at our disposal than at any former time), I trust the way is preparing for the more abundant outpouring of the Holy Spirit; and the pleasing change which has been effected within the last few months encourages me to hope that our efforts will at length be crowned with success. In due season we shall reap, if we faint not.

Of the SCHOOLS, Mr. Knight gave the following statement, in March of last year:—

Many advantages arise from paying the Masters in proportion to what is actually learnt through the month: among others, a better attendance, at least of some Schools, is secured, as well as a more constant progress in learning. Our Schools, however, are still far from what I wish them to be; and, till I can get better Masters, provide them with suitable printed books, and give more personal attention to them, I have but little hope of any great improvement in them, or of any great benefit arising from them. The children, it is true, learn to read, and commit to memory, very much of Scripture Lessons and Catechisms, which, with the Divine Blessing, may be made subservient to their everlasting benefit; but, still, they are so much under the influence of their parents, and witness so much that is evil, that our instructions seem, for the most part, lost upon them. Besides, it is not yet in our power to break the Masters off their wretched custom of teaching merely by rote, without any reference to the children's understanding what they learn. We hope the day will come when our Schools will prove a more effectual medium for the diffusion of GENERAL knowledge, but more especially for the dissemination of DIVINE truth.

The following statement exhibits the present number, and average attendance, of the Schools, as copied from the last Weekly Report.

To the Meeting, in September, Mr. Knight reported—

The attendance in the Out-Schools is, at present, greatly diminished by the gathering of the palmyra fruit, and by the scarcity which prevails in the district in consequence of the failure of the crops. I have no report of the present numbers. The attendance of Girls is still pleasing, and their progress in learning satisfactory. The Kontermadum School has been suspended for some months, for want of a proper Master; the person who taught it having relinquished his office. The present number of Schools is ten.

Of the FAMILY SCHOOLS Mr. Knight says, in March of last year—

We have, at length, entered on the plan of taking Native Children in our Family. There are with us, at present, seven. Many applications have been made for admission, but we think it better to proceed with caution. Our hopes are very high with regard to the benefits, which, by the blessing of God, may be derived from these Schools. Our American Brethren have, at length, been permitted to realize the good effects of the system, in a very remarkable degree. About 70 or 80 persons, chiefly consisting of the Youth of their Charity-Boarding-Schools, have, within the last two months, appeared to be earnestly inquiring what they must do to be saved. Our friends are hereby greatly encouraged in their work; and though many of this number may disappoint the hopes which are entertained respecting them, yet, if even half of them should persevere to the salvation of their souls, the work will be very great. We trust that the Lord will, at length, shower down the influences of His grace on us at Nellore: we feel the greater encouragement from what we have witnessed among our American Friends, to take these poor children under our more particular instruction, confident that we shall not be suffered to labour in vain.

On this subject Mr. Knight stated to the Meeting—

During the last year, we have been enabled to enter on the plan of taking Native Boys. As we take them on trial before we determine whether we shall keep them or not, we have had from time to time several, whom we afterward judged it proper to dismiss. Our number at present is thirteen; most of whom are very promising boys. We have stipulated with the parents for most of them, and have them given up entirely to our control. We should have taken more, but waited to obtain your advice. I hope, on my return, to increase their number; and to appropriate the name sent out by the Society.

Mrs. Knight says, in reference to these children—

Three or four of the elder boys seem to feel that their souls are in danger, and are pleased to receive religious instruction. Oh that all these dear boys may, in early life, become Christians indeed!

Of the FEMALE SCHOLARS Mr. Knight thus speaks:

The progress of many of them affords us much gratification; and their constancy and perseverance give us encouragement to hope, that our present labours will, ere long, yield a rich reward.

Mrs. Knight assembles the Girls of the different Schools, on Sunday afternoons, to teach them to read printed books. This has had a very good effect, having not only increased their numbers, but their progress.

We have much encouragement to proceed in this work. The success, which we have already met with, affords the strongest ground to hope, that, by the Divine Blessing, our best wishes will, at length, be fully realized; and that the degraded Females of the Jaffna District, who have been so long enslaved by ignorance and superstition, will see a brighter day.

There has been a regular increase of Girls at our Morning Service, from about the time when Mrs. Knight began her instruction on the Sunday Afternoon: the number present at our last Service was 53, a greater number than we ever had before. As this Sunday School is a new thing, it much excites the attention of the Mothers; one and another of whom often come to see us, though we have not yet been able to get them to assemble regularly with the other sex to hear the Word of God.

For the PRINTING-ESTABLISHMENT at this Station, Mr. Rhenius procured a Native acquainted with the business, who arrived at Nellore in June: he had been delayed, however, for some months, by fever, probably brought on by the fatigue of the journey from Tinnevelly.

Mr. Knight bears the following honourable testimony to the American Missionaries:—

It becomes me to speak in the highest terms of esteem and affectionate regard of our beloved American Brethren; to whom I am under great obligations—not only for the benefit which I derive from intercourse with them of a religious nature, and from their kind and friendly advice; but from the great assistance and encouragement, which, in various ways, they have afforded me since Mr. Bailey left the District. May our gracious Lord shower down His Divine Blessing abundantly upon them and their labours, and richly reward them for their great kindness!

In reference to the success, before mentioned by Mr. Knight, which has attended the Labourers in his quarter of the Island, Mr. Lambrick writes from Cotta—

We have all been much encouraged in our work, by some very promising appearances among the Natives under the charge of the American Missionaries at Jaffna. It has led us to more lively exercises of faith and prayer, that the blessing may be extended to us also in the Cingalese part of the Island. We are sowing in hope of the fulfilment of the promise Psalm cxxvi. 6.

Mr. Lambrick gives the following general view of the Mission:—

The Reports of the respective Stations, together with the Resolutions of the Meeting, will make the Committee acquainted with the existing circumstances and future prospects of this Mission. We consider ourselves as Settlers in a wild country, thickly covered with forests and jungles: our business is to bark the trees, and burn them—thus preparing the way for future cultivators: a patch here and there may indeed be cleared, and a few handfuls of seed thrown in, which, by the Divine Blessing, may produce a crop to encourage us amidst our labours; but we cannot expect to see a large harvest: that will be the privilege of those who come after us.

After pointing out the further help required at the present Stations, and at favourable openings for two New Stations, the Missionaries add—

Here, then, is open a useful field for TEN additional Missionaries; and if it should please God to put it into the hearts of His Servants to provide as many more, they will all find employment among the Heathen here*.

AUSTRALASIA MISSION.

In reporting the state of the Australasia Mission, the Committee cannot but express their gratification in the unremitted favour which Sir Thomas Brisbane has shewn, not only to the Society's proceedings and designs, but to the Native Population within the influence of His Excellency's authority. The Act of the 57th of the late King, "for the more effectual punishment of Murders and Manslaughters committed in places not within His Majesty's Dominions" and applicable to these Seas, was followed by an Act passed on the 19th of July 1823, enlarging the jurisdiction of the Colonial Courts to cases of "Treasons, Piracies, Felonies, Robberies, and other Offences." Sir Thomas Brisbane issued a Proclamation, on the 17th of May of last year, enforcing the execution of this Act. The Society has felt, from the commencement of its efforts in these Seas, greatly interested in the protection of the Natives from insult and injury, so wantonly inflicted, to the great detriment of all attempts for their good, by profligate Europeans; and, in the year 1817, presented a Memorial to His Majesty's Government on this subject*. The Committee cannot but congratulate the Society on the prospect that its object will now, under these Laws, be fully accomplished—administered, as they are, by the upright and benevolent men who direct the affairs and preside in the Courts of both New South-Wales and Van Diemen's Land. In reference to the recent Proclamation, His Excellency was pleased to state to the Committee—

I have considered it incumbent on me to issue the accompanying Proclamation, in consequence of many diabolical acts of outrage committed by British Ships in these seas; and, more particularly, on a recent occasion, at one of the Friendly Islands, by the "Rambler" Whaler, when the Master paid the forfeit of his life, otherwise he must have been tried for his life here. I have directed that this Proclamation shall be read to all crews of Vessels leaving this port with the intention of going among the Islands; and that a copy should be left with the Master, as the New Charter of Justice enables us to try individuals for crimes against these unoffending Natives: and I shall not fail to act in conformity with the Proclamation in all cases of outrage.

The interest which Colonel Arthur took in the Society's objects when he was in command in Honduras afforded an assurance to the Committee, that, in his present appointment as Lieutenant-Governor of Van Diemen's Land, he would afford every practicable assistance to its exertions in these seas. An extract of a Letter addressed by Colonel Arthur, in July last, to the Rev. Henry Williams, will be heard with much pleasure by the Members :—

A small Schooner is about to proceed from hence to New Zealand; and, as I take a lively interest in the Mission upon which you are engaged, I am happy in the opportunity of addressing you. It will afford me sincere gratification to hear that you are not labouring in vain, that your health is not impaired by your exertions, and that the Natives shew you kindness and respect; and it will also afford me very sincere gratification to render you any assistance from hence. Indeed you will oblige me by pointing out in what way I can be useful.

The difficulty of communicating with you is much to be regretted; and if you consider that any means of intercourse can be devised, I shall, as far as depends on myself, very gladly promote it.

The establishment of an Archdeaconry in the Colony, and the appointment of the present Archdeacon, the Ven. T. H. Scott, are subjects of congratulation to its friends. Having accompanied Mr. Commissioner Bigge throughout his late investigation into the state of the Colony, the Archdeacon is well acquainted with the circumstances of the Mission, and has assured your Committee that he will render it every assistance in his power. The Archdeacon well knows and highly appreciates the character of the Society's unwearied friend the Rev. Samuel Marsden, the Senior Chaplain.

The Committee have also much pleasure in stating, that Mr. Barron Field, who ably sustained for seven years the office of Chief Judge in the Civil Court of New South-Wales, and uniformly befriended the Society, having returned home, has given the Committee, by a detail of facts and circumstances, the best reason to hope, that, under the Divine Blessing, its efforts in these parts will ultimately attain their end.

NEW-ZEALAND SEMINARY IN NEW SOUTH-WALES.

Mr. Marsden was confirmed, by what he observed in his Fourth Visit to New Zealand mentioned in the last Report, in his views of the importance of a Seminary in New South-Wales for the instruction of Young Natives of New Zealand: and determined, therefore, on his return, to renew the attempt to form such an Establishment; and with the further view of providing Education therein for the European Children of the Mission, now fast increasing in number.

The Governor was so kind as to offer land near Mr. Marsden's for the intended Seminary; but, the land being bad and in want of water, Mr. Marsden states, with his accustomed disinterestedness of spirit—

I have fixed on some good land, which I purchased a few years ago, where there is plenty of water with other local advantages, within sight of my own house, and at a little distance from the town. When the Seminary is built, if it is found to answer, I will make over to the Society as many acres as may be deemed necessary: the buildings will be of free-stone; not large and expensive, but sufficient to make a trial with. If the Seminary should not answer, the buildings will be valuable, and the land will always be worth what it is now; and the Society need not pay for it until the Institution is perfectly established. I shall consider myself responsible for all expenses till approved by the Committee: when the buildings are completed, and there is a fair prospect of success, I will then leave it at their option to purchase them or not.

He thus speaks of his design—

I purpose to have the New-Zealand Youths taught shoemaking, tailoring, weaving, flax-dressing, and spinning, with gardening and farming. If the Chiefs' Sons are educated with the Children of the Missionaries, they will become attached one to another, and the work of the Mission will be much promoted thereby. I have six New Zealanders with me now, all young men of Chiefs' Families: they rejoice to see the foundation of our Institution laid.

The arrival of Mr. Richard Davis and his companions on the 7th of May has been already stated. They received a cordial welcome from the Young New Zealanders, to whom he bears * the following testimony:—

I have had some of the New Zealanders under my instruction, now for some time; and am happy to tell you, that I am much pleased with their manner of behaviour and dispositions: they learn to read and write very fast, and are very attentive to and thankful for any instruction given them. They are a very intelligent people; and seem to be capable of learning, in a short time, any of the useful and necessary arts of life: we have now here with us Nine fine Young Men and a Boy. I teach them to read, in the morning, till ten o'clock; then take them out to work till two, when they go to their dinner, and afterward I teach them to write.

Could but the friends of the Society see us surrounded by these beloved Young Men, all kneeling at our family altar, they could not but rejoice to view so fair a prospect of their soon becoming spiritual branches of Christ the Living Vine.

In September, Mr. Marsden states—

I am getting on very fast with the Seminary. I have six Youths with me at present: they improve much, and behave well: there were ten, but four have returned to New Zealand. In about a month, I shall have them in the new building, as sufficient accommodation may then be had for them and the Schoolmaster. A man who is a weaver and can instruct them in all the branches of the flax business is now living, with his wife, in the School, till the other parts of the building are completed.

Our leading men, from what they see, are fully convinced that the Mission will succeed. Several of the New Zealanders, now living with me, lately spent the evening with the Judge, and gave much satisfaction to him and other Gentlemen present.

Mr. Marsden strongly recommends that a Clergyman should be sent out to take charge of the Seminary. He suggests that such a Clergyman might occasionally visit New Zealand: and at other times, by taking his own Colonial Duty, might enable him to renew his visits to the Mission; and might act, in case of necessity, as the Society's Agent and Representative.

BAY OF ISLANDS, NEW ZEALAND.

The return of the Rev. John Butler and his family with Mr. and Mrs. Cowell was stated in the last Report. Mr. Butler's Son and Mr. and Mrs. Cowell remain in New South Wales. Mr. Butler and the rest of his family have returned to this country. The connexion of all these parties with the Society has been dissolved.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarke embarked at Port Jackson, on the 19th of March, with their child and two of the young New Zealanders, on board the Coquille, French Ship of Discovery, Captain Duperrey, and arrived on the 4th of April, having received great kindness from the Captain and his Officers. Mr. Richard Davis, with his family, except his two elder daughters, whom Mr. Marsden detained in New South-Wales till their father should be settled, sailed from Port Jackson, with Mr. Charles Davis, on the 1st of August; and arrived in New Zealand, after a rough passage, on the 13th.

The LABOURERS now in this Mission who have proceeded thither from this country are as follow: — Mr. W. Hall and Mr. John King, at Rangheehoo; Mr. James Kemp and Mr. G. Clarke, at Kiddeekiddee; Rev. H. Williams, at Pyhea; and Mr. Richard Davis and Mr. C. Davis, whose place of settlement had not been finally determined: all these are married except Mr. C. Davis. Others have been attached to the Mission from New South-Wales:—Mr. James Shepherd and his wife, at Kiddeekiddee; and Mr. W. Fairburn, and Mrs. Fairburn, at Pyhea: while Mr. W. Puckey, sen. with Mrs. Puckey, W. Puckey, jun. and W. Spikeman, render assistance in the labours of the Mission.

Meetings are held quarterly, at Kiddeekiddee, for conducting the business of the Mission, and for united prayer. Meetings are held, on the two months intervening between the Quarterly Meetings, alternately at Rangheehoo and Pyhea; on which occasions, one day is devoted to religious intercourse and prayer, and another to the study of the Native Languages. These Meetings are found highly beneficial.

A suggestion was made at Rangheehoo, that a Fund should be opened in support of Schools among the Natives, in order to give an opportunity to the Captains and Crews of vessels which frequent the Bay to contribute to the benefit of the Natives. The Meeting at Michaelmas adopted the suggestion; and the sum of 14*l.* was soon contributed.

Mr. Williams writes, in July—

In the course of a few days, the keel of a small vessel is to be laid at this Station by Mr. Marsden's desire. The stores, on their arrival here from time to time, have always been subject to considerable loss and damage from the necessity of landing them by means of small boats. The vessel which we purpose building is to be of such a size, as to be capable of removing at once, any stores that may be likely to come at one time; and being under cover of a deck, the stores will be protected from the Natives and the weather. The vessel will, besides, afford us the advantage of going outside the Bay; to visit various tribes along the coast to the River Thames or elsewhere, and also to procure potatoes and pork both for ourselves and Natives in the Schools or in our employ. The Chiefs and Natives are greatly delighted with the idea; and I consider that the vessel may be of lasting benefit to them in a temporal point of view. It will be the means of shewing them what can be done; besides opening a communication between this part of the Island and the remainder, which will never be the case by any other means: the going to the River Thames is regarded as a voyage, though the distance is not more than a hundred miles; and must remain hazardous, while the Natives possess no better means of moving than at present in their canoes.

Mr. Hall rendered assistance in this work. The vessel is of about 55 tons burden.

Rangheehoo.

Mr. Hall and Mr. King continue, alternately, to read the Morning Service and a printed Sermon; Mr. Hall reading the Afternoon Service and concluding with a Native Service, while Mr. King instructs the Natives in the villages. A building is set apart as a Chapel. Mr. King continues also to instruct the Natives of Rangheehoo and those of Kaishiki on Wednesdays.

There were 14 children in the SCHOOL, but their attendance was at times much interrupted. Mr. King, who has the care of this department, writes—

I constantly attend the School twice a day, from six o'clock in the morning to eight, and from four to six in the afternoon. I begin with prayer; then set them copies on slates, and hear their lessons and spelling; and ask them questions or teach them to repeat Lessons which I have prepared for that purpose, concerning God—the Creation—Fall of man—the Law of God—the Birth of Christ—His Death—Resurrection &c. Afterwards we sing a hymn, and close with prayer.

At Christmas he gives the following view—

Although the children do not attend so regularly as could be wished, their parents occasionally taking them away on excursions into the country, yet they are improving in knowledge; and I doubt not but that steady perseverance in well doing will, with the blessing of God, surmount every difficulty. The work is slow, but it is gaining ground.

When I contrast the difference between the behaviour of the Natives of this place during the past year with the former times, I am filled with wonder and thankfulness: formerly, they were threatening our lives, stealing, and treating us with contempt and scorn; but, in the past year, they have been peaceable and quiet, and have not robbed us as formerly. Our Chief has uniformly behaved well to us, and often attends Divine Service on the Sabbath Day.

Mr. Hall was erecting a School-House at the date of the last Despatches. He had been occupied, with his accustomed industry, not only at his own Station, but in assisting the others. Both he and Mr. King have some Natives with them at daily worship. Mr. Hall reported, on this head, at Midsummer—

I have four Natives constantly in the house under religious and other instruction: three of them are redeemed Slaves. We have others employed in cultivation. All attend with us at Family Worship, morning and evening; and it is very pleasing and interesting to hear them sing, and repeat their prayers by heart. We anticipate the time as not far distant, when they shall sing and pray with the spirit and with the understanding also.

He adds, on a subsequent occasion—

The Boys learn very fast. I have just had evening worship with our Natives. They sing hymns in their own language in a most interesting manner: they lead the tunes themselves, and I join them in the bass.

I always make it a rule, especially morning and evening, to collect the Natives together for the purpose of prayer and praise, and conveying religious instruction to them so far as I am able. Some of them hear with attention: others slight and make a jest of what they hear: we cannot, however, but see that religious impressions occupy the minds of some, and that the work of grace is gradually growing among them.

Five acres of wheat yielded, last harvest, a fair crop, sufficient for the supply of the families.

Kiddeekiddee.

Mr. Kemp's time has been occupied in receiving and issuing the stores, and other necessary work of the Settlement; with the instruction of four Boys and three Girls who live in the family. He and Mrs. Kemp were much gratified by the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Clarke in April; all having been intimately known to one another, in Norfolk, from their childhood. Mr. Clarke has charge of a School of Native Children, and he and Mr. Kemp keep an Adult Evening-School three times a week. Mr. Shepherd continued to study the language, and to travel among the Natives: at the last dates, he was proceeding to New South-Wales—partly, for the cure of an affection of his eyes; and, partly, to intimate to the Natives, some of whom had ill treated him, that the continuance of the Mission was connected with their better behaviour. On the arrival of Mr. Davis and his companions in August, he was much employed in searching for a proper situation for an Agricultural Settlement; but had not been able, when the last despatches were sent off, to fix on a spot sufficiently promising: the turbulent spirit recently manifested by the Natives at Kiddeekiddee had rendered it imprudent to proceed to any considerable distance.

The religious instruction of the Natives is pursued as the respective Settlers have opportunity. Those who are employed in the different families and in the work of the Settlement are carefully instructed. On the 19th of April of last year, a building was opened as a Chapel, the brethren attending from Rangheehoo and Pyhea: there were 12 Europeans and 12 Natives present: Mr. Williams addressed them from the Eighty-fourth Psalm.

Divine Service is held twice on Sundays in English; and the Natives are, besides, assembled twice for Native Service: they repeat some prayers, and are questioned and instructed, with singing and prayer: their attention, at times, is encouraging; but, at others, enmity and obstinate adherence to their own notions are manifested.

Mr. Shepherd has begun to make excursions among the Natives, for the purpose of instructing them in the knowledge of the Gospel: he has travelled one week in a month, from Tuesday to Saturday, from 50 to 60 miles: he finds the people respectful, and desirous to hear: they say—

Come often: if you come often, we shall learn; but, by your staying so long away, we forget what you before said.

Mr. Shepherd remarks on this subject—

The Natives, in general, pay attention to my Addresses to them, and some of them retain in their memories what they hear. I am fully persuaded of the propriety of visiting the Natives, in order to give them religious instruction; and I believe it will be the most efficient means of effecting the great object which we have in view.

He adds, on another occasion—

I believe that very little will be done toward the establishment of Schools, until the Natives have some idea of the blessings to which Schools will lead. By itinerating among the Natives, we have an opportunity of sounding in the ears of both old and young, the great advantages which they may obtain from the Schools, exhorting them to attend to the offers of mercy by Jesus Christ. By constant continuance in this work of love, we shall, through the Divine Blessing, not only fill our Schools with the Children, but the Old may be made wise unto Salvation, through faith in Christ Jesus.

Mr. Kemp confirms these views: he writes—

We have, in travelling, a better opportunity of extending our usefulness: the Natives always attend more to what is said when we visit them, than they do when they are at our Settlement.

Soon after Mr. Marsden left New Zealand, a School was opened here, on the 1st of December 1823, with ten children, to be clothed and fed at the Society's expense: some of the parents, however, soon grew discontented at the separation of their children from them, and took them home again. On Mr. Clarke's arrival, Mr. Kemp had but three boys under instruction: in order to enlarge their number, they visited Wyemattee and Tiami, where the great body of people who frequent Kiddeekiddee live: the parents manifested much indifference, and considered that it would be conferring a great favour on the Settlers to commit their children to them: one of them came afterward, and even demanded payment for his son's being allowed to attend. Mr. Clarke observes—

If, however, children can be collected together at Kiddeekiddee, the Schoolmaster will possess great advantages THERE, which he could not possess in native villages. Children at Kiddeekiddee will be separated from their parents, and consequently from their evil habits: they will see and taste more of the advantages of civilized life; and the Master will have more control over them, than he could have in living so near their parents. But if children cannot be collected at Kiddeekiddee, it would be desirable to go among them into the villages.

Some of the parents had promised to send their children, but, on opening the School on the 10th of June, only one came: in a little time, however, more were collected, and nine boys and three girls were under instruction, most of them living in the family, and seven of the boys are sons of chiefs: one of these, a clever boy, is the youngest son of Shunghee, and is named Port Jackson. At Michaelmas, Mr. Clarke reported that eight boys, three girls, and two adults had been supported at the Society's expense.

The Evening School for Adults had been opened on the 12th of May, with seven Natives, who afterward increased to twelve and fifteen. Mr. Clarke states—

All who wish may come, so that old and young have the means of instruction afforded them; and it is pleasing to see what pains some of them take. These meetings are always attended with religious instruction. We begin by singing a hymn and praying in the Native Language, and afterward catechize and speak to them as well as we can, on the great love of our God to sinners; and endeavour to lead their minds to that Saviour, whose blood cleanseth from all sin. We find it very difficult, at times, to call their attention to what is said; but we must wait with patience, and look for the fulfilment of that promise—We shall reap if we faint not.

Cultivation has been carried on with success, and the cattle continue to increase. Mr. Kemp writes, in July—

We have about 30 head of cattle, which we keep together in one herd: several head have left the herd, and are running wild. The Natives have not hitherto molested the herd; but many Chiefs have requested to have a male and female, which I think we should do well to let them have, in order that they might soon stock the Island, which would be a great blessing to the country.

In December, he writes—

We have great cause to be thankful to our Heavenly Father for His mercies in this Heathen Land. Mrs. Kemp and our three little children all enjoy very good health. May you be enabled to persevere in the work which God has given you to do! Though you have many trials and difficulties to contend with, yet the work is the Lord's, and must prosper; and I hope that you will have to hear, ere long, glad tidings from this country.

Pyhea.

The formation of this Settlement was stated in the last Report. It is situated in a valley which the Missionaries have named, out of respect to the great friend of the Mission, MARSDEN VALE. The Rev. Henry Williams and Mrs. Williams, with Mr. and Mrs. Fairburn, have here continued their assiduous efforts, amidst many difficulties, to benefit the Heathen around them.

Divine Service is held, morning and evening, in English; and, in other parts of the day, there are three Native Services, that is, singing, prayer, and conversation. The Natives connected with the Settlement, and resident in the families, were, at the last dates, twelve or thirteen—men, boys, and girls: they conduct themselves well, and attend Family Worship twice daily: they repeat prayers, and sing very well.

Of their labours among the Natives, and the effect of them, Mr. Williams thus speaks—

We frequently hold conversations with them on the natural depravity of man, and the only way of Salvation. They sometimes appear to pay great attention, and will ask very pertinent questions; but frequently will suddenly change to some absurd subject.

Their observance of the Sabbath is, for them, very great: they know when it arrives as well as we do; and distinguish the day by wearing their European clothes, and abstaining from work: our Settlement, on that day, is perfectly quiet: the Head Chief, with his wife and many others, generally attends our Services, and frequently Family-Prayer.

Some of their superstitious notions are, I hope, giving way; such as their taboos on a sick person, as we will not attend them while in that state: in two or three instances, also, they have been defeated in their supposed power of witchcraft, which they universally believe some to be possessed of. I have not however, yet seen, during illness, or at any other time, any apparent concern for their eternal state: they assent, generally, to what we say; but resort to their old superstitious ideas.

Though, at times, we feel much tried by their insolent conduct and thefts, we are enabled to look forward to better days, even to that period when this people shall know the Lord and praise Him, from the least even to the greatest. At present it is truly the case, that darkness covers the land, and gross darkness the people. Appearances are, however, far more promising than they were; and though there is not, as yet, any spiritual concern among the Natives, yet their reception of us and our message is as pleasing as we could expect under such circumstances.

I stand greatly in need of assistance; for I cannot move at present off the Settlement without fear of something going wrong, and when we shall be able to collect children it will be still more difficult: yet I would rather be subject to every inconvenience than that any one should join me who does not possess a meek and quiet spirit. A trivial matter may check the progress of the best constructed machine, and it must be acknowledged that the works of this machine are formed of most brittle metal. We make some progress in the language: the children will speak it as Natives.

Of a Sunday in July Mr. Williams writes—

Our visit to the Natives was much as usual—a total deadness and unconcern to their state, and to the offers held out to them. They believe that there is a great difference between our God and the God of the New Zealanders; but they content themselves with considering it very well for us to observe the orders of our God, and for themselves to remain under the jurisdiction of their own. While viewing some of the Chiefs wrapped in their mats, reclining with the utmost indifference on the ground, I could not but feel how little control one man has over the heart of another. It is the Spirit that quickeneth. I hope that we may all feel the great need of this quickening influence, both here and in England.

At the last dates, in December, he adds—

Our intercourse with the Natives is generally pleasing. At one Settlement which we visit on Sundays, we are welcomed in a most gracious manner; and the Old Chief has always a red flag flying on that day, to give notice to all around that it is a day of rest. At this place, from thirty to seventy Natives generally attend.

A regular School had not been begun. Several Chiefs wished to send their sons; and some girls, daughters of Chiefs, were anxious to be taught, and the Settlement is surrounded with children: but further assistance was requisite. Mrs. Williams, with her own family of little children, and troubled by the want of steadiness and cleanliness in the Native Girls who assist her, is still active and happy: Mr. Williams says of her—

She is perfectly well, and has much to occupy her attention; and, though she is frequently tired in her work, she is not weary of her labour.

Speaking, in July, of the few preceding months, Mr. Williams says—

We have been in perfect health, tolerably in peace, and with alternate ebb and flow of spirits: there has been much to weary and perplex both mind and body, and to call forth our utmost faith and self-examination.

Your Letters of May 1823, with others from relatives and friends, arrived opportunely. On the assembling of the Brethren at this Station to the Monthly Prayer-Meeting on the First Monday in March, we stood much in need of a word of exhortation; for, in this barren wilderness, where all is desolation, though we feel it our duty to stand our ground, the remembrance of England will involuntarily pass through the mind: the idea, under these circumstances, that you are not unmindful of us, is exceedingly animating. You will perhaps say, "If this indeed be true, how much more so ought the belief in the sacred promise of the Great Head of the Church, that He will not only think of us, but be present with us, even to the end of time!" This thought, I trust, dwells with us: nevertheless, if it were but a few words, I would intreat you to be very frequent in your communications with us. The spirit indeed may be willing, but the flesh is weak.

On a general view of the Mission,* it may be remarked, in reference to the Natives, that, with the exception of those at Rangheehoo, and of some others elsewhere, their behaviour has been generally less peaceable and friendly than in former years. The conduct of a few near the Settlements, and particularly of parties who have come from a distance, has been turbulent and offensive. It ought, however, to be considered, that their violent conduct has usually been connected with their notions of retaliation for some imagined injury or insult. This law of retaliation perpetually harrasses the Natives. Mr. Clarke stated at Michaelmas, in reference to four of his Scholars—

They were regular in their attendance till their parents became apprehensive of their safety at Kiddeekiddee: having committed depredations on the property of a neighbouring tribe, they feared that the injured tribe would fall on their children as a satisfaction, and therefore took them home.

The constant resort of shipping to the Bay leads to consequences not a little injurious. At the close of the year, there were perhaps twenty men, who had left their ships, and were living on plunder: and, within the year, not less, it is supposed, than a hundred men had thus fixed themselves among the Natives; the Captains of other vessels not hesitating to employ them, when they want men.

In the present state of the Natives, great firmness is required on the part of the Missionaries. After Mr. Marsden left New Zealand on his Fourth Visit, a scheme was formed among the Natives to put Mr. Kendall into possession of the house which had been occupied by Mr. Butler, and in which Mr. Shepherd had succeeded him: the Missionaries behaved with decision on this trying occasion; and gave the Natives to understand, that, if the Society's property were wrested from them by violence, such a step would probably lead to the withdrawing of the Mission: this seems to have had the desired effect on their minds. It has been already stated that Mr. Shepherd's visit to New South-Wales was, in part, intended to express the displeasure of the Settlers at the violence which had been manifested toward him. At Pyhea, also, on a very recent occasion, such serious depredations were violently committed on the Society's property, in retaliation of an improper expression used to a Chief by a workman then employed at the Station, that the Settlers, who met on the subject, thought it requisite to refuse to accommodate the matter till restitution and satisfaction had been made by the Natives.

The warlike spirit is still cherished, to the great injury of the people and of the attempts to benefit them. Their eagerness for muskets and powder, which they cannot obtain of the Settlers while they can procure them from other quarters, leads them to undervalue their best friends, and increasingly to depreciate those articles of exchange which are not available for the purposes of war. And this spirit is injurious to themselves; for, wherever the Missionaries go among them, it is observable that those who abstain from war live in comparative comfort, while those who make a practice of accompanying the war-expeditions live in penury and wretchedness. Mr. Kemp wrote, in July—

A great part of their time is taken up in making plans for overcoming their enemies; and thus they bring, on themselves and their country, poverty and distress. Many families about us are now in want of food, because the men have been out fighting for the last eighteen months, and have neglected to provide for themselves and their families. Their being in this state will, I fear, lead them out again to plunder, in order that they may not starve.

It has often struck me with astonishment, that they have not come upon us, when they have been starving, and taken away all the food which we had. We may truly say, it was because the Lord was on our side, and restrained them from doing us harm.

Mr. Richard Davis bears the following testimony to the Natives—

I have visited Shukeangha and other Districts, and have been much gratified by the reception which I have met with among the Natives. They are certainly a very interesting people. Mr. Marsden has said much in their favour, and he has not said too much. I was greatly pleased with those New Zealanders whom I saw at Parramatta; and received much encouragement from their behaviour: and, I bless God, my opinion of the people is not changed by my coming among them. It is true, we have many things to try us, in their conduct toward us at times; and there are among them, as in our country, some wicked, teazing, and thievish people: but they are better, on the whole, in every respect, than we expected to find them.

The state of the Natives, under the redeeming circumstances which have been mentioned, does not deter the Missionaries from contemplating the formation, when additional Labourers can be obtained, of other Settlements among them. Mr. Shepherd writes—

I have been much pleased, since it was determined that I should leave, with the earnest requests of some Chiefs from Wyecoto, for me to go and live with them; and if the Rev. Mr. Marsden should think it right, and other persons can be found to join me, I shall feel happy in endeavouring to form another Station to the southward or eastward. I am persuaded that the Natives to the eastward are in an anxious state for Europeans, and we should be as safe among them as we are here. The population of the Bay of Islands is, I think, not more than 3000: at Kiperro I think there are nearly 4000, at the River Thames 4000, at Wyecoto 5000, and at Mercury Bay 4000. The population of Shukeangha is, I believe, greater than that of the Bay of Islands. The Missionaries would be safe, I believe, in either of these places.

Shunghee, though avowedly hostile to Christianity, is generally on friendly terms with the Missionaries; and will frequently stand up in their defence when other Natives become troublesome. A house was building for his use, 30 feet by 12, and was nearly finished: he was much pleased with this service. Yet he was subject to fitful moods. On occasion of an inquiry by the Missionaries into the particulars of the violence shewn to Mr. Shepherd by some Natives at Kiddeekiddee, it is stated—

Shunghee was told, that, in consequence of this ill behaviour, no more Missionaries could be permitted, at present, to come to the place; and that Mr. Davis would not think it prudent to go so far inland, as had been proposed. Shunghee appeared quite indifferent about it, and said, "You may either go or stay."

The difficulties attending the support of Schools under the circumstances of this Mission are very great. Food must be provided, at the Society's expense, for all the scholars; as the Natives will render, in this respect, little or no aid: and this can only be done by more enlarged cultivation; or by regular supplies, at a high rate, from New South-Wales. The want of suitable land is a hindrance to enlarged cultivation; Mr. Davis having found but little in the Bay of Islands which he deems worth cultivating. When the state of the Natives, therefore, will allow it, productive cultivation must be prosecuted in some other quarters. Many of the Natives are disinclined to the culture of wheat, and prefer their own mode of living because it requires less labour; but various Chiefs, in different parts of the island, have promised to clear their lands, and Mr. Davis has engaged to lend them tools and to supply them with seed. Cultivation has, in fact, been on the increase in all places; but the continual arrival of vessels in the Bay renders it impossible to calculate, until greatly enlarged, on a certain supply, from this source, for the purposes of the Mission and Schools.

Harmonious intercourse among the Labourers of different Societies, while each body keeps to its own proper duty, is to be sedulously cultivated and thankfully acknowledged. Mr. Williams writes, in July—

Our intercourse with the Wesleyan Missionaries at Whangarooah has been very pleasing. I have been once to see them, and felt highly gratified. Their Station is a very important one, and they go on well. They are always ready to render us any service, which lately they have had greatly in their power.

Mr. Marsden's hopes in reference to this Mission continue unshaken. He writes—

I observed, with much pleasure, that the Natives, in every place, were much improved in their appearance and manners, since I last visited them; and that, notwithstanding the misconduct of some of the Europeans, the work was gradually going on, and the way preparing for the blessings of the Gospel to be imparted to this people.

The following extract of a Letter from Sir Thomas Brisbane to the Secretary will shew that His Excellency concurs with Mr. Marsden in his view of the improvement of the character of the Natives:—

The circumstances attending the loss of the Cossack and the Brampton afford just ground of triumph to the Society, in reflecting that its labours have been so well rewarded. Its intercourse with these savages has so far operated on their furious habits, that the crews of these vessels, in place of being inhumanly butchered and devoured, were, in both instances, treated with commiseration and hospitality. It would be exacting more from them than from their more-civilized neighbours, the Europeans, to expect that their spiritual improvement would be the first to develope itself. I may be permitted, I trust, to congratulate the Society on Mr. Marsden's favourable report of his late visit; and to add, that it will at all times afford me the sincerest gratification to promote the views of the Society.

In a subsequent communication, the Governor was pleased to add—

I have already expressed my favourable opinion in regard to the progress of the Mission in New Zealand; and I am happy to say, that length of time tends only to fortify me more strongly in this sentiment.

It is highly encouraging to the Committee to believe that the true spirit of Christian Missionaries prevails among the Labourers now engaged in this Mission. While diligently striving, in every practicable way, to promote the civilization as well as the conversion of this people, their dependence is placed on the promises and blessing of God. The following extracts from the communications of different persons speak forcibly on this subject.

—It is by looking in faith to the fulfilment of the great Promises of the Word of God, that we are enabled to go on in the midst of many troubles: fears often cross our minds, while we are pursuing our glorious work; but these Promises support us. May God enable us to be more diligent in striving to make known His blessed Word, which alone can bring these deluded Heathens from darkness to light and from the power of Satan unto God. The Gospel only can subdue their warlike spirit, and turn the lion into a lamb. Oh that many may come out to us in the spirit of the Apostle, determined not to know any thing among them, save Jesus Christ, and Him crucified!

—The Natives will attend to the Gospel, when it is carried home to them, and preached to them in their villages and huts. Better days are, I trust, near at hand for New Zealand; for if the Missionaries attend diligently to the attainment of the language and the preaching of the Gospel, you will soon see your wishes and desires accomplished. It is true, the superstitions of these Heathens are deeply rooted, but they cannot stand against the preaching of that Gospel which is the power of God unto salvation.

—The Schools in New Zealand are, I think, in a prosperous state: some of the children can read and write. I think it will be impracticable to keep many scholars, for various reasons: however, some will attend and learn; and we hope, that, ere long, it will please God to open the eyes of the New Zealanders to discern divine things, and then we shall have full Schools and full Churches. At present, it is our duty to pray and strive, till God commands His blessing; and we doubt not but that He, who hath called us into this field, will bless our endeavours, and crown them with abundant success.

—We feel thankful to you for your remembrance of us before the Throne of Grace. We require continual support from above; for, though engaged in a sacred work, yet it is a warfare: we are in the Enemy's dominions—a pestilential air around us, with a gloom of superstitious darkness on every side.

Here and there, a ray of light breaks through this gloom. No case, indeed, of decisive conversion has yet rewarded in New Zealand the labours of the Missionaries: the deaths of Mowhee in England and of Mayree at sea were under circumstances, which give ground to consider them as the first-fruits of New Zealand unto God; and one or two cases occurred last year in the island, which may at least serve to encourage those who are perseveringly seeking the present and eternal welfare of this people.

The name of Tooi is well known to the Members of the Society. On his return from this country to New Zealand, he resumed, with his companion Teeterree, the native dress and manners, and joined in the war-expeditions. He seems, however, to have done this with much reluctance; and to have maintained throughout a grateful remembrance of his friends in England, and to have manifested in various respects great superiority to his countrymen. He became, at length, so distressed by the continual wars in which he could scarcely avoid engaging, that he seems to have seriously contemplated retiring from his country. The death of his brother Korrokorro placed him at the head of their tribe, consisting, as he stated, of about 500 men: they occupied the District of Parroa, in the Bay of Islands, near Cape Brett. Captain Lock, of the Mary, then lying in the Bay, heard that Tooi was very ill on shore, and had no support but fern-root and water. His tribe had suffered greatly from plundering parties from all quarters of the Bay. Captain Lock sent his boat for him, that he might have medical assistance and proper food. But it was too late: Tooi died on board, on the 17th of October. One slave was killed by his tribe, to avert his death; and four more were sacrificed to appease his manes! Mr Clarke's account of his interview with Tooi, on his arrival in April in the Coquille, will be heard with much interest:—

Among the number that thronged on board the ship, was Thomas Tooi. Having seen him in England, I had now much conversation with him. He wanted to know if a Missionary was to be sent to him; and told me, in a mournful tone, that one had long since been promised to him—that his brother was dead, and he at the head of the tribe—but that he feared he should have no Missionary till it would be too late—he might soon die, and then what good in sending Missionaries to him! "Poor Thomas!" thought I, "your observation is too just. Oh that every one who names the Name of Christ thought thus, that they might redouble their exertions to save these wretched Heathens ere it be too late!—they will soon be too late!"

I had much conversation with Tooi on religious subjects; and found that the impressions made on his mind during his residence in England were not wholly worne off. There still seems some concern for his soul; and, were a Missionary placed under him, I think that both the Missionary and his message would meet with a favourable reception—far more so than amongst many other tribes who have Missionaries. He is certainly superior to many of the New Zealanders, and bears but few marks of the Savage. He is remarkably gentle. His conduct was admired by Captain Duperrey and another Gentleman on board, who invited him to dine with them.

Tooi's eyes sparkled at the sound of the names of Mortimer, Pratt, and Bickersteth; and when I told him that they were still his praying friends, he would hang down his head, seemingly ashamed of his present condition, and in conscious unworthiness of an interest in their prayers. May the Lord bring back this poor wandering sheep to His fold!

A still more hopeful case is thus described by Mr. Clarke, under date of the 30th of September:—

About three o'clock this morning died a Native, who had lived with me three months in Port Jackson, and also from my first arrival in this country. His name was Wattoo. For a New Zealander, Wattoo was of a mild disposition, and very much attached to the Europeans. He returned from Port Jackson to New Zealand with Mr. Williams; but Mr. Williams not settling among his tribe, he could not live with him: so that Wattoo was out of a situation, till I came down; when he took up his residence with me. He had lived with me about two months, when he sprained his knee by a fall: he was before lame, but this sprain quite disabled him. I continued to bathe and poultice the part which was affected; but to no purpose: the whole leg and thigh continued to waste till they became mere skeletons: he sunk into a consumption, which terminated his mortal existence. During the whole of his affliction, he was entirely forsaken of his friends; and would have been starved, had I not taken him under my care.

There were several things pleasing in the character of Wattoo. He was but a poor Savage; but I never knew him to steal the smallest article from me. During his affliction, he seemed concerned about his soul. He told me that he often heard Mr. Marsden talk about Jesus Christ, but could not understand him. He was desirous of being instructed in those things which make for man's everlasting peace; and listened with attention to what was said to him. He wished Mr. Shepherd to visit him, that he might converse and pray with him, which Mr. Shepherd did, and also Mr. Kemp; and Mrs. Clarke and myself have heard him praying for himself. His views respecting himself as a sinner, and of the Gospel plan of salvation, were dark; but, let it be remembered, his means of information on the subject were very limited, and it was not till near the close of life that he seemed to feel the need of a Saviour. It was encouraging to me to hear a New Zealander crying, What must I do to be saved? because I am sure, that if it arose from a sense of being a sinner, it was not Nature's cry, but was that work begun by the Spirit of God which would end in eternal salvation. May we not hope, then, in the spirit of charity, that poor Wattoo was a brand plucked from the burning, and a part of the first-fruits which shew that at no distant period we may expect an abundant harvest of souls?

We made a deal coffin for his remains, and interred them at the back of our little Chapel, to await the sound of the Archangel's trumpet, when all that are in their graves shall hear and come forth, to give in their account. May the thought of the impressions made on the mind of poor Wattoo, encourage us to be steadfast, unmoveable, always abounding in the work of the Lord!

WEST-INDIES MISSION.

The appointment of Bishops and Clergy to the West-India Colonies was noticed generally in the last Report. These Colonies have been formed into two Dioceses, that of Jamaica and that of Barbadoes. Dr. Christopher Lipscombe has been appointed Bishop of Jamaica; and the Rev. Mr. Pope Archdeacon: Dr. William Hart Coleridge is

Bishop of Barbadoes; and the Rev. Mr. Parry is Archdeacon. This measure, connected with the increasing support and exertions of the "Society for the Conversion and Religious Instruction of the Negro Slaves," awakens lively hopes on behalf of the population of the West-India Colonies. Your Committee earnestly pray that the Divine Blessing may rest on the labours of all who engage in the instruction and religious care of a portion of the British Community, which prefers, of all others, the most urgent claim to attention.

The following Table has been compiled from the Returns, on the 31st of December, of the various Schools in the Island of ANTIGUA which are supported by the Society.

Of these fifteen Schools, the ten from Cook's to Galley Bay inclusive are connected with ten Estates, bearing the respective names, in the neighbourhood of St. John's: those at Date Hill, Byam's, Millar's, Winthorp's, and Galley Bay have been opened since the last Report. Hope School, in the Division of Willoughby Bay and Parish of St. Philip, receives children from seventeen Estates in the vicinity—Cedar Grove, in the Division of Pope's Head and Parish of St. John, from eleven—Bethesda, in the Division of Willoughby Bay and Parish of St. Paul, from nine—Sion Hill, in Belfast Division and Parish of St. Philip, from ten—Old Road, near Grace Bay, from six Estates. Besides these Sixty-three Estates, several others send a few children to one or other of the neighbouring Schools.

All these Schools are Sunday Schools; but instruction is given on working-days also, as there is opportunity. All the Schools continue under vigilant inspection: their general progress is very encouraging, but some considerably excel others.

The religious instruction conveyed in these Schools appears to have been made to many a real blessing, and the most grateful feelings are cherished in the minds of such persons toward their friends and benefactors. Mrs. Thwaites, who is on a footing of the most affectionate intimacy with the pious Slaves, writes—

The prayers of the converted Negroes are peculiarly striking and affecting. The Schools are never forgotten: they express their gratitude to God that they were instituted; as, by that means, the poorest Slaves may be taught to read God's Word, without money and without price; and trained up in the way in which they should go. Earnest prayers are offered up for the success of the Schools, and for the Teachers; and particularly that the Young People, who fear God, may be kept from evil, and may adorn the Gospel. They pray fervently, also, for their kind friends in England, who, they say, have never seen them, yet have loved them so much as to provide all things necessary for their instruction.

No regular Reports have been received of the Schools in Barbadoes, Dominica, and St. Vincent's: that at St. Vincent's had been reduced to 17 scholars, NORTH-WEST AMERICA MISSION.

The arrival of the Rev. David T. Jones at the Red-River Settlement, in October 1823, was stated in the last Report. The Rev. John West not returning to America, Mr. W. Cockran, as before mentioned under the head of Missionaries and Students, having been appointed to this Mission, has been admitted to Deacons' Orders; and will sail, with Mrs. Cockran, when he shall have obtained Priests' Orders. Mr. and Mrs. Harbidge have continued in charge of the Schools: but Samuel West, employed on the Farm, is not now in the service of the Society.

Mr. Jones entered, immediately on his arrival, on the sphere of labour occupied by his predecessor: and has met with countenance and support therein, from Governor Simpson, of York Factory; from Governor Pelly, of Fort Douglas, at the Red-River Settlement; and from the respective Councils. Mr. Jones had himself a seat in the Council at Fort Douglas; but resigned it, on feeling that its duties interfered with his proper work as a Missionary.

In the exercise of his MINISTRY, Mr. Jones has had much encouragement. He was gratified to find, on his arrival, that several persons had been accustomed, from the time of Mr. West's departure, to meet weekly, for the purpose of social prayer. In June, he gives the following view of the progress of religion:—

The Church has been crowded all the Winter by Europeans, Half-breed Natives, and Native Indians, many of whom I have had the consoling sight of seeing in tears at the love of Jesus being unfolded to them. Two Half-breeds, have, I trust, been added to the number of those that shall be saved. The influence of religion has, last Winter, shewn itself at the hunting grounds in the plains—in the observation of the Sabbath by many who had been accustomed to pay no regard to it; and who, I was glad to hear, endured with patience the scoffs and ridicule of their less-thoughtful countrymen. I could particularize many very pleasing instances of what I hope is the beginning of the work of grace; but I am yet able only to rejoice with trembling, and therefore forbear. I may, however, add, that I feel confident, that that tree of life is now striking root at this place, which will eventually drop its fruits over this immense continent, and whose leaves will be for the healing of the bewildered Indian.

On another occasion Mr. Jones writes—

It is truly gratifying to my soul, on the Sunday Morning, to look out of my windows, and see the people coming in groups, as far as the eye can reach; and my pleasure is doubly heightened, when I perceive them as they pass, to be principally Half-Breed Natives and Indians. I am ready to cry, from the impulse of congenial feeling with the Psalmist, I was glad when they said unto me, Let us go into the House of the Lord—Whither the tribes go up, the tribes of the Lord, unto the testimony of Israel, to give thanks unto the Name of the Lord.

The increased attention to religion among the Settlers has rendered a second Church necessary. On this subject Mr. Jones thus speaks :—

For several Sundays past, the Church has been much too small to contain the people; and it becomes an object of consideration what step should be taken to remedy the evil. The enlargement of the present building might easily be accomplished; but this would be but an inadequate relief, as there are numbers of people, between this place and Lake Winipeg, who never attend Church: their hearts not being under the powerful influence of religion, their distance from Church affords them a plausible pretext for their absence; and even should some of the men make an effort at times to come, their families, which are chiefly Indian, are still entirely destitute of the means of grace.

A few days ago, I mentioned to some of the principal Settlers how desirable it would be to have a Place for Worship at a convenient distance from these people; and was glad to find that the eligibility of the measure was immediately acknowledged, and likewise its practicability if unanimity prevail among the Colonists.

When this was communicated to the Governor, he drew up, with his usual readiness to promote the interests of religion, a statement of the proposition, and sent it round the Settlement for subscriptions; and I am now encouraged to think that we shall see a second roof pointing to heaven in this moral wilderness, soon having under it an altar to the God of Israel.

In July, Mr. Jones adds—

Our Church is going on: and I hope will be so far finished before Winter sets in, as to admit of Public Worship. The Settlers have subscribed liberally, considering their means, as we have already enough to put up the shell of the building. This Church cannot be said to be connected with the MISSION, but has a strong collateral influence on its concerns, as the most part of the Settlers in that vicinity have INDIAN FAMILIES, who cannot attend Worship at the present Church, and they are as much bereft of the means of religious instruction as when in their native forests. When the building is completed, I purpose to establish Worship for the more immediate benefit of this interesting but long-neglected and injured class of fellow-beings.

At the end of August he writes—

Every thing wears a promising aspect. My hands are quite full; and it would be unwise in me to endeavour to extend the sphere of my labours, while it would lead, inevitably, to the neglect of the small vineyard which is under my care. In a wilderness, a newly cultivated spot is quickly overrun with weeds, if left to itself; which, by constant watchfulness, promises a rich harvest.

In August, Governor Simpson was about to visit the country west of the Rocky Mountains, and thus writes to Mr. Jones from York Factory—

Our Council are most anxious to meet the views of the Church Missionary Society; and if you will only give us the hint in what respect we may further their wishes, you shall have the benefit of our best assistance. We shall be enabled to send you a few Native Children this season; and, in the Spring, they will be with you from all parts of the country.

Mr. West was very anxious to get Missionaries established among the Indians, who live in valleys on the other side of the Rocky Mountains. I shall turn my attention to that subject, in the course of my journey; and, on my return, let you know the result.

Mr. Jones hopes much from the future assistance of the Half-breed Youths in propagating the Gospel among the tribes of Indians which roam over these immense regions. It is with much thankfulness that he witnesses such favourable appearances in this class. He thus speaks of them:—

I look upon this as presenting by far the most promising and important part of my charge. The Half-breeds are the uniting medium between us and the Indians: they speak their language, and are accustomed to their modes and habits of life; and I trust I may add, that they are, taken collectively, a very promising part of our community: they have been very regular and attentive to instruction, during the whole of the time that I have been among them; and I have the happiness to see that some of them manifest a concern for their eternal interests.

A number of these Half-breeds attend the Sunday School held in the afternoon: of the eagerness of some of these Youths, who attend from a distance, to avail themselves of every opportunity of instruction, Mr. Jones gives the following instance:—

After School in the evening, three Young Men came to my house, and said that they should like to be present at the catechizing of the Indian School and Family Worship on the Sunday Evening; as they wished, to use their own expression, "to make the most of it, as they had to come the distance of ten miles." I, of course, encouraged them in their resolution; and, at the same time, pressed upon them their obligation of being at home on the Monday Morning, in time for their labour in the service of their employers.

The Indian Children manifest a susceptibility of religious feeling which is very encouraging. Mr. Jones writes, in reference to one of his Sunday-Evening Catechizings—

The Indian Boys come, as usual, in the evening, to my house, to say their catechisms and to sing; and it is, indeed, the most pleasing part of the Sabbath to me, to join them in this simple Service, and to hear them singing the praises of the Only True God. This evening, I was more than usually interested, as it was the first time that I witnessed them shedding tears. In giving out to them the 236th Hymn of the "Sunday-Scholar's Companion"—"Lord, while little Heathens bend," it was natural that I should be led to tell them of the cruelties practised in the East, which are alluded to in that Hymn: they were all much affected; and one of them, an Ossiniboia Indian, asked, "SIR! IS NO SCHOOLMASTER THERE, TO TELL THEM NOT?" I told them that many were gone from home to tell of Jesus Christ; as I had done, to come to them: they looked at one another with smiles, which indicated their inward approbation.

The number under instruction in the SCHOOLS was, on Mr. Jones's arrival, between 70 and 80: in October, it had greatly increased. Twelve Indian Boys and two Girls, with a few Half-breeds and Children of Settlers, were taught in the Daily School: they received instruction also in the Sunday School, with the addition of others which carried the whole number of Sunday Scholars to 169, as follows:—Scottish Settlers: 20 men, 9 boys, and 3 girls—Half-breeds: 69 men and boys, and 54 girls:—Indians: 12 boys and 2 girls. The average attendance in the Sunday School for the year was 102. Mr. Jones writes—

The difference between the nominal number and the average attendance was occasioned by the scattered state of the Settlement, the severity of the winter, and the young men being employed in the Spring as "voyageurs" to York Fort.

The Sunday School is divided into eight classes:

of the first, Mr. Jones takes charge; and, in the care of the remainder, is assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Harbidge, two retired Officers of the Company, a Settler, and a Half-breed Communicant. Of the Indian Children in the Day School he writes—

The progress which these children have made, and are making, is highly encouraging. I trust I can say that no pains are spared to sow in their minds the seed of eternal life. The two elder speak and read English quite fluently: but they must have a grammatical knowledge of some language, before they can be of much service in fixing their own, which is Cree; and, to this point, I purpose devoting my attention this winter. I am looking forward with pleasure to the time when their number shall be increased, which I trust will be the case next Spring, as I am assured, by promise and by pledge, of assistance.

These Youths are beginning to be serviceable on the Farm. Mr. Jones writes in July—

I shall have to buy two oxen and some implements of husbandry; and I am confident that the establishment will soon be made to support itself in a great measure. The boys are bending to the hoe as fast as may be expected; but moderation must be used, in this particular: their spirits must not be broken; and their labour must, for some time, be partly their own voluntary contribution. I have had them this week working at the hay, and I am astonished at the rate in which they are getting on.

The readiness of those who are in authority to promote the instruction of the Indians will be seen from the following extract of Mr. Jones's Journal of the 13th of June:—

As Governor Simpson was to leave in the night for York Fort, I had to go to Fort Douglas after the duties of the day, to have a conference with him and Governor Pelly together, in relation to the measures of the Society. In perfect accordance with a part of Mr. Pratt's Letter, stating that EDUCATION must be our main object in the way of preparation for Indian Evangelization, Governor Simpson undertook, on the part of the Company, to forward to this place, free of expense, the following number of children, as soon as practicable:—

10 Muscaigoes (Swampy Crees).
5 Thick-Wood Ossiniboines, from the Saskatchewan.
5 Crees, from Isle à la crosse and Athabasca.
5 Chippeways, from Great Slave Lake.
3 New Caledonia carriers.
2 From the Columbia.

I agreed, on the part of the Society, to defray the expenses of what clothing may be necessary in taking these children from their native wilds; which, in these inland districts, will be perhaps 30*s.* each, on account of the heavy per centage upon the goods.

This arrangement was entered into very cordially on the part of Governor Simpson—to use his own words, "with heart and soul;" and with a perfect understanding, that the object in having the children educated here, is, that they may be, at future periods, useful assistants to persons situated as Schoolmasters among the various tribes to which they originally belonged.

Should these children be brought, we shall have some speaking the principal dialects used from the American boundary-line to the Coppermine River, and from the North-Atlantic to the North-Pacific Ocean.

Of the climate and the state of his health, Mr. Jones thus speaks in June—

The cold weather, when the thermometer fell to 40° below zero, always affected my chest, and expectoration of blood followed; but I suffered no material inconvenience, as I was careful not to expose myself. I hope I shall be able to stand the hot season, which is rapidly advancing, with equal firmness.

Near the end of July he writes—

My health, upon the whole, is good. The heat is now very intense, at times; so much so, that I find it very difficult to use any mental application: but I trust, that, being habituated to the climate will make it more agreeable.

On the last day of August he adds—

I am very thankful that the warmest season is past, as I very much felt its enervating effect on my constitution; and humbly trust that I shall be henceforward more prepared for its recurrence. The effect produced on me was not so much in regard to the body, as the mind: I was subject, for the last month, to the most distressing inability to any mental exertion; and I assure you that distressing it was, where the duties are so many, and no one to sustain with me a part of the burden. And here I hope I may with propriety express a wish, that the Committee will, ere long, send a fellow-labourer to this part of the vineyard: I assure you that he will find employment. One, alone, in such a moral wilderness as this, unless he be of an extraordinary texture of mind, feels the effect of solitude; and, from a combination of causes, the enemy has an advantage in enervating the zeal. Do not conclude from this that I grow weary, or desire to look back.

No! blessed be God, I feel every day, more and more, the ineffable privilege of being an Ambassador of Christ to the Gentile World—of proclaiming reconciliation with an offended God to the dark and bewildered Indian!

At the last dates Mr. Jones was in perfect health, and gives the following view of the Mission:—

When I take into consideration the once-dreadful prevalency of irreligion in this country, the scattered state of its inhabitants, together with the inclemency of its seasons, and many other inconveniences which the Servants of the Lord have to encounter, my wonder is, not that more has not been done, but that so much has been accomplished. We want nothing but faith, and humble dependence on the promises of God, which are all Yea and Amen in that Saviour, whom we endeavour, day and night, to recommend to the notice of all around us.

PUBLICATIONS.

It was stated, under the head of "Missionaries and Students," that the Rev. Professor Lee has undertaken the superintendence of the Society's Students in the Institution, in respect of the Oriental Languages. On occasion of this engagement with Mr. Lee, the Committee think it right to put on record a memorial of the various Works connected with the Propagation of the Gospel, which the Professor has been enabled to accomplish since he has been connected with the Society. The Committee are anxious to bear this public testimony to his great and successful exertions in a department of labour, which, though it does not afford matter of interesting detail, and therefore attracts little general notice, yet involves more than a common share of patience and wearisome labour, and furnishes essential aid to the Missionary Cause; as will be abundantly manifest from the following statement.

Professor Lee has not only given instruction in the Oriental Languages to most of the Students and Missionaries whose attention was directed to such Languages before they left this country; but he has been laboriously occupied in preparing and editing various Works: some of these have been for the immediate service of the Society; and others have been taken charge of, with the full concurrence of your Committee, for the British and Foreign Bible Society, to the operations of which Institution both the Society and the Professor have had great pleasure in rendering every practicable aid.

Of the Works issued by the Society, Mr. Lee translated a Tract entitled "THE WAY OF TRUTH AND LIFE" into both Persian and Arabic, and edited these pieces together with Professor Macbride's Arabic Tract on the SYSTEM OF MUTUAL EDUCATION. In a Work edited by him, containing an Arabic Version of OSTERVALD'S COMPENDIUM OF SACRED HISTORY and DIALOGUES ON THE PRINCIPAL DOCTRINES OF CHRISTIANITY, the Dialogues were revised by the Professor, and much new matter added on several of the most important doctrines. A NEW-ZEALAND GRAMMAR AND VOCABULARY were compiled and edited by Mr. Lee, being the first attempt to reduce that language to system.

For the British and Foreign Bible Society, Professor Lee has had the charge of the SYRIAC NEW TESTAMENT, the SYRIAC OLD TESTAMENT, and the SYRIAC PSALTER. The New Testament was first undertaken by the late Rev. Dr. Claudius Buchanan, but was afterward re-commenced by Mr. Lee: three ancient Manuscripts and the Commentaries of Ephraim Syrus were collated; and, on their authority, in conjunction with the Collations of Jones, Ridley, and Wetstein, the Text was emended. For the Old Testament, six ancient Manuscripts of the Pentateuch were collated, and three of other parts of the Bible, together with the Commentaries of Ephraim Syrus. A new fount of types was prepared for these Works, under Mr. Lee's inspection. Mr. Lee also corrected, for the same Society, an edition of the MALAY BIBLE, in Roman Characters; and revised and edited the Propaganda ARABIC BIBLE, the Propaganda ARABIC PSALTER, Sabat's ARABIC NEW-TESTAMENT, the PERSIC PSAL-

TER, Martyn's HINDOOSTANEE NEW-TESTAMENT, and the FOUR GOSPELS in AMHARIC: newfounts of types or stereotype plates were prepared, under the direction of Mr. Lee, for all these Works, except the Malay Bible*. The Professor is now engaged in carrying through the Press an edition of a COPTIC AND ARABIC PSALTER in parallel columns; and in revising a translation of the OLD TESTAMENT INTO PERSIAN, which is preparing, with the assistance of Learned Natives, by the Scottish Missionaries on the borders of Persia.

For the Prayer-Book and Homily Society, Professor Lee has revised and edited Archdeacon Corrie's translation of the COMMON PRAYER INTO HINDOOSTANEE.

In addition to all these Works, he published, last year, an Octavo Volume of more than 700 pages, of CONTROVERSIAL TRACTS ON CHRISTIANITY AND MOHAMMEDANISM, by the late Rev. Henry Martyn and some of the most eminent Writers of Persia; translated and explained by the Professor, together with an original Tract by him and an extended account of a former controversy on the same subject.

The Committee cannot close this record without the expression of their gratitude to Him, who thus raises up instruments for carrying on His gracious designs toward mankind.

* In the Syriac Old Testament, and throughout the Psalter, valuable assistance in correcting the press was rendered by the Rev. Joseph Jowett, Rector of Silk Willoughby. Throughout the Arabic Bible, and in the latter half of Sabat's Arabic Testament, Professor Macbride, one of the Vice-Presidents of the Church Missionary Society, gave very important aid in the revision and correction of these Works. On the acquisition of the Manuscript of the Amharic Bible by the British and Foreign Bible Society, Mr. Lee, having made himself master of the Ethiopic and Amharic Languages with the valuable but imperfect assistance afforded by the Works of Ludolf, undertook to edit the Amharic Gospels: after the first Gospel had been completed, Thomas Pell Platt, Esq. Honorary Librarian of the British and Foreign Bible Society, continued the work, in consequence of Professor Lee's multiplied engagements. Mr. Platt assisted, also, in the revision of the latter part of Sabat's Arabic Testament.

In giving a Summary View of the Society's Proceedings, its efforts for the diffusion of Divine Truth among the Heathen may be thus stated—

In the NINE MISSIONS of the Society, there are FORTY-FIVE STATIONS, with which are connected TWO HUNDRED AND NINETY-SIX SCHOOLS. These Stations and Schools are occupied by FOUR HUNDRED AND FORTY LABOURERS: of these, 119 are Europeans, including a few Females born of British Parents in India; and 321 were born in the respective countries, chiefly, where they are employed. The number of SCHOLARS under the Society is FOURTEEN THOUSAND AND NINETY; of whom 10,457 are Boys, 2957 Girls, and 676 Youths and Adults. In connection with the principal Missions, PRINTING-PRESSES are established; and are coming, in some places, into very active and beneficial operation.

In conclusion, your Committee cannot but avow their full conviction, with thankfulness to Him who guides all things to the advancement of His Kingdom, that, amidst numberless and augmenting difficulties, that Kingdom is steadily advancing. Severe trials, indeed, continue to attend the Servants of God, in their combined exertions to fulfil His will: of these trials, particularly in that most interesting of all the scenes of Christian Labour, among the Liberated Africans, a large portion has befallen the Society, and still exercises the faith and patience of its friends. Not only, however, is countervailing success granted in other quarters, but, as the Committee rejoice to witness, the Reports of the Associations throughout the United Kingdom indicate the prevalence of a spirit so truly Christian, in reference both to the Trials of the Society and its own Duties and those of its members, that the Committee cannot but hail this as a manifest token for good: and they feel that they cannot better close their own Report, than by bringing before the Members some of the admirable remarks which occur on these topics in the Reports of the Associations.

work of God those general rules of perseverance and calm endurance, of which the relevancy is acknowledged in matters pertaining to our individual experience. As if the consciousness that we have no personal interest to serve nor private ends to gain begat a claim of exemption from ordinary reverses and trials, we are apt to interpret the occurrence of them as enjoining a pause or cessation of operations. It is forgotten, that the Gospel was planted by labours and sufferings, such as no Missionaries have, in the present day, to endure; it is forgotten, that the great Apostle of the Gentiles, when speaking of his labours, so far from generally adopting lauguage of uninterrupted triumph, was often pressed down above measure by cares, anxieties, and troubles. Trials, therefore, are appointed. We must expect them. They are useful in causing us to examine the simplicity of our motives—the proportion of effort to our means—the fervency of our zeal—the importunity and incessancy of our prayers—and, above all, they tend to fix our eye more steadfastly on Him, "without whom nothing is strong, nothing is holy"; who can frustrate in a moment the most splendid and costly array of means, and prosper those whose manifest disproportion seems to give the faintest prospects of success.

The same Committee thus point out the Rule of the Society's Duty—

Were our duty respecting the nations who sit in darkness and the shadow of death, only to be collected from the facilities which presented for their conversion and the success attending the whole process of means used, how feeble and unsteady would probably be our exertions! Especially at the commencement of a Mission—when the difficulties to be surmounted are usually the greatest and most appalling, when the prospects of success are most doubtful and obscure—we should readily find a plea to cover our indolence and indifference in doing nothing. "The time is not yet—the mind of God is not sufficiently declared—the opposing obstacles are insuperable"—these, or similar arguments, would seem to justify us in ceasing to use any further means; and in beholding, without any serious trouble, millions of our fellow-creatures perishing for lack of knowledge. Viewing, however, the Divine Will as made known, so far as respects our duty, in plain commands and promises, the course is obvious: we must labour, sow the seed, tend the rising plant with vigilance and diligence, and in faith leave the event. Thus the very trials and difficulties, which, in the other view of the subject, would be interpreted as an intimation to relax, will, in this, be deemed a call to redouble our efforts, and yet cast into the shade all these efforts by directing the eye more singly to the Divine Power and Sufficiency.

The Duty of combining Economy with Zeal in efforts to support the Society, is thus forcibly stated, in the Report of one of the County Associations :—

Your Committee beg leave to request of those connected with their Association who have a copy of the Report, that they will make a point of lending it readily; that the operations of the Society may be known more widely, yet at no greater expense. For, of all the facts connected with it, this is among the plainest, that, in order to support the present labours of our Missionaries, the demands upon our funds are so large, that no more must be spent in telling the news of them, than is absolutely necessary to keep alive men's interest and attention. When, for instance, we know, that although at the time when the last Report was published the gross income of the Society was 35,000*l.* yet out of that sum Nine Missions were to be supported, including 43 Stations and 226 Schools connected with them, it will easily be seen, that Economy is quite as necessary as Zeal; and Economy, we all know, to be effectual, must prevail through all the branches and members of the Society.

Indeed, besides these calls upon its revenue, there are others just now almost equally pressing; particularly the completion and maintenance of an Establishment lately commenced at Islington for the education of Missionaries on a well-ordered system, under the very eye of the leading Officers of the Society. It is true a Separate Subscription has been opened in aid of this project, and considerable sums have been collected for it; yet the Committee have been obliged to advance money toward it, which they could ill spare from their current expenses.

These things are stated, to shew both that the Society's money is spending well; and also, in order to answer the double object, of impressing upon its members individually how important it is to labour by every honourable means to enlarge its income, and by every judicious means to lessen its expenditure.

Of the beneficial influence of exertions made, even by a few individuals, in a right spirit, on behalf of the Society, the same Committee thus speak :—

You will be pleased to remark, that considerable sums have been received, this year, from several places now named on our list for the first time; and that, in other instances, the contributions are very greatly increased. And your Committee think themselves bound to state, that the praise of this is due to a few individuals, whose good opinion of our Society has led them to put forth very uncommon energy in its behalf.

It is not easy to over-rate the services of persons like these. It is no small matter, that, in their own immediate neighbourhood, they make some liberal, who else had continued mere niggards; and induce others to bestow a part at least of their superfluities to good purpose, when otherwise all would have gone to waste: but what is of far greater moment, in endeavouring to excite an anxiety for the instruction and salvation of the Heathen, they take a delicate yet striking method to suggest to those among whom they dwell, the greatness of their own Christian Privileges, which hitherto perhaps may have been but slightly regarded; and, while they overtly urge men to make these more common, they tacitly lead them, it is to be hoped, to take a more particular and impressive view of them for themselves. And, beside the good effects which such active people work in their own sphere, they help to bring pointedly before our view some wholesome truths; acknowledged indeed when we think, but much forgotten when we ought to act: they tell us, by example, that men must be at much pains if they would earn much pleasure—that the moral world, however bad it may be, is bad more from the want of cultivation and the neglect of better-minded men, than from any hard necessity in the nature of the case—and that very plain people, by straight-forward and continued exertions, may always, under God's blessing, bring about, in a religious sense, a plentiful harvest.

While your Committee think it right to mention these exertions, out of gratitude, and by way of encouragement and example to themselves and others, it is scarcely necessary to remind you, for of your own accord you will perceive, that they are recommending the earnestness of men who feel that they are doing the work of God, not the solicitude of those whose chief hope is in the money which they can collect; and that what they are praising is a steady, regular, and sober-minded activity in the way of duty, and not an officious and offensive importunity out of it. For, above all things, they beg you to remember, and they wish to remember themselves, that, as we look mainly for success by securing to ourselves the favour and grace of God, so we shall be more sure of these according as our conduct is more entirely agreeable to His will, and more exactly and strictly Christian in all its parts. It is their wish, therefore, and their prayer, that all the efforts of this Society and of every member of it may be distinguished—not by any disproportionate zeal put forth at the expense of delicacy or charity, but by a determined energy to do good, without even the appearance of any thing that is ungentle, assuming, or obtrusive.

The Committee will close their Report by adopting the elevated sentiments of another County Association :—

Your Committee would humbly suggest to their friends, and desire to take the caution to themselves, that they see more and more the necessity of anxious and persevering prayer, for the out-pouring of the Holy Spirit's blessing, on all the Proceedings, and Friends, and Missionaries of the Society—of more diligent and self-denying labours in their several stations, for the promotion of this Blessed Cause—and, at the same time, of a more free and liberal contribution of their carnal things. Your Committee conceive, that the view which is set before us, when we contemplate the proceedings of the Church Missionary Society or its kindred Institutions, is the most delightful that can be presented to the mind, in the gloominess of this lower world; and to be engaged in the humblest capacity in the busy movements of this glorious scene, is not only a duty, but one of the dearest privileges to which human nature can be called. Your Committee earnestly implore for themselves and all the Members of their Society, that they may feel an abundant increase of the preciousness and the power of their Saviour's love—that they may be of one heart and one soul in all their proceedings—and be led to seek, more anxiously and zealously, the salvation of their perishing fellow-sinners in all parts of the world.

INSTRUCTIONS OF THE COMMITTEE TO THE REV. JOHN RABAN AND OTHERS, PROCEEDING AS MISSIONARIES AND TEACHERS TO SIERRA LEONE, WITH MR. RABAN'S REPLY, AND AN ADDRESS BY THE REV. THOMAS WEBSTER: DELIVERED OCT. 4, 1824.

Instructions of the Committee.

DEARLY BELOVED IN THE LORD—

It is with mingled feelings, that the Committee again send forth so many Labourers to the most tried, and yet most successful scene of their exertions. When they review the course in which it has pleased God to lead them in the West-Africa Mission, they see abundant occasion both for humiliation and for thanksgiving. The loss of many valuable Labourers has been a just cause of humiliation before God, yet not of despondency or despair; for there have been many and satisfactory testimonies, that they have neither laboured in vain, nor regretted any of the sacrifices, not even that of life itself, to which they have been called.

You are about to enter into their toil and conflict, and, as the Committee trust, with the same spirit which animated those who have preceded you.

Never were the labours of the faithful servants of Christ more urgently required in Africa, than they are at this time. One of the survivors thus pleads for assistance:—

> The people are like sheep without a Shepherd; crying out, as the Man of Macedonia did, Come over, and help us! Oh that they may not call in vain! We are, indeed, brought very low. Where is the zeal of Englishmen? Where are those who love the Saviour? Are they all like Jonah? Will no man say, Here am I! Lord, send me? What is our life but a vapour, which appeareth for a little while, and then vanisheth away? How, then, can that short space be better employed, than in pointing Sinners to that Lamb of God, in whom whosoever believeth shall not perish, but have everlasting life.

Your arrival will shew that the anxiety of the Society to benefit Africa, notwithstanding the severe losses which have been sustained, continues unabated; and will encourage your Brethren, who are now bearing the burden and heat of the day: nor will it fail to be a most seasonable relief for the present wants of the Colony; which have been greatly enlarged by the increase of Liberated Africans and the consequent multiplication of Parishes, while sickness and death have reduced the number of Labourers.

It is the wish and the intention of the Committee, to provide an Ordained Missionary for every Parish in the Colony, as soon as they shall be able; and they are taking steps, in the arrangements making for the Society's Seminary, to accomplish this desirable object.

An arrangement has been made with His Majesty's Government, for providing more completely for the Religious Instruction of the Colony and for the Education of the Young. The Committee have made proposals, with this view, at a probable additional cost to the Society of several thousand pounds per annum. To these proposals, His Majesty's Government has acceded; and a copy of the arrangement will be put into your hands, for the future direction of the Society's measures in the Co-Colony.

The Committee have expressed to Government their hope and expectation, of being ultimately able to bring forward Native Africans, to take an efficient share in the religious instruction of their countrymen; and, in due time, to take charge, under the respective Clergymen of the Country Parishes, of the education and civil superintendence of their towns, so that, by degrees, Natives may occupy the place of Europeans. To this object, therefore, you and your Brethren will especially direct your attention. The Committee have no expectation, under the circumstances of the case, that this design can, to any extent, be speedily accomplished: but the Mission has already afforded sufficient evidence, that Natives may now become very useful Assistants; and has herein laid good ground to hope, that, in due time, that will take place on these shores, which has uniformly occurred in the History of Christianity—that the Gospel, first planted by the instrumentality of Foreigners, has been perpetuated by that of Natives: and there is no reason to doubt, but that the country which, on its Northern Shores, adorned the Church by a Cyprian and an Augustine, will, on its Western, supply its own competent Teachers, when the Natives shall have been emancipated from those chains, by which men calling themselves Christians have fettered their intellect, and shall have enjoyed the advantages of Christian Instruction.

The immediate object, indeed, is the instruction of the Liberated Africans of the Colony, for their own personal benefit; that they may both become good members of the community in which they live, and may be prepared for that state of everlasting glory to which they are called by the Gospel. This object, hitherto imperfectly provided for, on account of the sickness and death of the Labourers sent to the Colony, has, in part from the same cause, so entirely engaged of late years the care of the Society, that but little progress has been made in the attempts begun at an earlier period of the Mission, to fix the Languages of the bordering tribes, of Natives, and prepare Elementary Books for their use. As, however, the Mission shall increase in strength, these two objects must be conjointly pursued. Providing, in the first instance, for the adequate religious and general instruction of the Native Colonists, the Society's Missionaries will then take the most effectual measures, as a part of their regular duty, for availing themselves of the aid of the Natives to ascertain and fix the various languages and dialects, and to prepare suitable books therein.

In the instruction of the Liberated Africans, the most speedy and effectual attainment by them of the English Language must be ever kept in view. This has hitherto been greatly hindered, by the inadequate supply and unavoidable changes of Teachers, and by the constant accession of new comers. Nor has it been practicable to attain, perhaps, the most easy means of conveying to Scholars, so circumstanced, the knowledge of a strange language. To this object, some of the Society's Labourers should especially devote their attention.

In reference to the preparation of future Native Teachers, for the benefit of the surrounding and interior tribes, some steps may be taken at the first season of leisure that can be employed for this purpose. The number of different languages and dialects spoken by the Liberated Africans should be exactly ascertained, from the most intelligent of the Natives belonging to the respective countries; and, from them, should be collected all the information which they are capable of affording, relative to these tongues. A regular plan should be formed, and steadily acted on, for enlarging this information, as new opportunities may occur: and means should be taken, that the most promising of these Natives should not only retain, but grammatically learn, their own tongues, with a view to their future services among their countrymen.

The Committee would thus have you ever bear in mind, that they view the Colony not only in reference to its local wants, but to the evangelization of the whole of this part of Africa: nor can they consider that remarkable Providence, by which Native Representatives have been brought from so many different nations in every part of a country, of access so peculiarly difficult, from climates so unhealthy to Europeans, of languages so numerous and never yet reduced to writing, without cherishing the lively hope that some of these Natives will become instruments of making known the Gospel among their own tribes. Let this ultimate result of our labours never be lost sight of. Individual Native Teachers may disappoint expectation: particular attempts may fail: but there are now in the Colony the elements of the future diffusion of the Gospel through Western Africa.

It is a most reasonable expectation, that our African Schools and Congregations will prove to be the seed-plots of future Missionaries—the nursery, from which shall be transplanted those trees of righteousness, which, when the Spirit shall be poured out from on high, shall make the wilderness a fruitful field. The more experienced Native Teachers are anxious to engage in this work; and evidence has been already given, by some of them, that, after due preparation and under efficient superintendence, the happiest results may be expected, under the Divine Blessing, from their labours. The time may, indeed, be distant, when Native Teachers can be sent among their countrymen, especially in more distant parts, of such intelligence and firmness as Christians, as to be left with confidence to form a permanent establishment without the aid and direction of Europeans: yet, to this, the friends of Africa must ever look as an ultimate and most important end; and, for this, the way must be gradually prepared, by attempts near the Colony, and under the direct control and superintendence of the Missionaries.

Such of you as are proceeding as Schoolmasters must occupy, under the sanction of the Governor, those Stations, which shall be found, on your arrival in the Colony, to be most in want of Teachers. The Masters of the Freetown Schools will be paid wholly by the Society; but, wherever any Layman is charged with the Superintendence of a town, the arrangement which has hitherto been followed will remain, until, as before stated, a Clergyman also shall be placed in such town.

The Committee wish to state, in reference to the Schoolmasters, that the Freetown Schools and the Christian Institution at Regent require immediate attention. The Seminary at Regent has seriously suffered from its unavoidable want of Teachers. Freetown, with Regent and Gloucester, being in most pressing want of assistance, you are appointed, MR. RABAN, under the concurrence of the Governor, to take charge, for the present, of the Clerical duties at Freetown; and you, MR. BROOKS and MR. KNIGHT, under the same concurrence, will respectively act at Regent and at Gloucester: whenever European Superintendants shall be appointed under you, the Society will be responsible for your whole Salary; but, while you may be called to act in the character of Superintendants as well as Ministers, it will pay that portion of your stipend which it has been accustomed to do in like cases.

These arrangements with respect to Regent and Gloucester may, perhaps, hereafter be modified. When Mr. Norman shall have been prepared for Holy Orders, and shall have been admitted thereto, his knowledge of the people at Regent, and the mutual affection which subsists between them, may point him out as the proper person to be entrusted with that charge.

On your arrival, a Meeting of the Missionaries should be immediately held, at which all these objects should be taken into consideration, and the best arrangements in the power of the Meeting should be made. You may confidently apprise your fellow-labourers, that the Committee will use every practicable exertion, to send out an annual supply of Missionaries and Teachers, which may not only prove adequate to the wants of the Colony, but may enable you to act on the suggestions before given with regard to the Natives without the Colony.

There are some points, of a more secular nature indeed, but of great importance in the present circumstances of the Liberated Africans, to which the Committee wish to call your serious attention.

Though the immediate and most weighty duty of a Missionary respects the communication, to the people among whom he labours, of the spiritual blessings of the Gospel; yet is he bound also to use his best endeavours to promote their civilization and temporal welfare. The present state of the Colony renders it peculiarly necessary for the Missionary to devise, and steadily to carry into execution, such measures as are best calculated to advance the Liberated Africans in the useful arts and in productive industry. It is by this test that many will estimate the value of the Missionary's labours: and the fairness of the criterion cannot reasonably be objected to, if applied with a candid and impartial consideration of all the circumstances of the Missionary's situation; for the Scriptures recognise industry in a man's calling as an indispensable obligation on converts to Christianity. So far as the Society's proceedings in Sierra Leone have gone, they fully attest the operation and beneficial effects of this principle.

The Committee have derived much information from the Quarterly Reports of each Station; and they beg that these may be rendered as full as practicable, and be punctually delivered. But they wish, in addition to these Quarterly Reports, that, at Christmas in each year, a General Report of the state of the whole Mission, and of the proceedings throughout the year, should be drawn up and sent home by the first conveyance, that it may arrive in sufficient time to be of service at the Annual Meeting of the Society. This Report should not repeat the details supplied by the Quarterly Reports of each Station; but should rather take a general view of the whole Mission, including the Ministry at Freetown, that being placed, by the new arrangements, under the charge of the Society. The Committee wish the Annual Report to detail the difficulties, trials, wants, and success of the Mission; with such suggestions as the Missionaries may think it desirable to bring before them in relation to it: and also, that it should furnish a view of the state of the Liberated Africans, both in respect of their religious and civil condition: with reference to their civil state, it should furnish the amount of the population of each Parish, distinguishing males and females, adults and children—the kind and quantity of produce sold, and the price and amount for which it sold—the number of acres cultivated by the people, on their own account—the number of stone houses erected by the people for their own use—the number of gardens—the number of individuals occupied in agriculture, trade, and fishing; distinguishing each class—and the number of marriages, births, and burials: with all other information which may tend to bring the Committee acquainted with the state and prospects of every part of the Mission.

With the view of furnishing such a Report, and of rendering the Quarterly Reports full and accurate, the Committee wish particular attention to be paid to the keeping of the Journal at every Station; in which occurrences and conversations, with remarks and suggestions, may be recorded as they arise.

You are now sent forth, Christian Brethren, on the part of the Society, as its first representatives, in fulfilment of the agreement lately entered into with His Majesty's Government. It is probable, indeed, that this arrangement cannot be immediately acted upon in any part of the Colony but in Freetown, and perhaps at Regent; for, until a sufficient number of Europeans can be sent to Africa, to provide for each of the Country Towns both a European Minister and Layman, the one in charge of its spiritual and the other of its temporal concerns, the system hitherto acted on must still be pursued—that is, the European in charge, as Superintendant, of the entire concerns of the people, will receive, as such, the usual stipend from Government; the Society making that addition, on account, if a Minister, of his attention to the spiritual concerns, which it has been accustomed to do: but whenever both a Minister and a Superintendant shall be established in any town, the Society will pay the Stipend of the Minister, while that of the Superintendant will continue to be paid by Government—dwelling-houses for the Clergyman and other Teachers, with land for gardens and sufficient glebe, and the requisite buildings for Public Worship, being provided by Government.

You may expect, from the successor of Sir Charles MacCarthy, a continuance of that friendly regard and assistance, which the Mission ever experienced at the hands of that deeply-lamented man. A Deputation of the Committee has waited on the Governor, Major-General Turner; and has received from His Excellency the assurance of his protection and friendship.

Let it never be forgotten, Brethren, that all your success will depend, under the Divine Blessing, on your PERSONAL RELIGION; and that your personal religion will be very much in proportion as you are diligent in the means of obtaining the grace of the Holy Spirit — private prayer, searching the Scriptures, and social worship. The Committee have often insisted on this, in former Addresses to their Missionaries; and their experience shews them, increasingly, the importance of the direction. No knowledge of the Gospel, or attainment in religion, renders it less needful still to depend with simplicity on Christ, to go forth in His strength alone, and to look constantly for fresh supplies of grace from Him. Diligently study the Bible; and let no human writings, however excellent, keep your main attention from the Word of God. There you have truth—the whole truth, in its simplest, clearest, and fullest exhibition: there you have Divine Authority for every statement, and the promise of a Divine Blessing on a diligent and humble and devout perusal. Daily study the Scriptures with fervent prayer; and your Christian knowledge, simplicity, faith, humility, and devotion, so far from being weakened by new scenes, and laborious duties, and heavy trials, and foreign climates, will be increased and enlarged every year.

Often as a SPIRIT OF LOVE has been urged on all who engage in the work of Missions, the Committee cannot but renew, on the present occasion, their earnest injunctions that it should be cherished by you all with the most assiduous care. The circumstances of the African Mission peculiarly demand the exercise of this grace among its different Labourers. The tendency of a debilitating climate to affect the temper, requires the counteraction of continual watchfulness and prayer; and the constant need of mutual sympathy and aid, calls for the lively exercise of Christian Charity. The spiritual interests of the Mission have always prospered most, even in the midst of outward afflictions, when love has prevailed; but if, at any time, a contrary spirit has unhappily crept in, the hands of the humble and faithful Labourers have been weakened, and the hearts of their friends have been discouraged. Humility is the handmaid to love: when each esteems others better than himself, mutual love will prevail; but envy at the success of others, or emulation of the gifts or influence of others springing from unmortified pride, will prove their own torment, while they will disturb the peace, and hinder the usefulness of the servants of God.

You are about to tread in the steps of Garnon, and Johnson, and Düring, and Vaughan, and many other of the excellent of the earth, who have gone, from the scene of your future labours, to their heavenly rest. Follow them, as they followed Christ. Their personal religion flourished in the very scenes on which you are about to enter.

The Committee wish to urge on your attention another direction of special importance—Seek, first, the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; with the full assurance that then all other things shall be added unto you. Guard against that common temptation, to seek your own things, and not the things which are Jesus Christ's. All you do will prosper, in proportion to the simplicity with which you are devoted to the kingdom of God. Let this be a governing principle, that all personal interests, and self-exaltation, and self-preference, and individual ease, comfort, and advantage, are cheerfully to be sacrificed to the Cause of Christ; and be assured that you will find this to be the path to happiness, to usefulness, and to final glory.

Abundantly adequate are the motives for every sacrifice—abundantly sufficient is the strength for every labour. We know that there is an infinite fulness in Christ our Head, for all our wants. We know that HIS grace is sufficient. We know that HIS Holy Spirit can work in us mightily, to will and to do of His good pleasure. The love of Christ, we trust, constrains you to go forth; and that love will sweeten every toil, and make you welcome every sacrifice. The Spirit of Christ strengthens and sustains you; and, by that Spirit, out of weakness you shall be made strong, and be upheld, and established, and strengthened, even to the end. Fear not—only believe. He has promised, I will never leave thee, nor forsake thee.

The Committee now send you forth to your labours, in the Name of our common Lord and Saviour. They commend you to God, and to the word of His grace, which is able to build you up, and to give you an inheritance among them which are sanctified by faith which is in Christ Jesus. They may never see all, or many of you, again in this world; but their hope is, that they, and you, and multitudes blessed for ever through your labours, shall together throughout eternity magnify him who was slain and has redeemed us to God by His blood, out of every kindred and tongue and people and nation.

By order of the Committee,

EDWD BICKERSTETH, Sec.

Reply of the Rev. John Raban.

HONOURED GENTLEMEN—

I trust that we have been deeply impressed with the important remarks, which have been addressed to us; and that they will be carefully treasured up in our hearts.

Speaking on behalf of myself, and of my dear Brethren and Sister, about to engage with me in the great work of making known the Gospel to the poor Heathen, I hope I can say, that, having an anxious desire to promote the welfare of immortal souls—feeling also some measure of zeal for the honour of God, whose name is blasphemed among the Heathen—and being sensible of the very great obligations which lie upon us to promote the spiritual welfare of others, arising from the privileges which we ourselves enjoy—we have been induced to give ourselves to this work. And though we do not conceal from ourselves the arduousness of the undertaking, and are not altogether strangers to our own insufficiency: yet we desire to go forth in dependence on that Almighty Arm, which has never failed those who have relied upon it; and humbly seeking that grace, which has been found sufficient for the servants of God in every age.

We desire, at the same time, to entreat the prayers of our Reverend Fathers and Brethren on our behalf, that we may be fitted for the high and holy work which is before us. It has been a source of much consolation to my own mind, and no doubt will be to my dear Brethren and Sister, that the hearts of so many of the Members and Friends of this Society, in various parts of the kingdom, are lifted up in prayer to God on our behalf. And while it is true that the effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man availeth much, how can we do otherwise than cherish the hope and expectation, that, in answer to the prayers of so many of the people of God, a large supply of grace will be vouchsafed unto us, to strengthen us for the work to which we are called—that we may never faint amidst our greatest difficulties—that we may be turned aside by no temptation, however enticing; but may tread in the steps of those holy men who have gone before us, and may cheerfully and stedfastly labour in the prosecution of the work to which we have devoted ourselves.

And I trust that I and my beloved companions shall not fail to add our own prayers, also, to the Father of Mercies, that, even by our feeble instrumentality, the Divine Glory may be promoted, and the blessings of Salvation imparted to multitudes of our fellow-creatures.

Address to the Missionaries and Teachers; by the Rev. Thomas Webster.

DEARLY BELOVED IN THE LORD—

In complying with the request of the Committee to address a few words to you on the present occasion, I cannot but feel deeply impressed with the peculiar solemnity of the service to which I am called; and would therefore earnestly entreat you to join with me in fervent prayer to the Giver of every good and perfect gift for the gracious influence of His Holy Spirit, that what shall now be spoken may indeed prove for the benefit of our souls and the advancement of His glory.

In undertaking this duty, I am encouraged by the recollection that I am not called on to address you on a novel or untried speculation: every thing which I can say must be, in great measure, familiar to your minds—must often have formed the subject of your meditation and discourse—or must have been brought before you, in the exhortations of those under whose pious instruction you have been placed, or of those who have in succession addressed your predecessors when going forth to their high and holy calling. My business, therefore, is little more than to stir up your pure minds by way of remembrance, and to call upon you to recollect the principles which you have embraced—to go forth and wield in actual combat those holy weapons, the use and the power of which you have been taught.

It may not, therefore, be inexpedient to remind you, in the first place, once more of that truth which you have often heard—

I. That YOU ARE GOING FORTH IN OBEDIENCE TO THE DIVINE COMMAND, AND UNDER THE ENCOURAGEMENT OF A GRACIOUS PROMISE.

It was the command of the Saviour, Go ye into all the world, and preach the Gospel to every creature—Go ye, and teach all nations; baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost; teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you: and, lo, I am with you alway, even unto the end of the world. The terms of this gracious promise most clearly prove that the passage was not to be confined to those immediately addressed: but was intended to extend to those, also, who should, through their teaching, believe on His name; and that, so long as any part of the world should remain destitute of the Gospel, so long should the disciples of Jesus go forth in dependence on this promised aid, and endeavour to communicate to them the word of life.

To this service you, my Brethren, are now going forth as your avowed object: and we trust that it is your sincere intention to teach the Natives of Western Africa whatsoever Christ hath commanded — to preach the Gospel to every creature, to whom you can obtain access—and to invite, and entreat, and persuade them to believe on the Lord Jesus Christ to the salvation of their souls.

I need not here enter into any nice distinction between the different offices and employments of the Ordained Missionaries and the Schoolmaster. The teaching of one may be more public and authoritative—may be addressed to the larger audience, and on the more solemn occasion: but what the Minister is in the Pulpit, the Schoolmaster should aim to be in his School—apt to teach—patient—in meekness instructing all who come under his care.

In fact, while the Missionary may be called upon to preach in public to a large congregation, it should not be forgotten, that very much of your success must depend on teaching, not only publickly, but from house to house. Free, affectionate, mild, and gentle converse—reasoning with and persuading the Native Africans — often repeating the simple lesson of the Saviour's Humiliation and Sufferings unto death—may, through Divine Mercy, be found especially useful, under the peculiar circumstances of the Mission. This is, moreover, a labour in which all may take their proper share: and which is attended with little comparative waste of the animal spirits; and with far less of that depression and exhaustion, which, in the climate of Western Africa, is usually consequent on the public labours of the zealous Missionary.

I would urge on you, my Brethren, the importance of dwelling much, in your various ministrations, on the important subject—Christ Crucified. This was the topic, in which the greatest of all Missionaries determined to glory, for which he counted all things but loss, and for which he determined to know nothing else among the people. This was the topic, which Brainerd, and Elliot, and the Moravian Missionaries found effectual to the conversion of fierce Indians and degraded Greenlanders; and which your valuable predecessors have found so effectual, among the very people to whom you are going. The love of God in giving His Son to die for one so lost, depraved, and guilty as man—the love of Christ in leaving His Father's glory to become man, to suffer and die a painful and accursed death, in order to open unto us the way to everlasting life—the attestation given to the acceptance of that sacrifice, in His resurrection, ascension, and intercession before the throne—and the outpouring of the Holy Spirit, in His renewing, converting, sanctifying, and strengthening influence—these are subjects, which, while they must form the ceaseless topics of your own meditation, will be found, under the Divine Blessing, most effectual in the salvation of those to whom you will minister.

These subjects, therefore, you must teach incessantly, in the great congregation, and in the small assembly. In so doing, you will both save yourselves and them that hear you: you will be owned of God, in the conversion of the adults; and in the raising up from among the children a succession of holy men, who, we trust, will, under the Divine Blessing, be instrumental in making known the Saviour's love to succeeding generations, when we are laid in the grave.

Go forth, therefore, Brethren, to teach the nations of Western Africa all things whatsoever the Saviour hath said. Go forth, whether as Ministers, or Schoolmasters, or Translators of the Holy Scriptures, or as combining in one character all these important offices, and, with diligence and patience, endeavour in your several callings to win souls to Christ; confidently looking for the fulfilment of this promise—Lo, I am with you alway—with you, to assist, direct, support, and comfort you under difficulties and trials—with you, to bless and prosper your labours—with you, in the perils of the sea, and the solitude of the desert, and the fury of the tornado—with you, in the hour of temptation, in the season of sickness, on the bed of death, in the Day of Judgment to own, accept, and take you to Himself, that you may be for ever with the Lord.

But let me also remind you, Brethren, that, while you are going forth in obedience to a Divine Command and under the encouragement of a gracious Promise, you must—

II. Prepare to meet with TRIALS AND TEMPTATIONS most painful to flesh and blood; and which will, very probably, be aggravated by peculiar difficulties in your situation, which no previous instruction can adequately provide for.

Through much tribulation you must enter into the kingdom of heaven. All true Christians have their peculiar trials. Distinguished usefulness requires severe discipline, to prevent us from being exalted above measure: a thorn in the flesh was needful for the great Apostle: and hence arise many of those painful bodily afflictions, those distressing family bereavements, those heart-rending divisions and offences which take place in congregations, and all the long catalogue of painful sufferings which they of whom the world was not worthy have been called to endure. Beloved, think it not, therefore, strange concerning the fiery trial which is to try you, as though some strange thing happened unto you; but rejoice, inasmuch as ye are partakers of Christ's sufferings, that when His glory shall be revealed, ye may be glad also with exceeding joy.

It may not, however, be inexpedient that I should briefly advert to some of those trials with which you will very probably have to contend; in order that you may at least endeavour to arm yourselves against the evil day.

Both yourselves and your motives may be regarded and scrutinized with the eye of suspicion by some of those among whom you may live. Their intercourse with the world, and practical acquaintance with the deceitfulness of mankind, will probably lead some persons, even when not particularly opposed to the great object which you have in view, to regard your real motives with a degree of doubt, very painful for those to endure who are conscious of integrity; and who feel, as all such men must feel, that in leaving their friends and their country, to engage, for no earthly end or reward, in arduous duties in a foreign land, they have made sacrifices which ought to place them above suspicion. But, under every insinuation of this nature, learn to be silent—except before God; and, before Him, adopt his language who said, Thou shalt answer for me, O Lord my God. Brethren, it must be by the holiness of your lives, and especially by your patience and meekness and diligence, that you must eventually silence opposition: multitudes will not attend to the facts or understand the arguments which you may bring forward, but all can judge of your patience, of the meekness of your temper, of your calmness under provocation; and the effect of these SILENT Sermons will often be found great beyond conception.

There may not only be trials of this nature from without, but somewhat of the same kind may even be found from among your brethren. It is a painful and humiliating consideration, how few can cordially adopt the language of one of old, and say of the younger Labourer with holy composure, He must increase, but I must decrease; and the natural effects of climate and of other circumstances, may render such composure peculiarly difficult in the present instance. It was inquired by one of the sufferers from extreme hunger in Captain Franklin's Expedition, "I wonder, if we get back to England, whether we shall return to our right minds:" for the privations of meat partly had produced a high degree of peevishness and irritability. Somewhat of a similar effect has, in some instances, been produced by labours and sufferings in Africa: should any symptoms of such a state appear in others, you will need a double portion of Divine grace, that, instead of adding fuel to fire, you may imitate Him who was sent to bind up the broken in heart: you will then be called to bear with infirmity, and to comfort those who are cast down, considering yourselves lest you also be tempted: your own time may shortly come, when you may need a large share of patience and forbearance in others.

But you must prepare for other trials. You have heard and read of the blessed effects produced under the labours of your predecessors in this good work: luxuriant fruits have been sent to us, as the grapes of Eshcol were brought to the Israelites. But you may not find these fruits on every tree. You may now anticipate the delight with which you shall maintain Christian converse with these simple-hearted and devoted disciples of Christ; and it may afford you consolation under various trials: but you will find some of these favoured places now left as sheep without a shepherd; and if, while men slept, the enemy came and sowed tares among the wheat, how much more may we fear, lest, under the bereaving dispensations which have taken place, some of these early converts may have been corrupted from the simplicity which is in Christ. Such may be the case: should it be so found, apply yourselves to rekindle the dormant spark—to recall the slumbering Christian to the fervour of his first love—to correct what is wrong, and set in order that which is wanting.

Some of you may be placed in a different situation. You may be appointed to a Station where no Christian Missionary has yet laboured; and have the superintendence of a number of Idolatrous Africans, just landed from the hold of a Slave Vessel, who have never been brought into any order or under restraint, are full of enmity to one another, and smarting under the effects of grievous injuries, inflicted by Europeans.

You will here need unwearied patience, meekness, and tender compassion; united with undeviating firmness, unceasing diligence, and fervent prayer. The great Tempter may, under such circumstances, suggest, "I can do nothing!" Yet these are the very materials, out of which the living temples of Regent and of Gloucester were formed, by the Divine blessing on the patient labours of our departed brethren Johnson and Düring. Study their characters, and contemplate their work, and follow them as they followed Christ; and, in due season, you shall reap, if you faint not.

Believe me, my beloved Brethren, I say not these things to discourage you, but only to warn you. You have, I trust, well counted the cost; and are prepared to devote yourselves, your bodies and souls and spirits, to your Lord and Saviour: if so, like the valiant soldier, you will not be discouraged by the long and arduous contest, but will only desire that you may be prepared for the worst—knowing that you have a Captain to lead you on, who is able to cover your head in the day of battle, and make you more than conquerors over every enemy.

I pass over, designedly, the dangers of the climate—referring you, for precautions with respect to your health, to the advice of our medical friends; by which advice you are bound to regulate your conduct, in duty to yourselves—to that God in whose service you are going forth—to our African brethren—to the Society which is sending you forth, and which looks on you and its other Labourers as more precious than thousands of gold and silver. I would press this point strongly; because experience shews, that some of our departed brethren have not sufficiently attended to it. Feeling, in the early part of their labours, no serious injury from the climate, they were tempted to think the prescribed caution unnecessary; and half insinuated that some of their predecessors had been timid, and forgetful of Divine protection: and, in consequence, they exposed themselves to the sun by day, or the damps by night; and thus fell a sacrifice, not so much to an unhealthy climate, as to their neglect of those strict rules and that self-denying discipline which the climate requires.

But beware, Brethren, while you carefully avoid that course which experience shews to be fatal, that you give no indulgence to sloth, and indolence of mind. Those long periods of time, which cannot be employed in active labour, may well be devoted to reading—to meditation—to Christian converse—to communion with God in prayer—to the study of His Word—in recollection of His mercy to you in times past—and in realizing anticipations of that Glory which shall be shortly revealed.

This leads me to remind you,

III. That you can only be enabled to overcome the trials and temptations with which you meet, and to attain the great end for which you are going forth, by WALKING CLOSELY WITH YOUR GOD.

We have need, my Brethren, to be jealous of ourselves and of others with godly jealousy, in order that we may not deceive or be deceived by that evil heart of unbelief, which we all possess by nature, and the workings of which will perplex and harass us till mortality is swallowed up of life. In going forth to the work, therefore, in which you are engaging, you should look well to your motives. Hitherto, you have been sustained by the kind countenance of friends—by the advice of pious Ministers—by a species of homage, which is almost involuntarily paid to those, who, at considerable personal risk, embark in high and arduous undertakings: but, ere long, you will lose all these excitements and external supports—deprived almost wholly of Christian Society—placed in a Station, perhaps, where the Sabbath is scarcely known—perhaps with no one, as you imagine, to observe or animadvert upon your conduct—confined, at times, within your habitation, by long-continued torrents of rain; with a sky obscured by vapours, so as nearly to veil the bright rays of the sun—perhaps with a feeling of weakness and infirmity of body—not having heard, for a length of time, from your far-distant friends—not having received the expected communications from the Society—ready to conceive of unnumbered causes of this delay, but never adverting to the true one—the impediments arising from the difficulties and accidents of conveyance to distant regions: and thus, from a concurrence of circumstances, you may be ready to say, We are pressed out of measure, so as to despair even of life. Whence, then, shall you derive support and consolation, but by looking out of yourselves, and walking closely with God; by trusting no longer in yourselves, but in God, which raiseth the dead—who hath delivered, who doth deliver, in whom we trust that He will still deliver.

But, if you would walk closely with God, you must seek Him with full purpose of heart, through the mediation of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ, and in dependence on the grace of the Holy Spirit: you must labour continually after increasing conformity to the Divine Image: you must cultivate, therefore, with the utmost earnestness, personal religion; and, though you may meet with many difficulties in the busy scenes on which you are now entering, you must not allow those difficulties to prevent your converse with the Saviour: you must learn, so to speak, to be alone in a crowd. Placed, as you will soon be, in a vessel where little space and opportunity may be afforded for solitude, endeavour to commune with your own heart—to meditate on God's Word—to lift up your heart in prayer; and thus to be in the fear of the Lord all the day long.

While you labour thus, in every situation, to maintain communion with God, strive also to exercise continual watchfulness and holy circumspection over yourselves and others. You are as a city set upon a hill, which cannot be hid. You are sent forth as a light into a dark place, and are called to let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works and glorify your Father which is in heaven: but that you may do this with effect, you must strive earnestly that your light may be stedfast and uniform. Men will not judge of you, at least the men before whom especially your light ought to shine, will not judge of you by your public discourses or your occasional conversation: they will expect, at such seasons, holy precepts and solemn warnings and exhortations: but they will judge of you by your own private and personal conduct. "What are these men in their families? What is their conduct toward one another?" They will form their judgment from the little and the unguarded items of your conversation; and will look on your official and public acts rather as matters of business—as a man's trade, more than as any expression of his real principle.

Be watchful, then, Brethren, over all your passions, your appetites, your tempers, your conversation. Exercise a holy self-denial. Let your moderation, your patient mind, your spirit of forbearance and self-possession, be known unto all men. It was a high character, which one, not naturally of the meekest disposition, obtained from the witnesses of his conduct on some very trying occasion—that he was the man whom no one could make angry. This very calmness and self-possession has been made use of, by some who deny the Lord that brought them, to seduce others from the faith: let us learn to turn this powerful weapon to our own account, that we may win souls to Christ, and constrain men to say, We will go with you, for God is with you of a truth.

Follow peace, Brethren, with men; and holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord. Cultivate a peaceable spirit, that you may not afford a temptation to the enemy to seduce you into unholy practice. Beware of controversy. Guard against any thing like a spirit of harshness and censoriousness; and make every possible allowance for the peculiar difficulties and trials of others.

Repel, at once, any suspicions which may arise in your own minds or be suggested by others, of the firm and unalterable attachment of the Society, and of full determination to consult your real interests and that of your families, to the full extent of its power. Remember that your are, and will be, the subjects of unceasing prayer to Almighty God—that your prosperity and success will give us joy and gladness—that we shall sympathize with you in every trial and difficulty—and that, if spared to meet again in the flesh, we shall rejoice to hear the testimony of what God shall have wrought by you among the Heathen, to the glory of His Name.

Nor be discouraged, if, after labouring long, you see but little fruit. You are sowing the seed. You are planting the acorn, from which the majestic monarch of the forest shall, in due season, arise. You can never adequately estimate the effects of your own labours. The husbandman waiteth for the precious fruit of the earth, and hath long patience for it, until he receive the early and the latter rain. Be ye also patient: stablish your hearts; for the coming of the Lord draweth nigh.

We might proceed, in the words of the Apostle—Take, my brethren, the Prophets, who have spoken in the Name of the Lord, for an example of suffering affection and of patience. Behold, we count them happy which endure. But how did they endure?—as seeing Him who is invisible.—Fix, then, your eyes and your hearts on your Saviour, who, though unseen by mortal eye, is ever present with His servants. The bush burned, and was not consumed, because the Lord was there. The Young Men were cast bound into the fiery furnace; but the smell of fire passed not on them, because the Lord was there. Daniel shall rest in the lions' den; but, My God, he says, hath sent his angel, and shut the lions' mouths. Go forth, then, in dependence on this Saviour. Meditate on the example of His loving-kindness to His ancient people—on the exhibition of His power, as seen in supporting Apostles, and Martyrs, and Missionaries—on the blessed effects resulting from the labours of men like yourselves, in your own times: and thus, while you rely on the same all-sufficient grace and almighty power, be followers of them, who, through faith and patience, inherit the promises. Study their histories, and copy their example. You, my Brethren, have much to encourage you, of a temporal nature, which they had not: you have assured protection: you have a plentiful provision: other men have laboured, and you are entering into their labours. Think of these advantages, while you read the narratives of the solitary lives and the appalling dangers of many Missionaries. Think, too, of the many helpers, whom God is raising up around; and thank God, that He is thus providing Native Labourers, capable of sustaining the burden and heat of the day, who are looking to you for counsel and encouragement; desiring from you to learn the way of God more perfectly, that they may teach it to others also.

In conclusion, ever keep the end in view. It is of little consequence, whether our lives are long or short—whether our trials are many or few—when or how we die; if only it can be said, He walked with God; and was not! It is the end, which crowns the work. The Church may mourn over dying Stephen, and rejoice in the long-continued labours of the beloved John: and, for the sake of your work, we earnestly pray that God may long continue you in full vigour and usefulness; and that, as some of our Missionaries have now been many years labouring in the Stations which you are proceeding to occupy, you also may be preserved to labour during a still longer period, and with still more abundant success: but the period of the termination of our labours is of small account, in comparison with our diligence, our fidelity, and our devotedness. Be it, then, your object, as of sincerity—as of God—as in the sight of God—so to speak of Christ, and so to exemplify the doctrine of Christ, that you may be habitually preparing for His coming—that when you are ready to be offered and the time of your departure is at hand, you also may be able to say, I have fought a good fight: I have finished my course: I have kept the faith: henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord shall give me at that day; and not to me only, but unto all them also that love His appearing.

And now, dearly-beloved Brethren and Sister, we commend you to God and to the word of His grace, which is able to build you up, and give you an inheritance among all those which are sanctified. May the Divine Blessing rest upon you! May you be preserved from the dangers of the voyage—sheltered from the heat by day and the cold by night—preserved from all the temptations of Satan—abundantly blessed in your own souls, and in seeing the fruit of your labours!

ADDRESSES OF THE SECRETARY OF THE SOCIETY AND OF THE PRINCIPAL OF THE INSTITUTION, DELIVERED AT THE OPENING OF THE INSTITUTION, 31st OF JAN. 1825.

Address, by the Secretary of the Society, to the Students.

BELOVED FRIENDS AND BRETHREN—

HAVING now, during the last nine years, had most of the Students of the Society for a greater or less period in my house, previous to their leaving their native land for their labours among the Heathen, it is with no common feelings that I resign a charge which has been so interesting and delightful to me.

It has been one of my greatest comforts for that period, to have had in my family so many excellent individuals. Intercourse with them and their Christian conduct have often made my house like a lower Paradise; in which the communion of saints, and Christian love and sympathy, and hymns of praise, and social prayers, have given us some foretaste of those higher joys, in which we hope fully to participate hereafter.

I can truly say, that it seems to me impossible for human beings to have given less trouble in the family and more comfort, than the Students of the Society. My servants have invariably regretted their leaving us; and have rejoiced in their coming to us: and I feel persuaded that I, and my wife, and my children have gained many a blessing from having them with us.

It is, then, with feelings of deep regret, that I part with such a charge. Real consolation, however, is afforded, in the persuasion that the best interests of our Students, and their more effective preparation for this arduous office, will be materially advanced by the change. The incessant occupations of the Secretaryship have left me but very occasional opportunities, beyond family instruction, and conversation at meals, of attending to the preparation of our young friends for their work: and though it is my hope, that such opportunities as we have enjoyed have not been without benefits to the Students, as they have often acknowledged; yet increasing experience has shewn us the great importance, and, if we would do justice to the cause of Missions and to the Missionaries whom we send forth, the absolute necessity, of committing the Students to the care of Instructors who can give undivided and exclusive attention to the work.

The Committee rejoice to place you under the care of our friend Mr. Pearson, as one fully competent to the Office to which he has been appointed. They have spared no means nor expense within their power, that might assist your progress in knowledge and piety, give you every advantage in pursuing your studies, and promote your preparation for your labours, your spiritual edification, and your personal comfort. The present plan has cost them many hours of lengthened discussion, many anxious thoughts, and a considerable expenditure of funds peculiarly sacred.

For my own part, the more I consider the nature of this Institution, the more does the magnitude of its object rise in my view. The largeness of the design is similar to that of the Society in which it originates. The object is, that it should become a blessing, not merely to a few individuals, not merely to a large city or country, nor merely to a few nations; but that it should subserve, in its measure, the salvation of the Heathen World. Its design is not merely to do good to the present generation, but to successive generations till time shall end. Generations yet unborn, we doubt not, shall thank God for the Institution now forming. Its design is not even limited to the present period of human existence; but it reaches its benevolent intentions to bless men through eternity. It concerns not man merely; it seeks to add joy to the joy of angels—to swell the heavenly chorus, with new songs of praise, and to glorify God Himself, by making manifest the riches of His wisdom, and grace, and love in the salvation of fallen sinners—in raising them from the very depth of misery, to the height of joy unutterable and never-ending glory.

We venerate the Learned Institutions of our country. We bless God for them. They have been the Nurseries of learning and piety to our land. There, the greatest characters, that have blessed and adorned our Nation, have received the elements and first principles of their future usefulness: but, to my mind, there appears a yet higher point of blessing at which we are now aiming. Our Colleges bless our country. But, here, we hope may be trained those who shall benefit a benighted world —those, by whose labours our country itself shall fill that high office, to which, in these latter days, God has so eminently called her—that of blessing the nations of the earth which are yet sitting in Heathen Darkness, with the light of Divine Truth. This is not an Institution for one country: it is an Institution for the whole Heathen World. The first building ever set apart in this country, in connection with the Established Church, for the sole and separate purpose of training Missionaries for the evangelizing of the Heathen, is this day opened and dedicated to that sacred purpose.

To you, Brethren, we look for your part, that all these things may not be in vain. You are about to commence a new system. You will give the pattern to others, the example which may influence a successive series of Students, who will, from year to year, here be trained for their work. A bad beginning would leave an injurious impression, which might with difficulty be effaced. A good pattern, through you, will not fail to facilitate the important ends at which we aim.

You will see and feel, I venture to say, that a kind and disinterested friend speaks to you, in the advice which is now given you. You know that he loves the Missionary Brethren: you know that he desires their best interests: you have heard him pour out his heart in prayers for them: you will consider, then, the advice now given as given in sincere love.

We would, indeed, adopt the words of the Apostle, and say, Though ye know these things, and be established in the present truth, we stir up your pure minds by way of remembrance; while we call you to recollect some first principles, in which we trust indeed that you are well grounded, but which can never be too often considered.

Remember, in the first place, that you profess to be CHRISTIANS; and are called, by that profession, to live to the glory of Christ, to magnify Him, to suffer, and, if need be, to die for them. You have felt that He is worthy, for whom you should do this. He bought you with His most precious blood. He restored your souls. He sought you, when wandering far from Him; and led you in the right path. Your present, your highest joy, is communion with your risen Lord. He still intercedes for you. He upholds you in His ways; and will surely bring to His glory, all who trust in Him. Let this love of the Redeemer ever be the grand constraining motive—quickening all your devotions, animating you in your studies, leading you to submission and self-denial, invincibly drawing you to a total surrender of yourselves to God. We can bring no more weighty motives before you, than these which are common to us all as Christians; which are the first spring of our Society, and of all efforts to propagate the glorious Gospel among the Heathen — motives which, we trust, will ever be cherished in your bosoms, and burn with increasing ardour throughout your lives.

Remember, also, that you are PUPILS. Subjection and submission are specially required of pupils. If the heir, as long as he is a child, differeth nothing from a servant, though he be Lord of all, but is under tutors and governors until the time appointed; much more should those who are on the highest principles preparing for such an office as yours, yield themselves to those under whom they are placed. If there be one thing more than another in which your principles as Christians will be especially manifested, it will be in your cheerful and steady subordination. As Pupils, patient industry, also, and persevering diligence in study especially become you, while labouring to acquire the most important of all attainments—to be wise to win souls. By due attention to your present duties, you are fixing your character, as it regards your future labours. Habits of industry and application, now formed, are likely to continue through life; while habits of indolence and negligence now indulged, are not likely to be subsequently broken through. You are now, also, exhibiting to the Society that character, on which they must form some judgment of your conduct when you are far away from them. Oh that we may ever have such satisfactory evidence of your spirit, that we may have the utmost confidence and joy on sending you forth; and an unshaken conviction lodged in our minds, that, though we cannot watch over you, or be aware of all the circumstances in which you may be placed in distant lands, you will be ever consistent and conscientious in all your ways.

Remember, further, that you are set apart as CHRISTIAN SOLDIERS—the Soldiers of the Cross; and that your very profession calls you to endure hardness as good soldiers of Jesus Christ. It is of immense importance to the general cause of preparation for Missionary Labours, that the course of the Institution be begun in habits of self-denial, not to say of hardihood—that you do every thing which can be done for yourself, and requiring as little to be done by others as practicable. The great Apostle of the Heathen laboured with his own hands; and those who are followers of him will think nothing beneath them, that may really promote the good of the same great Cause. From what we have already seen of you, and from what we know of many more who have been with us, we have confidence that you will rejoice, when called to it, to sacrifice your own will, and ease, and pleasure, where they shall in any way interfere with the good of the great work to which you have devoted yourselves.

Remember, again, that you hope to be MINISTERS OF CHRIST. This is not an Institution for the general education of young persons to fill ordinary situations in life; but it is specially set apart, a School of the Prophets, for the education solely of those who are preparing to engage in Ministerial and Missionary Labours; and it has the peculiar and distinguishing character of being composed of those who are believed to be eminently pious. Holiness becomes such an Institution. Levity, Worldliness, Pride, and Self-seeking debase and dishonour it. It may either be the greatest of blessings, through your piety; or may degenerate into an unprofitable and injurious expenditure of our means, through your want of piety. Oh that the grace of the Holy Spirit may be largely poured out; and may abundantly rest on those at the Head of it, and on all the Students, and on all connected with it! Then, indeed, shall you here learn to be able Ministers of the New Covenant, and faithful Stewards of the Mysteries of Christ.

Remember, too, that you aspire to the high office of MISSIONARIES—an office, far more arduous and more responsible than that of an ordinary Minister—an office, which calls you to leave your native land, to go to new scenes and new climates; there to attack the great Enemy of Man in his own territories, and to wage an open war against him among his own possessions. It is, however, an office, in which you may expect extraordinary assistance from God, and the special aid of his Holy Spirit. To be sent of God, on your work, is the highest honour which can be conferred on human beings; and calls for corresponding diligence in preparation, devotedness to God, and deadness to the world. There are Missionary GRACES—graces of the highest order bestowed on man—which you have to attain: such as, simplicity of faith, the meekness and gentleness of Christ, ardour of love, and the sacrifice of self; such as, a holy courage, patient perseverance, unfeigned humility, deep experience, and habitual devotion. There are Missionary GIFTS to be sought and cultivated—a sound judgment, the meekness of wisdom, a discernment of character, a talent for acquiring languages, and the ability of wisely adapting your proceedings to new and varied circumstances. There are Missionary QUALIFICATIONS to be acquired—general knowledge of various kinds; and especially the knowledge of mankind, the history of the World and of the Church, and of those countries in particular to which you are appointed; and, above all, the thorough knowledge of the Word of God, and of Christ Jesus, the sum and substance of that Word. How much do you need Divine Grace, to bless your diligent preparation and endeavours for the attainment of all these things!

Blessed be God, there have been many patterns, even in these latter days, of such Labourers! Not to mention living characters, nor to go back to Apostolic Times, we would bring to your recollection Swartz, and Brainerd, and Martyn, and urge you to follow them as they followed Christ. But, after all, the Lord Jesus Christ Himself is your great exemplar. He was sent of His Father on the very work in which you hope to labour. Oh that you may be like-minded with Him; and have something of His ardent devotion, laborious love, tender compassion, gentleness and meekness, patient forbearance, and unreserved dedication of Himself to God! May the same mind more and more be given to you, to us, and to all His followers!

Once more, remember that you are BRETHREN; and are bound to love one another with peculiar fervency. How delightful is the thought, that you are indeed Brethren; not in name only, but in truth—born of one Spirit—children of one Father—engaged in one warfare—going to one home! Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfil the law of Christ. Love as brethren. Be pitiful—be courteous. Seek not your own things only, but the things of others also. Our hope, from what we have already seen, is, that the law of love will reign throughout the family—that you will mutually edify one another in love; and will be a striking evidence of the truth of David's declaration, Behold how good and pleasant it is, for brethren to dwell together in unity! You will look back, we trust, in future years, with grateful recollections on the days passed in this Institution: and the associations and friendships now formed will furnish you with many delightful hours here; with the additional blessing attached to Christian Friendship, that it never fails, but will subsist in greater purity and higher joy throughout eternity.

After the description which has been given of that high and holy character to which your Office calls you, you may feel ready to tremble, on viewing the arduous character and difficulty of the work to which you have consecrated yourselves.

But the hopes of the Society in sending you forth are placed wholly on Him, in whose Name you go. On Him alone your hopes also must be reposed. Relying with simplicity and lively faith on the promised influences of the Holy Spirit, in the diligent use of the Means of Grace both public and private, you will be both strengthened for your labours and blessed therein.

It is a source of great encouragement to the Committee, as it may be to you, to be assured that Christians not only increasingly feel their need of the Holy Spirit, but do now more publickly and constantly than ever express their decided judgment, that it is only by His gracious influences, that any part of the great work of the Conversion of the World can be accomplished. May you all seek to be filled with the Holy Ghost! This, this alone, will make you true Missionaries, a comfort to us, a blessing to the world, and the glory of Christ. Barnabas was a good man, and full of the Holy Ghost; and so, much people was added unto the Lord. The Holy Ghost is the true and effective spring of a holy character, of a faithful Minister, and of a devoted Missionary. From the Holy Ghost comes eminent usefulness, comfort in life, joy in death, and meetness for the inheritance of the saints in light. Above all, then, seek this grace. Walk in the Spirit. Fear to grieve Him. All languages and sciences which you may acquire, all external or internal qualifications, all advantages which man can communicate to you or your own best industry and talent can procure, are all unprofitable but as you are under the leading of Him, who guides into all truth, who is the Spirit of wisdom and under- standing, the Spirit of counsel and might, the Spirit of knowledge and of the fear of the Lord—

Is comfort, life, and fire of love."

When upon you, as on our Divine and Almighty Saviour, the Spirit of the Lord is poured out, and you are sent of the Holy Spirit, then will you be most effectually prepared to be Missionaries—then will you, in your measure, be anointed to preach the Gospel to the poor—then will you be sent and qualified, as your Heavenly Master shall be pleased to prosper you, to heal the broken-hearted, to preach deliverance to the captives, and recovering of sight to the blind, and to set at liberty them that are bruised, to preach the acceptable year of the Lord.

May it please the Father of Mercies and the God of all comfort that numbers may thus, from age to age, go forth from this Institution, to benefit and bless our ruined world; and that similar Institutions may be multiplied through our Land, and through the Churches of Christ in every country. Oh that the Lord may thus answer the prayers of His people, and thrust forth Labourers into His harvest, till the knowledge of His glory cover the earth as the waters cover the sea—till His kingdom come, and His will be done on earth, even as it is in heaven! To Him be all glory and dominion for ever and ever! Amen.

Address, by the Principal of the Institution.

MY LORD, AND GENTLEMEN OF THE COMMITTEE—

In meeting you for the first time since my accession to the Office, in which you have been pleased to instate me, I must be strangely insensible to be free from lively emotion. Called by your partial opinion from a retirement, that was within a few paces of absolute solitude, I should have thought it incumbent on me, had this been an ordinary convocation, to tender you the homage of a public acknowledgment, and to bespeak that indulgence on which I am aware that I shall have to draw largely in my Academical functions. But, from much of the embarrassment inseparable from explanations and professions respecting oneself, I am relieved, by reflecting, that I can hardly be permitted, on the present occasion, to glance at such topics; the business on which we are now convened being of so high and holy a nature, as almost to preclude the introduction of subordinate matters. I am truly thankful, Gentlemen, that, on my first introduction to you, I am hardly expected to appear in an official capacity; but rather to join with you, as a simple individual, as an humble Member of the Church Missionary Committee, in dedicating this Institution to the Lord, with the solemnities of religious worship. In concert with you, I would acknowledge the goodness of Jehovah in accepting our feeble co-operation in building up His temple; and I would mingle my fervent prayers with yours, to the Great Head of the Universal Church, that He would prosper, with his Divine power and blessing, our attempts to diffuse the knowledge of His Name.

The aim of this Institution is transcendently noble and elevated. In framing it, Gentlemen, you have been alive to the importance of giving to the Missionary System a more perfect organization; and one better adapted to the expanding rays of your operations, to their increasing complexity, and to the steady progress, in literature and in the arts of civil life, of many of those nations, which are still immured in the vilest abominations of Paganism. You have decided, that, in point of mental culture and general knowledge, the Christian Teacher ought to be far in advance of the people whom he labours to convert; and that none should venture into Heathen Climes, as heralds of a doctrine which demands the submission of sense and reason to faith, without carrying with them a decisive superiority in intellectual attainments and in useful practical science. Such is your decision, Gentlemen: who can impugn its correctness? Accordingly, with a view to give it effect, you have resolved to bring together the Students who have hitherto been dispersed among several Masters, and to place them under a single superintendence. Through this arrangement, an exact and uniform plan of education can be pursued; and many local facilities will be at hand, for initiating or perfecting the Students in various departments of knowledge—facilities, it may without offence be asserted, which are not within the compass of education in a country village, nor attainable under the roof of any private individual however able and accomplished. In such a Seminary, moreover, a system, both domestic and academical, may be adopted, which shall be, in some degree, preparatory to the Missionary Warfare, and under which the Soldiers of the Cross may be gradually inured to habits congenial with their evangelical destination—a system, which, by having something of an ascetic and pilgrim character impressed upon it, may fit them for that life of self-denial, I was nearly saying self-annihilation, which they have prospectively embraced.

From the assembling of the Students in one place, you will also obtain a vast advantage for ascertaining the real character, and the comparative capacity and qualifications, of each individual. Thus you will be secured, so far as human circumspection can secure you, from sending into foreign parts unholy and unqualified teachers, agents of darkness in the form and with the credentials of angels of light, who may prove scandals to the Heathen and blots on the Christian Name; thereby clothing our Society in mourning, and drawing down upon themselves an aggravated condemnation.

Neither is the benefit trivial, which this Institution is calculated to produce, by giving to the Society, of which it must needs be a prominent member, a due publicity with regard both to its objects and its measures. It is, we believe, the want of a thorough acquaintance with the character of the Society, that has checked and limited the support which it has hitherto received from those high Functionaries of Church and State, whose favourable estimation of our proceedings would be an event of great promise to the best interests of mankind. This disadvantage will be considerably obviated by the present Establishment. It will serve for a test and measure of our general operations; and will contribute, it may be reasonably expected, to propitiate many persons, whose scruples to unite with us have originated in misconception of our principles and measures.

Addressing myself to the Missionary Students, whom I truly and affectionately greet, I have great satisfaction in reflecting, that the very circumstance which connects them with us is no inconsiderable pledge of their Christian Character. It is evidence, that they not only profess to be serious in personal religion, but also to be ardently zealous for the salvation of unbelievers: and, assuredly, a want of gracious dispositions, corresponding with a profession which has gone the length of a tender of Missionary Service, would argue an insincerity or a levity of character, of which the bare supposition is inexpressibly painful.

crites may steal into this inclosure, notwithstanding its avenues are watched with sleepless vigilance, and fenced about with the most awful sanctions. This is possible; and such a possibility ought not to be overlooked. But a more probable case, one against which our precautions can hardly be immoderate, is the intrusion of self-deceivers; of men offended with the world, but not weaned from it in spirit; or of such as are captivated by the specious illusion of a wild and savage freedom; of unfixed and roving characters, to whom the future and the distant are always gilded with a light from which present objects are excluded; of persons dissatisfied with the station allotted them in the economy of Providence, who are ambitious of rising in the scale of society, impatient of subordination, and greedy of rule, who are puffed up with self-conceit, and pant for a spacious theatre of ostentatious action. I remind our Students of these corrupt incentives to Missionary Undertakings, not from any suspicions, which would indeed be groundless and injurious, of their integrity; but because I am convinced, that persons of the truest sincerity will do well to search and examine themselves, lest any such morbid motive gain a partial influence over them, and taint and enervate their better principles.

I cannot doubt, my Dear Friends, that you have frequently pondered the endowments requisite for a Missionary; and you must have perceived them to be a rare combination, no vulgar and spontaneous growth, but the product of diligent culture under an extraordinary effusion of spiritual influences. You must have seen that the Missionary Character requires a large measure of humility, to suffer what is most revolting to natural pride; of hardiness, to undergo the severest fatigues; of meekness, to put up with affronts and injurious treatment: and that it supposes an unusual subjection of the appetites and passions. You must, also, be aware, that, without knowledge—extensive, clear, experimental knowledge—you will not be competent to instruct; that, without kindness and an open benignity of manner, you cannot allay prejudices and engage attention; that opportunities cannot be observed and improved, without celerity of mind and personal activity; and that considerable skill, united with patient labour, is requisite for communicating religious truth to the dull and indocile. Neither can it have escaped you, how severe a wisdom will be necessary to discern between good and evil, and what courage resolutely to choose the one and to reject the other; how exact a judgment, to balance contending reasons; how much sobriety of mind, to avoid rash enterprises; what generosity to undertake great designs, what cautious prudence to conduct, what unconquerable energy to achieve them. To be able Ministers of the Gospel in Pagan Lands, you must LOVE THE CROSS, according to the largest sense of that comprehensive figure. You must be content to prophesy in sackloth; and count the bare honour of your holy work an ample indemnification for all which it involves, of what is grievous and terrible to nature. Without for a moment intermitting your diligence, and with a constancy of soul that is proof against incessant disappointments, you must await in hope the tardy germination of the seed which you have scattered; and be willing, after having poured out apparently in vain your whole strength of soul and body, that other men should enter into your labours, and reap with joy and singing what you have sown in tears. You must be fortified against the manifold temptations, which are incident to your vocation, and to the particular scene of your respective labours; and you must be prompt to take advantage of every opening for usefulness, which may present itself, through the civil, the domestic, or the personal peculiarities of the people among whom you may be stationed. By previous study and reflection, you must have become conversant with the features of savage intellect; and be prepared for the monstrous forms and the devious excesses of barbarous vice. But the tract of your future labours is a region of mountains, wonderfully various in form, of which I cannot pretend to trace the outline. Into this region, however, it becomes you to go forth in spirit; to expatiate through its length and breadth; to thread its labyrinths, to climb its heights, to dive into its dells, to explore its thickets, and to make yourselves familiar with all its steep and rugged and crooked paths. While you learn, by such anticipations of actual experience, the arduousness of the service in which you are enlisted, you will grow more and more alive to your natural insufficiency, and be earnest in prayer for supernatural supplies of light and strength and patience.

One principal object of these remarks is, to induce you to regard yourselves, while you remain attached to this Institution, as under education for the Work of Missions in its utmost extent and comprehension; and as bound to collect assiduously all the material and moral requisites for executing it duly. Beware of idle, frivolous, and desultory habits. In the details of your daily employment, and in the appropriation of every hour of your time, you should always be looking, directly or indirectly, at your ultimate destination. Impressed with the sentiments which I have ventured to suggest, you will deem it of high consequence to become proficients in those departments of secular learning, to which your attention will be directed by your superiors. The notion that piety alone is a sufficient qualification for entering the lists with the Atheist and the Idolater, with the Mahomedan and the Jew, is contrary to experience, and to the testimony of God both in His Word and in the visible method of His Government. The most vigorous powers of the mind, in its most advanced state of improvement, are not more than an adequate array against those powers of darkness, which have entrenched themselves in the fastnesses of man's vitiated understanding. It is the part of true piety, to avail itself of every engine, which the spirit of the Gospel does not disallow, for subverting that throne which is founded on the wisdom of the world. Turn that perverse wisdom, by rectifying its perverseness, against the apostate world itself. Be fully equipped for your services, by various literature, and by a competent acquaintance with the physical sciences and the mechanical arts; and take every occasion which may offer, of putting to the proof your ability to wield your weapons. Endeavour, in short, to be expert in all that appertains to your holy trade of winning souls to salvation. In your chamber and in your walks, in your stated or casual intercourse with others, have it always in mind to collect materials for future use; and disdain no fit ingredient of the Missionary Character, be it ever so minute.

Need I exhort you to a diligent and devout study of the Sacred Volume, that you may speak as the Oracles of God; clearly dividing and expounding revealed truths; exhibiting them in their just order and connection; enforcing scriptural positions with scriptural arguments; and illustrating them, as much as possible, in the words of Him who spake as never man spake, and in those of His inspired Apostles. Obtain clear conceptions of the Gospel Scheme of Salvation, of its separate parts and their harmonious combination; that you may not be embarrassed in your attempts to set it forth. Men, whose own opinions on religion are crude and undigested, will be apt to convey erroneous notions of the subject to others. How, indeed, should those be intelligible to another, who do not understand themselves? And, if this hold good among people of our tongue, if an indistinct thinker is sure to be an obscure interpreter, it is manifest that a preacher, to whose mind the Gospel is not present with extraordinary clearness, will be easily confused and disconcerted when propounding its sacred and mysterious verities to the uncivilized, who are little used to intellectual operations, whose language is a very imperfect vehicle of general notions, and that language imperfectly understood by the preacher himself.

Let me further invite you to consider this place as intended for a school, not less of moral discipline, than of literary culture. Neither are you to be trained for the ordinary life of Christians, but for a state of extraordinary duties, privations, and trials. On this account, there must be some peculiarities in the form and method of this Establishment; which you will, I am persuaded, interpret candidly, should you not, at first, apprehend their utility. To model this Institution exactly by the pattern of other Academical Establishments would indeed be a fatal error. Much, that might be suitable for young men who contemplate no Ministerial Service away from home, or beyond the circuit of civilized life, would be highly unsuitable for you, who are launching into quite another sphere, wherein you will have to do and to suffer what would never fall to your lot in your own country. You will, therefore, agree with me in thinking that it ill becomes the Foreign Evangelist to be self-indulgent — to be curious about his food and dress, and studious of ease and attendance. The utmost possible independence on external circumstances is the right qualification of a Missionary; by whom, indeed, the mortification of the body should be carried to a singular extent; who ought to be sublimed, so to speak, by the fervency of divine affections into an almost immaterial nature, and to be known only as a pathetic and importunate voice resounding through the moral wilderness, and publishing the glad tidings of Christ's pacification in countries which are still as a howling waste, through that primitive curse of rebellion against God, which nothing else can mitigate but a knowledge of the Great Restorer and Saviour of Mankind.

You hardly need to be reminded of the importance of cultivating a frank and generous temper, suavity of manner, and mutual benevolence. One spirit, I trust, will circulate throughout this family; and nothing like jealousy, envy, strife, or bitterness ever gain a footing among us. It is among the great ends contemplated in forming you into one household, that you should know and love one another. You are brethren, by a triple tie: for you are Christians; you are about to become Christian Ministers; and you are alike destined to a department of Christian Labour, with which no other can be paralleled, in the same extensive field, for arduousness and dignity.

MY LORD, AND GENTLEMEN—

In assuming the Government of this Institution, I confidently reckon on the good sense, the right feeling, and the pious tempers of the Students. Such an Establishment cannot be carried on without order, and order must be defined and sustained by laws: yet no onerous and galling exercise of authority will be called for, if a spirit of order and just subordination prevail. It will be my endeavour to wave, so far as is compatible with my office, all magisterial ascendancy; to enforce no restrictions, which are not prescribed by the welfare of the Institution; and to make those who are under my direction feel themselves to be friends and fellow-labourers with myself, in respect to the ultimate object of our Society—the publication to all people, of every clime and tongue and colour, of the unsearchable riches of Christ.

But what can the wisest regulations avail, and what the most vigilant superintendence, unless the power and goodness of Jehovah go with us? Be importunate suppliants, my dear Young Friends, at the throne of Grace. Beseech Him, without whom the most religious efforts must be abortive, to keep you in constant remembrance of your high and special dedication to His service; and to enable you to exhibit, in every feature of your conduct, the Divine impress of "HOLINESS TO THE LORD."

The plan of our Seminary, Gentlemen of the Committee, may perhaps appear, to a cursory glance, more vast and comprehensive than is warranted by the present state of the Society. But the Gentlemen, to whom chiefly the construction of a plan was referred, thought it wise to make the compass so wide and to lay such broad foundations, as should suit the magnificent edifice which they have figured to themselves in no distant period of futurity. And, assuredly, there is much, both in experience and in prophesy, to warrant their expectations. There is much to encourage a confident hope, that what has hitherto been witnessed of Missionary Ardour is but the first flush of that Christian Spirit, which has at length waked up to contemplate the nations that are sitting in darkness, and to acknowledge the cruel impiety of withholding from the destitute Heathen that bread of life of which we have enough and to spare. The efficacy of such a spirit, concentrated in a Society like ours, cannot fail, God helping us, to be immense. How astonishing has been the growth of the Society thus far! What a magnitude has it now attained, beyond its infant promise! Let us hope, then, that its present expansion will appear as inconsiderable, when a few more years have given you another period wherewith to contrast it, as it now looks mighty in comparison with its pigmy station but a few years ago. Already it has outgrown the rules and processes of the nursery. From a puny plant, sorely 'nipt by frosts, and but little sheltered by friendly power, it has sprung up firm and erect: it abides in strength; and it stretches to the ends of the earth its branches, loaded with the fruits of life and immortality. And since its prosperity has been purchased by no irreligious compliances, no abandonment of principle, no temporising expedients, but has been won by a wise and irreproachable deportment, we have the strongest ground of assurance, that the Lord God Omnipotent is with us. Should the hopes arising from these considerations prove abortive, no severe inconvenience is likely to result, from the necessity of somewhat contracting the present scheme of Missionary Education. But should the anticipations of the Committee of Visitors be ratified by a benignant Providence; should the field for Missionary Exertion rapidly extend; should demands multiply upon us for Labourers of a superior cast—men fitted by their talents and attainments to cope with the acutest adversaries of true religion, and to confute the caviller as well as to instruct the docile; should warmer suns and more abundant showers relax the frozen tracts of Heathenism, and cause them to develope a boundless fecundity—it may then, perhaps, be admitted, that, in laying so broad a basis for Missionary Evangelization as is laid in the present Establishment, there has been exercised a forecast arising from some higher principle than mere human calculation.

— Cuncta hæc Superûm demissa supremâ Mente fluunt.——

With respect to myself, Gentlemen, to whom you have delegated so important a trust, it would be difficult, I believe, to avow the conviction which I entertain of my manifold incapacity, without seeming to employ the language of affected humility. And yet, not to entertain such a sentiment, when entering upon a situation, to which abilities and acquirements of a high order would not be more than adequate, would argue a sad unacquaintance with myself, and a preposterous arrogance. God is my witness, how deeply I feel the need of much human help, and still more of the continued instructions and monitions of the Holy Spirit, that I may prove, in some degree, equal to an undertaking of such magnitude and moment.

I am persuaded that you, My Lord and Gentlemen, so fully appreciate the difficulties with which the outset of such an Institution is apt to be embarrassed, that I have less to dread from the severity of your judgment, than I have to expect from your candour and indulgence, My mind is also fortified by the reflection, that I shall have those at hand, to whose superior knowledge of the concerns of the Church Missionary Society, to whose accumulated experience and practised talent, I may have recourse in every exigency. Of their ability to smooth the path of my duties, no doubt can be entertained; and I expect from their wise and friendly communications the most important benefits.

May I add, in conclusion, that I derive much encouragement from the religious solemnity with which the business of this Institution has opened. The prayers offered up this morning will be recorded in heaven; if they spring, as I verily believe they do, from a truly Christian sense of the value of immortal souls, and from a transcendent love of the Redeemer. In that day, when the redeemed, of Jewish and of Gentile stock, shall be folded together under the visible charge of the one immortal Shepherd, the effects of this religious approach to the Lord and of these united supplications for His special blessing, shall be fully and triumphantly recognised. Your prayers for us, my Christian Friends, must not however terminate with the worship of this day. Pray, I beseech you, daily and fervently, to the Prince of Missionary Evangelists, the first Messenger of the everlasting covenant, that He would send us now prosperity; that He would behold and visit this vine, and make it strong and fruitful for Himself. For these Students pray, that they may be Men of God, endued with an apostolic spirit, incorrupt in doctrine, exemplary in conversation, mature in spiritual experience, and furnished with all needful gifts to go forth in the fulness of the blessing of the Gospel of Christ. And pray for their Teacher, that he may himself be abundantly taught of Heaven; and that he may receive supplies of grace proportionate to his deficiencies, to the constant duties of his office, to the emergencies for which human prudence can make no adequate provision, and to the immense responsibility with which he stands charged before God.

PROCLAMATION OF THE GOVERNOR OF NEW SOUTH-WALES, FOR THE SUPPRESSION OF OUTRAGES AND CRIMES AGAINST THE NATIVES OF THE ISLANDS AND COASTS OF THE INDIAN AND PACIFIC OCEANS.

By His Excellency SIR THOMAS BRISBANE, Knight Commander of the Most Honorable Military Order of the Bath, Captain General and Governor in Chief in and over His Majesty's Territory of New South-Wales and its Dependencies, &c. &c. &c.

WHEREAS misguided Persons often commit gross outrages in the Islands of the Indian and Pacific Oceans, and elsewhere, against the Interest of the fair Trader, and to the extreme Injury of the unoffending Natives thereof, and of Others; and also divers Crimes are perpetrated upon the Sea, and in Places where the Admiral or Admirals have Authority;—And Whereas, by an Act of Parliament, passed on the 19th Day of July 1823, Jurisdiction is given to the New Supreme Courts of this Territory, and its Dependencies, to punish and repress such Outrages and Crimes, the Provision for which Purpose is in the following Words:—

"And be it further enacted, that "the Supreme Courts in New South-"Wales, and Van Diemen's Land "respectively, shall and may inquire "of, hear, and determine all Trea-"sons, Piracies, Felonies, Robberies, "Murders, Conspiracies, and other "Offences, of what Nature or Kind "soever committed, or that shall be "committed upon the Sea, or in any "Haven, River, Creek, or Place "where the Admiral or Admirals "have Power, Authority, or Juris-"diction, or committed or that shall "be committed in the Islands of New "Zealand, Otaheite, or any other "Island, Country, or Place, situate "in the Indian or Pacific Oceans, "and not subject to His Majesty, or "to any European State or Power, "by the Master or Crew of any Bri-"tish Ship or Vessel, or of any of "them, or by any British Subject "sailing in, or belonging to, or that "shall have sailed in or belonged to "and have quitted any British Ship "or Vessel to live in any Part of the "said Islands, Countries, or Places, "or that shall be there living; and "that all Persons, convicted of any "of the Offences so to be inquired "of, heard, and determined in the "said Courts respectively, shall be "subject and liable to, and shall "suffer all such and the same Pains, "Penalties, and Forfeitures, as by "any Law or Laws now in Force, "Persons, convicted of the same re-"spectively, would be subject and "liable to, in case the same were re-"spectively inquired of, tried, heard, "determined, and adjudged in Eng-"land, any Law, Statute, or Usage "to the contrary notwithstanding."

And whereas it is expedient that the said Enactment be carried into Effect without Delay, and in a due Course of Justice;—Now, therefore, His Majesty's Subjects are hereby called upon to enforce the Execution thereof, as well by Information to be given to Public Officers, Civil, Naval, or Military, as by any other lawful Means. When private Persons witness such Offences as aforesaid, they cannot too seriously consider, that the Support, which they owe to the Laws, is in the Instance of this Statute the more important, as the Remoteness of the Countries aforesaid, and the Absence of speedy Legal Redress upon the Seas, too often facilitate the Escape of Offenders.

GIVEN under my Hand and Seal, at Government House, Sydney, this Seventeenth Day of May, in the Year of Our Lord One thousand eight hundred and twenty-four,

THOMAS BRISBANE.

By His Excellency's Command,

F. GOULBURN,

COLONIAL SECRETARY.
